WHO RUNS WPA? NOBODY TRAINED IN BUSINESS JOB

Five Billion Spent by Social Workers.

The WPA

This is the second of a series of articles on the Works Progress Administration—how it is run, what it is doing, and where it is going. The articles, prepared by three Tribune reporters after many weeks of investigation, tell the story of the vast WPA political machine, which has engulfed three million Americans and their families and has swallowed five billion dollars.

BY WILL O'NEIL.

President Roosevelt and a group of men with no background in private industry run the WPA. They have directed the spending of nearly five billion dollars. More than half of this money has been spent on construction projects.

The Works Progress administration—WPA's official title—has spent nearly 350 million dollars of this money in Illinois. The money has been spent on projects for which local governmental agencies such as the city of Chicago have acted as sponsor. And here are the national and local WPA executives that these projects must pass.

Hopkins a Social Worker.

Harry Hopkins is the national WPA administrator. He has never worked in private industry. His whole career has been that of a social worker. He has been assistant director of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, a division manager of the Red Cross, and executive secretary of the Board of Child Welfare. He was director of relief in New York state when President Roosevelt appointed him federal relief administrator in 1933.

Aubrey Willis Williams, the most influential of Hopkins' assistants, also is a social worker. He was employed in department stores and other branches of private industry prior to 1920, but has been in social work since then.

Howard Owen Hunter is Hopkins assistant in charge of thirteen midwestern states, including Illinois. When he left the army in 1918 he went into Boy Scout work. He graduated into community chest work before going to work under Hopkins in 1933.

Experience as Vice Crusader.

Charles Edward Miner, another social worker, is the administrator in Illinois. He was employed by the Y. M. C. A. and the social hygiene board in Washington before turning to anti-vice crusading.

Harold K. Seltzer is director of WPA in Chicago. He came here from a Y. M. C. A. job in Tulsa, Okla.

These are the executives who can approve or disapprove of projects submitted to WPA by sponsors in Chicago. The sponsors are such public bodies as the city itself, the park district, school board, county, and so on. The WPA executives are flanked by their own engineers and other technical experts.

Must Hurdle All Their Desks.

Any project prepared by a sponsor in Chicago must hurdle the desk of each of these men in turn. Any of them can "suggest" changes in the sponsor's proposed projects. The sponsor doesn't have to make the changes suggested to it, but neither does WPA have to send it on its way to presidential approval.

The city, especially, fights a constant running engagement with WPA. Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt does most of the fighting for the city. Hewitt's primary interest is in getting worth while work done for the municipality.

His major fight is for more WPA money for materials and supplies so there will be fewer boondoggling projects. [The city's acute lack of funds for WPA projects will be discussed later.]

At the same time the WPA executives are clamoring constantly for more projects so there will be more jobs. From all that can be learned the primary interest of these executives is to get every one who is in any degree of need on the WPA pay roll.

All Put U. to Roosevelt.

The paths of all projects converge. The airport project, for example, passed all of the WPA executive hurdles and finally landed on the President's desk. He decided that it was

G. O. P. LIBERALS WIN APPROVAL OF ROOSEVELT

Failure of Purge Tacitly Admitted.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today tacitly acknowledged the failure of his purge efforts and further antagonized members of his own party by saying he would prefer Republican liberals to Democratic conservatives.

"If there is a good liberal running on the Republican ticket I would not have the slightest objection to his election," Mr. Roosevelt declared at his press conference, permitting himself to be quoted directly. "The good of the country rises above party."

Mr. Roosevelt's statement was interpreted as a confession of failure in his efforts to drive all but yes-men out of the Democratic party.

Bears Out Rule or Ruin View.

It also was viewed as an indication of his purpose to lead a coalition of radical elements, if necessary, to obtain complete subservience to his will.

The statement confirmed a belief privately held by Postmaster James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee; Vice President John N. Garner of Texas, and other southern congressional leaders that Mr. Roosevelt cares nothing for the Democratic party as such and is determined to rule or ruin it.

Mr. Farley was at the Democratic headquarters in New York today, doing his best to compose factional differences and make possible the election of a Democratic governor and two senators from that state. When he was reached by telephone and asked to comment on President Roosevelt's observation, he was horrified.

Farley Declines to Answer.

"Don't ask me that question!" he demanded. "If you do I won't answer it."

The deep seated resentment of southern Democrats against the President's attitude was indicated today when Senator Marvel M. Logan [D., Ky.], one of the most aggressive yes-men in congress, refused to go along with Mr. Roosevelt to the extent of welcoming liberal Republicans.

"The Democratic party is the liberal party," Logan said. "I have voted sometimes for measures that did not meet my full approval, but I was swayed by party regularity and party responsibility. I believe in party regularity. If the Democrats of a state nominate a conservative I would be for his election over the Republican choice."

Fears Bloc Government.

Logan declared that the mixing of political support would lead to a bloc government with no fixed responsibility.

"A strong leader like President Roosevelt might be able to hold the blocs together behind a given program, but what is to happen after his service in the White House ends?" Logan added.

The President's appeal for what he

THE MEETING IN THE WOODSHED

Find Wealthy Woman Dead; Order Inquiry

Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Mystery surrounded the death tonight of Mrs. Peter Conrad Dings, a former Chicagoan, in her summer home on Spider lake. An inquest was ordered when the cause of death and bruises on her face were not explained.

Arrow points to scene of mystery.

Dings is a Toronto banker. He formerly was in the banking and oil business in Oklahoma, and in the 1920s was an official of the Chicago Trust company, the Illinois Power and Light corporation, and the North American Light and Power company, all of Chicago.

Body Found on Bed.

Mrs. Dings' body was found on her bed when her chauffeur, George Green, called her for dinner. The only other persons in the home were her maid and butler, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Thompson. Dings was away on business.

Coroner Eugene Sampson said he learned that Mrs. Dings incurred one of the bruises on her face when she ran into a door in her home several days ago. He said the other bruises she bore had not been explained.

Family Physician Called.

Dr. F. G. Swartz, the Dings' family physician, who was called to the estate after she was found dead, said heart trouble might have caused death. He offered no explanation, however, of the bruises.

Mrs. Dings, 56 years old, was the former Mrs. Gertrude A. Dodson of Chicago. She was Dings' second wife. She was married to him in 1924. For more than twelve years she had spent her summers on the Dings estate, thirteen miles southeast of Traverse City. She spent her winters in Chicago, Oklahoma, and California.

LEANING ON SHOVEL, WPA WORKER FALLS AND BREAKS HIS ARM

Sycamore, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Ellis Colvin, 46 years old, De Kalb, a WPA worker, is being treated for a broken arm. He broke it when he fell while leaning on his shovel in a gravel quarry here from which material is being taken for a WPA cement sidewalk project.

STUDENTS INSIST ON "LITTLE RED" SCHOOL; STRIKE

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Thirty-one youngsters of the Woodale community near here went on a sitdown strike today seeking to force the county board of education to reopen the little one room frame school which has served the neighborhood more than half a century. The students staged a similar strike last year which ended when the school was reopened.

The children, many of them accompanied by their parents, appeared at the school building this morning, sat beneath a shade tree and said they would return each morning until the school is reopened. They refuse to take a bus two and one-half miles to a modern junior high to which they are assigned. Parents say they see no reason for the children to go by bus to another school when they have their own school in the neighborhood.

Men of Big Affairs Ponder Width for Toy Train Track

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 2—(AP)—Gray-haired business men with toy trains tucked under their arms tossed another urgent railroad problem into the nation's lap tonight. Should America's model train tracks be 1¼ or 1⅝ inches wide? "Railroaders" from Missouri to Maine rolled into town for the opening of the national model railroad association's convention tomorrow. "The gauge matter is important because we want everyone to build according to the same standards, so we can run our trains on each others' tracks," National Secretary George P. Kreuz Jr. asserted.

Pick Illinois as Center for Flyers of Army

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Illinois has been selected as the military air center for the nation. In the near future the three wings of the army's air force, considered the most modern and best equipped in the world, are to be directed from that state.

Secretary of War Woodring today announced plans for a 5 million dollar home for the general headquarters air force. The GHQ air force is to be moved from Langley field, Va., to Scott field, Ill., near Belleville, as soon as the new home is completed.

Plan for Expansion.

Gen. Frank M. Andrews, commanding general of the GHQ air force and his staf are directing the construction of the new headquarters. The plans, which call for an expenditure of $4,857,400 within the fiscal year are being drawn to provide a home not only for the air force as it stands today but for expansion in the future to meet any war in which this country might be engaged.

The headquarters are being moved from the Atlantic coast to Illinois because of that state's central location and because it already is the commercial air center of the nation. The army recently completed a plan of mobilization of commercial and privately owned aircraft for military purposes in the event of war.

Provide for Barracks.

Under the new building program the present airship hangar at Scott field is being torn down because it will constitute a flying hazard under the expansion plans for the GHQ air force headquarters. The present airship mooring mast also is to be dismantled for the same reason.

The plans announced today are for the construction of two barracks, each of which will house 330 enlisted men and 32 noncommissioned officers. Officers' quarters will accommodate 62 married officers and 10 bachelor flyers. Other necessary quarters will be provided for material.

Scott field now is the station of the 21st balloon headquarters, the 15th observation squadron, seventh base squadron, and detachments of ordnance, signal corps, finance, medical, and quartermaster departments.

Davis' Sister Says She Gave $500 to Boss

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—A cancelled check for $500, which the state contends was a gangland payoff to Tammany Leader James J. Hines, was introduced into evidence late today as a climax for the end of the third week in the racket trial of the political boss.

The yellow scrap of paper with the signature, "J. Hines," scrawled on the back, was identified by the person who declared she had delivered the payment to the Democratic leader. She is Mrs. Rose Wendroff, younger sister of the state's star witness, J. Richard [Dixie] Davis, underworld disbarred attorney who pleaded guilty to the same charges on which Hines is being tried.

With Mrs. Wendroff's testimony spread on the record the state's case neared conclusion. Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora, however, adjourned court until Tuesday to give judge, jury, and counsel for both sides a "respite" over the Labor day week-end. Hines is charged with conspiracy and violation of the state lottery laws. State's witnesses have painted him as the political protector of the policy game racket operated by the late gang leader, Dutch Schultz.

Corroborates "Dixie's" Story.

The sudden appearance of the check was another surprise pulled out of the bag by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey. Here was visible evidence to back up testimony that the powerful Tammany chieftain had been on the Schultz pay roll for $500 and more a week in return for furnishing the racketeers protection from police and courts.

Mrs. Wendroff, an attractive, dark haired young woman in a stylish black wool dress, corroborated the story of her brother, "Dixie" Davis, that he had used his sister as his unwitting tool.

On four or five occasions, Mrs. Wendroff recalled, her brother had asked her to take money to Hines. Only once was the payment made by check, she said, while other deliveries of $500 were in cash. She handed over the money to Hines, whom Davis affectionately called "the old man," in the law office of Joseph Shalleck, the politician's life long legal adviser. The suite was on the 30th floor of a Broadway building.

Take Money for 'the Old Man.'

"What would your brother tell you?" asked Dewey.

"He would say, 'Take this down to the old man on the 30th floor,'" replied the woman.

Mrs. Wendroff, who acted as a secretary for her brother, remembered the payment by check occurred when

NAZI FRONTIER TOWNS REPORT TROOP ARRIVALS

Tell of Orders to Provide Billets.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 2.—Military activity in the Sudeten German territory near the German border was reported in Prague late tonight from Sudeten German [Nazi] sources. Czechoslovak troops were reported to be on the move.

The first movement reported was the arrival in Carlsbad of 40 heavily armed national constabularymen, who marched to the city hall.

The second report was from the village of Schlackenwerth, in the Carlsbad region, where billeting officers told the mayor to provide billets for troops, including heavy artillery units.

The third was from the village of Ellbogen, where the arrival of motorized units, including tanks, was reported.

British Mediator "Disturbed."

No confirmation of these alleged movements could be had from government quarters. News of them was telephoned to Viscount Runciman, British mediator between the Czechs and the Sudeten Germans in the dispute over the latter's demand for self-rule. Runciman, who was at the British legation, where he had dinner with Premier Milan Hodza, was reported to be "considerably disturbed."

Whatever excitement may have been caused in Carlsbad had no echo in Prague. The general opinion here is that no dramatic moves are to be expected in the near future.

Another step in the negotiations between the Sudeten Germans and the government took place today when two Sudeten German spokesmen, Deputy Ernst Kundt and Dr. Wilhelm Sebekovsky, had a four hour conference with President Eduard Benes. It was reported that the Sudeten Germans submitted counter proposals to the government's latest plan for dividing the country into cantons.

Reiterate Old Demands.

These counter proposals, it was said, were simply a restatement of the eight Carlsbad points set forth by Konrad Henlein, head of the Sudeten German party, and the amplification which the points received in a later Sudeten German memorandum.

A Sudeten German spokesman admitted that parts of the government's proposals did meet the Carlsbad program. He said the Sudeten Germans were willing to accept these portions.

The Sudeten Germans made one concession. They told President Benes that they did not insist upon adoption of the exact phrasing of the Carlsbad points, but would accept different words provided the essentials were preserved.

See Clever Nazi Maneuver.

"In other words," an unofficial Sudeten German spokesman said, "we said we were willing to accept the government's plan provided it is identical in everything but wording with our plan."

Altogether, it appears that the Sudeten Germans have cleverly maneuvered to postpone any definite decision until Reichsfuehrer Hitler has had a chance to speak at Nuremberg during the Nazi party congress there next week. There is little chance that President Benes and Premier Hodza will be able to get their government coalition of six parties to come to any agreement on the Sudeten German counter proposals within the next three days.

HENLEIN QUITS BAVARIA

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Henlein left after holding his second conference in two days with the German dictator. The Sudeten German chieftain had flown from Czechoslovakia to Berchtesgaden, near where Hitler's summer home is located, Wednesday night. He reported to the German dictator on the status of the negotiations with the Czechs over the demands of the 3,250,000 Sudeten Germans for self rule.

Following today's meeting a communique was issued saying Hitler and Henlein were in complete accord.

"The Fuehrer [Hitler] today received Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten Germans," the communique said.

"Henlein came upon the wish of Lord Runciman [British mediator between the Czechs and the Sudeten Germans] to give the Fuehrer a report on the present status of the negotiations with the Prague government.

"The Fuehrer took cognizance with interest of the explanation. There resulted a complete accord in their judgment of the situation.

Nazis Deny "Grab" Plan.

Official German circles insist that the Nazis are opposed to incorporating the Sudeten German area of Czechoslovakia into Germany.

"All we are striving for is to help to create a home rule that will enable the Sudeten Germans to govern their own district and will make it possible to coöperate loyally with Prague," these officials say. "Only if this basis can be found can Czechoslovakia survive. It is a matter of life and death for her."

The Nazis state that if a compromise is achieved the Sudeten Germans must insist on their right to influence Czechoslovakia's foreign policy. They cannot allow the country to be allied to soviet Russia, it is declared. The Czechs insist that an understanding with Russia is necessary to protect themselves from isolation.

HALIFAX QUITS LONDON

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, suddenly left London for Yorkshire today to attend to personal affairs. His departure from the foreign office, where he has met advisers and diplomats every day since Monday, was taken to indicate that the British do not expect any serious flareup in the Sudeten German-Czech dispute over the week-end. It was said, however, that Halifax would keep his bags packed, ready to dash back to London tomorrow or Sunday if necessary.

The government has adopted a policy of wait and see pending further disclosure of what Hitler has in mind. Reassuring reports were printed in London newspapers that Hitler had promised the British government he will take no precipitate action in Czechoslovakia.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, who is at Balmoral, kept in close touch with Downing street by telephone today. All information from Berlin and Prague immediately was communicated to him.

SHANGHAI YANKS ASK U. S. PROTEST ON JAP POLICIES

SHANGHAI, Sept. 2. — (AP) — The American community committee of the American Chamber of Commerce today cabled to Secretary of State Cordell Hull a series of demands which it seeks to have presented to the Japanese. The committee represents all organized American interests in Shanghai including ten missionary organizations.

The demands included recommendations that the state department request return of American property in areas occupied by Japanese, with indemnification; that asserted censorship of the mails be discontinued, and that rights of travel and commerce on railways and inland waterways, including the Yangtze river, be restored.

In the cable, the committee said Americans in Shanghai were alarmed over the steady progress of Japanese plans to oust American and other trade from China. Monopolies, trade and travel restrictions, and control of commodities and exchange in North China were cited.

Hull Studies Demands.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull said today he was studying carefully the recommendations from a committee of the American Chamber of Commerce in Shanghai. He said he had not yet decided what action to take.

500,000 WORKERS THREATEN TO TIE UP FRENCH PLANTS

Government Seeks to Settle Disputes.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The French government desperately fought today against a strike movement which threatened to engulf France at a moment when the international crisis over Czechoslovakia already was severely taxing statesmen in their efforts to preserve peace.

Labor ministry arbitrators, using every means at their disposal, tried to settle the labor conflict, involving nearly 500,000 workers who threatened to strike.

Red Flags on Factories.

They scored a minor, short lived victory by reducing the number of strikers in textile plants at Amiens from 14,000 to 2,500, but tonight the workers walked out again.

Red flags were hoisted over 24 factories at Amiens and Abbeville and pickets occupied the buildings. Crowds of strikers demonstrated in streets of both towns, carrying banners demanding that Premier Edouard Daladier "respect the social laws or resign."

Leftist workers and members of the Paris region unions numbering 20,000 demanded that Daladier resign as they demonstrated their opposition to his plan for scrapping the 40 hour week.

Demand Satisfaction.

Building trades and northern textile industry workers numbering several hundred thousand stood hard on their threat to go out unless they got satisfaction on pay and collective contract demands.

The labor problem was considered by the cabinet in a 2½ hour session devoted for the most part to the international situation.

At Lille 800 municipal street car workers remained in their barns, forcing the citizenry to walk to work. The dispute concerned the discharge of thirty-seven employés.

The General Confederation of Labor stood firm on its promise to back any workers outside the arms industries who refused to carry out the government's new decree extending the 40-hour work week.

J. G. Kimball, Mormon Church Officer, Killed

AMBASSADOR KENNEDY FORECASTS PEACE; HITS AT DICTATORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 2.—United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy made a diplomatic thrust at the world's dictators today in a speech at Aberdeen, Scotland. He demanded that the world's youth be given a better deal than "a short life carrying a gun."

Ambassador Kennedy spoke at the laying of the corner stone of a memorial to Samuel Seabury, first Protestant Episcopal bishop of the United States, who was consecrated by the Scotch bishops on Nov. 14, 1784, in Aberdeen.

Referring to the current European situation, Ambassador Kennedy predicted that a peaceful settlement would be found. He said the people of the world do not want to fight each other.

Civil liberties must be jealously protected, he said. Freedom of worship is the most precious of them all, he declared.

IL DUCE ORDERS JEWS BARRED FROM SCHOOLS

Teachers and Students Hit by Decree.

ROME, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Jews were ordered excluded today from state recognized schools and universities as Premier Mussolini took another step in his avowed determination to "march straight ahead" in application of the Fascist race doctrin.

A decree approved at a cabinet meeting over which Il Duce presided, provided for dismissal of Jewish officials, teachers, and students from all schools whose diplomas are recognized by the state.

In elementary schools Jews even were barred from being janitors or custodians.

Jews also were ousted from learned academies, institutes, and associations of letters, arts, and sciences.

Effective on Oct. 16.

An exception was made for those who already have started their university studies. They will be permitted, under special circumstances, to continue until graduation.

Like yesterday's decree ordering out all Jews who have settled in Italy, the Ægean Islands and Libya since Jan. 1, 1919, today's order defined as Jews all persons born of parents both of whom were of the Hebraic race, regardless of religion.

The ousting of Jewish teachers, school administrators, and academicians will become effective Oct. 16.

It was estimated the teachers who would be thrown out of jobs would run into the hundreds, and the number of students cut off from the school system possibly would reach 10,000.

Jews May Have Own Schools.

Jews presumably will be permitted to organize schools of their own for their children, but diplomas of such schools would not be recognized by law.

Though the government last month barred foreign Jews from schools and yesterday banished all Jews who entered Italy since the world war, today's measure was the first against Italian Jews, many of whose families have been in the country for centuries and in some cases have been Roman Catholics for generations.

The task of expelling Jews entirely from the administration of the state and limiting their participation in "the full life of the nation" on a ratio of one Jew to 1,000 Italians will be carried out Oct. 1 by the Fascist grand council.

Jews Seek to Come to U. S.

The British passport office in Rome and the American consulate in Naples reported many inquiries from Jews concerning possible emigration to Great Britain and the United States.

Although returns from the recent census of Jews have not been announced officially yet, a reliable source said it disclosed there were nearly 85,000 Jews in the country, of whom 20,000 entered since 1919.

HUNGARIAN CABINET SHAKY, PARIS HEARS; NAZI MAY BE PREMIER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 2.—News reached Paris today from Budapest, via diplomatic channels, that the cabinet of Prime Minister Dr. Bela Imredy is gravely menaced and that Imredy may be supplanted by a pro-Nazi. At the same time a sensational report of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's summary treatment of Admiral Nicholas Horthy, Hungarian regent, and Imredy during their recent visit to Germany also reached here from a semi-official source.

Before the Hungarians' visit Italy warned Hitler, it was said, that Budapest intended to pursue an anti-Nazi policy. Horthy at the last moment decided not to make the German trip, but Hitler was reported to have sent him a virtual ultimatum, threatening to intensify Nazi propaganda in Hungary. So Horthy went, but Hitler refused to talk politics with him, this report indicated.

A conversation in which Hungary was said to have promised passage of German troops in case of attack on Prague took place after the Kiel naval parade and in the absence of the regent. Hitler called Imredy to his ship and dictated orders to him, not even asking him to be seated, it was said. When Imredy returned to Budapest he issued a statement saying: "Despite the great friendship of Hungary and Germany, I never have and never will sign any accord of subjection to the reich."

ONE SOLDIER NOW EQUAL TO 5 WITH NEW ARMY RIFLE

The United States army's new semi-automatic rifle, which has five times the firing speed of the rifles now in use, was demonstrated yesterday for the first time in Chicago by Lieut. Col. Alfred B. Johnson. He is ordnance department officer in the Chicago office of the war department.

The gun, a .30 caliber type which holds eight cartridges, will replace the Springfield rifle, which has been the standard weapon since 1934. The new rifle's chief advantage is the rapidity with which shots can be fired. Lieut. Col. Johnson estimated that a trained soldier can fire six shots in five seconds and about fifty in a minute.

As the trigger is pulled and the bullet released, he explained, the gas from the explosion automatically expels the empty cartridge and another immediately is thrown into place.

BRITISH CRITICIZE U.S. ENVOY; SAY HE TALKS TOO MUCH

Piqued Because He Bared Bid for War Aid.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The British press today gave United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy a hint that he is talking too much.

Kennedy's popularity here seems to be undiminished, but the British are dismayed at his outspokenness about diplomatic secrets. The British press, which in perilous times is closely in touch with the government, called attention to Kennedy's powers as an orator as contrasting to his prowess as an ambassador. Kennedy probably would not claim to be an orator and the newspaper articles apparently were facetious.

Cites French "Astuteness."

Talking about Kennedy's speech at Aberdeen today, in which the ambassador appealed for peace and criticized dictators, Viscount Rothermere's Evening News said:

"Ambassador Kennedy carried on the tradition of eloquence in American ambassadors here. Representatives in London of other great powers do not seem to run so much to flights of oratory."

After mentioning the speeches of Joseph Choate, who was the American ambassador in London at the turn of the century, Gen. Charles G. Dawes of Chicago, and the late Andrew Mellon, who also were United States ambassadors here, the article continued:

"Most of the Frenchmen who have come to France's embassy here have been known more for their astute diplomacy than for their eloquence. On the few occasions when M. Corbin [the present ambassador] speaks he has given the impression of wanting to say as little as possible and to sit down as quickly as he could."

Piqued at Kennedy.

This may be a reflection of the British pique at the fact that Kennedy disclosed two days ago that the British government had approached him as to what the United States attitude would be towards England in case of war.

Kennedy called in a mixed audience of newspaper men on Wednesday and talked confidentially to them. Why he touched on a subject considered a dark secret is best known to himself.

In any event, the dispatches cabled back here from New York suggested that the effect of the Johnson act, which prohibits loans to foreign governments in default to the United States, the neutrality act, and the general American attitude are under review now between Washington, D. C., and London.

JAPANESE BATTER HANKOW DEFENSE; SAY IT IS BROKEN

Battles Rage in Drive Up Yangtze Valley.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 3—[Saturday].—(AP)—Japanese military dispatches today reported Japanese forces in Central China "definitly had broken" the outer line of defense about Hankow, Chinese provisional capital. The Chinese countered this with flat denials and asertions that Japanese thrusts were stopped on all fronts by slashing counterattacks.

Thousands of Japanese were killed and wounded in the Yangtze river sector, the Chinese asserted. They said the heralded Japanese push toward Hankow was turned into "disaster."

Both sides agreed there was violent fighting with heavy casualties.

Japs Enter Honan.

The Japanese reported from Liuan, Anhwei province, that the vanguard of their forces on the Anhwei front had pushed westward, occupied Yehkiatsi and entered Honan province. Yehkiatsi, on the Anhwei-Honan provincial border, is 130 miles northeast of Hankow and about 140 miles due north of Kiukiang, Yangtze river base of the Japanese operations aimed at Hankow.

The Japanese said that in taking Yehkiatsi they were preparing to try to push another 125 miles west and take Sinyang, on the Peking-Hankow railway 110 miles north of Hankow.

Batter at Walls of Town.

South of this front the Japanese reported their forces were pounding westward from Hwangmei, 25 miles north of Kiukfang and 105 miles southeast of Hankow. These troops advanced 30 miles and were battering at the walls of Kwangtsi, the Japanese said.

The defenders of this town fought the invaders to a standstill, the Chinese reported.

On the south bank of the Yangtze the Japanese reported successful thrusts west of Juichang with the aid of continuous bombing of Chinese reinforcements. There was heavy fighting.

Japs Close Bars at 10 P. M. as New War Restriction

TOKIO, Sept. 2.—(AP)—All business establishments, including bars and restaurants, will close at 10 p. m. after Oct. 1 in a tightening of wartime restrictions throughout Japan.

SPANISH REBEL GUNS BLAST TRENCHES OF LOYALISTS ON EBRO

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Sept. 2.—(AP)—Spanish insurgents reported their artillerymen broke a deadlock on the Ebro front in Catalonia today with a heavy bombardment of the government's growing circular fortifications there.

While a lull continued in all other sectors, the insurgents' field guns hammered the government's front and rear trenches near the Ebro. Militiamen were reported to be completing new government fortifications in that area in the expectation of more insurgent attacks.

There were scattered exchanges of artillery fire on the Estremadura front in southwestern Spain, where the insurgents are attempting to capture the rich mercury mines of Almaden.

In Burgos the insurgent régime issued a mobilization order for youths now 18 years old who were born in the months of April, May, and June.

14 NAVY PLANES REACH BASE AT PANAMA CANAL

The planes, making up squadron 5, patrol wing 3, left San Diego Wednesday, but made a 24 hour halt in the Gulf of Fonseca, on the Central American coast 650 miles northwest of here, where some planes had to refuel. Strong headwinds compelled the stop.

COUNTY POLICE JOIN COURTNEY IN BOOKIE WAR

Axmen Roam City; Find Only 8 Dives to Wreck.

Sherif John Toman yesterday swung his forces into the war to clean up gambling in Cook county. His was the third agency to get into the drive. His deputies and county highway police made raids in three areas around the city.

State's Attorney Courtney's ax raiders meanwhile brought their total of places wrecked to forty-six. They raided eight places yesterday. City police raided four gambling joints.

Sherif Toman's men, who have made sporadic raids in recent days, went to work in earnest yesterday after Toman got word that there was a general exodus of operators from the city to the county spots as the result of Courtney's drive. He said that for the last week his men have been raiding as fast as they can catch up with the gamblers.

"We will continue to knock them over as fast as they light," he asserted. "We are doing all right in court, too," he added. "We have had at least five convictions of gamblers. We haven't lost a case." [Prosecution of the cases is under the jurisdiction of the state's attorney whether in county or city.]

In the northwest section of the county Toman's men hit two places, one at 9211 Lincolnwood avenue, Niles Center, where fifty patrons were routed and three men arrested, and the other at Wagner road and Lake avenue, Northfield township. Fifty were routed there and three arrested.

Willow Springs county highway police raided 8107 Ogden avenue, Lyons, where they arrested three. At 6520 South Cicero avenue, Stickney township, they arrested the same number. Another squad raided 5937 Roosevelt road, Cicero, with the same result.

Seize Eight in Three Raids.

Eight men were arrested in raids on three books by Homewood county highway police under Lieut. Fred Mulhausen. The places were at 12330 South Halsted street, Calumet Park; 13111 South Western avenue, Blue Island, and 15419 Center avenue, Harvey.

City police of the morals division, under Lieut. Edward Le Fevour, raided 1146 South Wabash avenue, where two were arrested; 7413 Cottage Grove avenue, two seized; 5952 West North avenue, two arrested, and 230 South Wells street, two also.

Warren avenue police also did their bit in the anti-gambling drive. Detectives James Carpenter and Lawrence O'Keefe raided a policy game relay office at 137 North Western avenue and arrested Thomas Moore, 1324 South Racine avenue, and Joseph Yeatman, 139 North Western avenue, Negroes. Then they visited a handbook at 2804 Lake street and seized George Butler, 127 North California avenue, as keeper and Edward Richard, 2858 Madison street, as a patron.

Wreck Eight Places.

Five squads of Courtney's police yesterday ranged the city in a hunt for handbooks left open after Thursday's campaign of smashing telephone centers. Most of the squads visited one to four places before they found one open. The day's work netted eight books with from three to 200 patrons in each.

The places raided and wrecked were at 4736 North avenue, where there was also a blackjack game; 605 North Troy street; 747 East 48th street, a book catering to Negroes which also housed a blackjack game; 1000 East 43d street; 1023 East 43d street, which also housed blackjack, roulette, and poker layouts; 2136-38 South Wabash avenue; 2910 Broadway, and 1224½ Bryn Mawr, where poker and blackjack also were part of the attractions.

Dennis Cooney Accused.

The Rev. Philip Yarrow, head of the Illinois Vigilance association, yesterday disclosed that he has made charges to Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, and Commissioner James P. Allman that Dennis Cooney, old time vice lord, is the real head of Chicago downtown gambling and vice. He also charged that police are taking orders from Cooney and protecting his racket interests.

The Illinois Bell Telephone company refused yesterday to reveal any detailed information about telephones in connection with handbooks. It said such information must come from the state's attorney.

"Officials of the company are cooperating with the state's attorney, the police, and the courts," the company said.

Engaged to Dall

[Associated Press Wirephoto: From Bachrach.]

KATHERINE LEAS.

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Miss Katherine Miller Leas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stewart Leas of Haverford, Pa., is engaged to Curtis B. Dall, New York, former son-in-law of President Roosevelt.

Miss Leas attended the Shipley school, Bryn Mawr, Pa., and Miss Porter's school in Farmington, Conn. She was introduced to society in the autumn of 1935 in Philadelphia and Richmond, Va.

Mr. Dall was a member of the class of 1920 at Princeton and, in the world war, served overseas as an ensign in the naval aviation forces. For several years he was a member of the New York Stock exchange. He is now interested in oil financing.

Dall in June, 1926, married Miss Anna Eleanor Roosevelt. This marriage ended in divorce in Minden, Nev., in July, 1934. The former Miss Roosevelt now is married to John Boettiger.

POSSE SEARCHES FOR KIDNAPERS OF RANCH WIFE

Abductors Bind Husband; Demand $15,000.

Yuba City, Cal., Sept. 2.—(AP)—A rancher's report that his wife had been kidnaped for $15,000 ransom started a man hunt in California's Peach bowl today.

Armed ranchers, National Guardsmen, and justice department agents joined the search. It was started a few hours after W. R. Meeks, the rancher, notified police that Mrs. Meeks, 55 years old, had been bound and carried off by two men who invaded their home just before midnight.

Meeks told Sherif A. W. Kimerer that the kidnapers apparently entered the house while he and his wife were at the front door saying goodnight to guests.

Raiders Ransack House.

The rancher reported that the two men, one of whom brandished a pistol, ransacked the house and collected $6 or $7 in cash before mentioning kidnaping. He said the invaders then bound Mrs. Meeks and himself.

"Unless you pay $15,000 by midnight Saturday you'll never see your wife again," Meeks quoted the men as saying.

He said they broke into his garage, took his automobile, and drove away with Mrs. Meeks in it.

"We'll contact you in a couple of days for that $15,000," the rancher said they told him as they carried Mrs. Meeks to the car.

Rancher Frees Himself.

Meeks said he worked himself free of his bonds and telephoned the sherif. He was unable to give a complete description of the men, but said they appeared to be about 24 years old and 5 feet 9 or 10 inches tall. He said they were roughly dressed and wore handkerchiefs over the lower part of their faces.

Four hours after the kidnaping his automobile containing Mrs. Meeks' purse and glasses was found in Marysville, twelve miles north of the Meeks ranch.

Orchardist neighbors of Meeks grabbed pistols and rifles and formed posses. Justice department agents were sent to aid in the investigation.

Meeks said he was unable to raise $15,000 but added that he would sell his orchard if necessary in his attempt to meet the demands.

Nazis No Longer Venerate Plea, 'Lord, Make Us Free'

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The inscription "Lord, make us free" has been removed, as being outmoded, from the façade of the Hall of the Marshals, a Nazi shrine where fourteen victims of the 1923 Nazi beer cellar putsch lie buried. It was there that Adolf Hitler, marching with his early associates after reaching a pact in a tavern, met armed state police who shot and killed the fourteen. They have been venerated as martyrs since the Nazi accession to power.

THISTLES WORRY AUCTIONEERS AT PATTEN MANSION

The late James A. Patten, once known as the wheat king, loved Scotch thistles. He loved them so much that auctioneers are a bit dubious about the success of the sale of furnishings of his mansion at 1426 Ridge avenue, Evanston, Sept. 12, 13, and 14.

Nine fireplaces use vast amounts of marble and mahogany carved in a thistle pattern. There is a huge block of oak, cost $2,000, carved in a thistle motif. A specially made grandfather's clock has hands cut out like thistles. In the mullioned windows are various designs—all with thistles.

The Scotch thistle also appears in tile flooring, light fixtures, wall paper, and table legs. Where three angels are painted on a wall, they carry thistles. The Patten home is already being razed to make way for nine residences to be built on the square block of grounds.

ORDERS 14 HELD IN HEAT DEATHS OF 4 CONVICTS

Coroner's Jury Charges Criminal Negligence.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Fourteen officials and guards at the Philadelphia county prison, including Supt. William B. Mills and his deputy warden, were held for grand jury action today in the "baking" deaths of four hunger striking convicts.

A coroner's jury found the superintendent, Deputy Warden Frank A. Craven, ten guards, and two prison physicians criminally negligent in permitting the felons to perish.

The convicts died Aug. 21 in a punishment cell which was heated to a high temperature. Twenty-one others in the small chamber were made weak and ill. The torture treatment was termed comparable to that suffered in the notorious "Black Hole of Calcutta."

Fourteen Officials Suspended.

The fourteen officials immediately were suspended by the board of county prison inspectors. Dr. Frederick S. Baldi, chief prison physician, was appointed acting superintendent in place of Mills.

The fourteen were taken into custody today in a crowded city hall courtroom at the conclusion of a three day inquest. Mills and Craven were released under $10,000 bail each. Bail of $5,000 each was fixed for three guards and bonds of $2,500 each for the remaining seven guards and two physicians.

Guard Sergeant James Hart, who testified that he turned on the heat under a standing rule, was not among those held. Deputy Coroner Vincent Moranz had told the jury guards should be exonerated if it was found they had acted under orders.

Investigators Test Heat.

In the meantime investigators ended their test of the heat from a battery of radiators in the death cell block. They left the punishment chamber at noon after enduring a night and half a day of temperatures of at least 100 degrees.

Perspiring and weak, they hurried from the prison and entered automobiles. They said they would place their findings before State Secretary of Welfare Charles I. Engard, who is in charge of a state investigation.

Grief Over Dog's Death Is Blamed for Suicide

Grief over the death of her pet fox terrier was given as the main reason why Mrs. Mabel Owens killed herself by leaping before a Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin train in an elevated station on Wednesday. Her husband, Claude, 320 North Kedzie avenue, told a coroner's jury yesterday that his wife also had been ill.

WIN OR LOSE— LADY HAS THIS BET SEWED UP

Lieut. Thomas Kelly of the state's attorney's police has become accustomed to finding all sorts of things in the handbooks he raids. Women have dropped their knitting in their hurry to get out when the axmen arrive. One man yesterday dropped a crutch and fled without it under the stress of fright.

But perhaps the strangest item was the one Lieut. Kelly found yesterday when he raided 1023 East 43d street. It was a sewing machine. On it was a note:

"Personal loan. Lady. $2."

Lieut. Kelly said he hoped she won. But win or lose, if she can prove it's hers, she can have her sewing machine back.

EX-CONVICT IN WPA SENTENCED.

Stephen Geller, an ex-convict who said he was a WPA worker and lived at the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 4 East 111th street, was sentenced yesterday to one year in the Bridewell by Judge George B. Weiss for carrying concealed weapons.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

OF SOME ACCOUNT

By CALEB

A BESPECTACLED YOUNG man with sateen sleeve protectors sat on a high stool and bent over a great, leather-bound ledger.

"September 5, 1883," he wrote, and then, "Brignoli; black mare, purchased Iowa City, May 18, 1879, $165. Sold to Mr. Yager, $130." The scratching of his pen stopped for a moment as he paused to inspect and clean it. Presently he resumed his writing, thumbing through a neat pile of receipts.

"Two cans enamel at 22 cents; twenty pounds harness leather at 36 cents a pound; 1500 bushels oats at 42 cents; 167 tons of hay at $12 the ton." After some tentative scratching on a slip of paper, he added. "Two-horse truck, No. 79, six months depreciation to $245.50."

So ran the accounting fifty-five years ago for the Marshall Field & Company delivery barns, entered in a great ledger, still preserved among the records of the company. The book makes fascinating reading, for it brings unmistakably the nostalgic scent of harness leather, the sound of hoof beats in the street.

But more importantly, it sheds some light on the methods that began early to distinguish Marshall Field in his business ventures. To his insistence on integrity and honesty Mr. Field added a third cardinal principle of thorough-going analysis and complete knowledge of the business and its affairs.

Adequate accounting was much less common among business circles in 1883 than it is today. Mr. Field insisted that the only way to know what one's business might be doing was by adopting the best and most modern devices for charting it. And so even the equipment in the stables was religiously tabulated, depreciated, analyzed, compared, its performance or failure noted, the investment amortized and properly allocated to the operation involved.

We are often asked to attribute reasons for the growth and expansion of this business under Mr. Field's leadership. We think this page from the early accounting system has an important bearing on the matter. At least, it makes a point that we have been careful to observe and follow in carrying out the various ideals and principles adhered to by the founder of this business.

WHO RUNS WPA? NOBODY TRAINED IN BUSINESS JOB

Five Billion Is Spent by Social Workers.

So he signed what is known as the presidential letter of authority. This provided that not more than $1,881,868 federal funds could be spent. The city agreed to spend $50,782, or 2.6 per cent of the total cost of $1,932,650.

The presidential approval, however, doesn't mean that WPA must spend that much money on the airport. It merely allows WPA to spend up to the limit set in the letter.

Hopkins has $1,425,000,000 to spend in the period which began July 1 and ends next Feb. 28. He decides, after conferring with the President, how much of this to spend each month. Then he and the President decide how much of that each state is to get.

Miner, in Illinois, then decides how much each of the seven districts in the state is to get. Chicago is a district in itself.

Can Divert Funds at Will.

Finally Seltzer takes his allowance for the month and decides what projects he will operate and how much he will spend on each project. Thus WPA could shut down the airport project at any time and use the money on some other project.

This power to distribute money where and as they please gives everyone from the President on down a powerful political weapon and is a sword of Damocles constantly hanging over the head of the local sponsors.

The United States treasury department provides the only check on the spending of huge sums of money. All of WPA's buying is done through and by the procurement division of the department. WPA can say what to buy and how much of it is wanted, but the procurement division does the buying.

The real watchdog is the accounts division of the department. It is a dry as dust division because it's nothing but accounting. But here is the rein that keeps WPA from spending more than it has been given. Accounts makes sure that no more than the amount specified in the presidential letter is spent on any project. When accounts says the money is gone the spending stops.

Hopkins can say where the money is to be spent. But he can't actually spend anything but his own pay check.

BUDGETS OF 86,000 RELIEF FAMILIES REDUCED BY CRA

The budgets of 86,000 Chicago families on relief were cut to 85 per cent of the minimum need yesterday by Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief administrator. He said the reduction was necessary to make available funds last the rest of the year.

The cut represents a 5 per cent reduction from August when new funds, supplied in June by a special session of the legislature, enabled the CRA to meet about 90 per cent of the need. Lyons pointed out, however, that the September reduction is almost completely offset by increased supplies of federal surplus commodities for relief clients. The cut placed the relief family budget at about the level maintained until the city's relief funds were exhausted last April.

Neil H. Jacoby, assistant professor of finance at the University of Chicago, was appointed to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday by Gov. Horner.

SOCIAL SECURITY FUNDS POUR OUT FOR U. S. DEFICITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Social security taxes are pouring out of the treasury coffers into nooks and crannies of the administration's vast burocracy.

The treasury handles all social security funds. It dumps social security taxes into the general fund of the treasury. From there part of them go for the purpose intended. The remainder are used to meet the deficits piled up by the government's spend-lend jamboree.

The process is not as simple as that, but the results are the same. From taxes collected the treasury pays current needs of the social security program. Then it transfers funds from the general fund to a special old age reserve.

Treasury Dips Into Reserve.

The treasury dips into this reserve, appropriated by congress, spends the money as it pleases for current needs, and leaves I. O. U.'s as tokens. Thus the treasury borrows from itself with the promise that it will pay itself back at some future date. The only way it can pay itself back is by collecting more taxes.

The much discussed reserve for old age pensions at present consists principally of these I. O. U.'s and not cash. If the present policy continues the reserve can reach a maximum of 47 billion dollars in I. O. U.'s by 1980, excluding benefit payments. In the meantime, the 47 billion dollars collected through taxes will have been spent for current needs or for transferring the public debt from private hands into the treasury fund for the benefit of the aged.

The current needs for which these social security taxes are used may be salaries for government employés, battleships, benefit payments to farmers, wages for WPA employés, salaries for federal theater actors, interest on the public debt, loans and grants for public works, or any of the hundreds of ways in which government revenues are used. There can be no exact determination of what did happen to the taxes.

How Funds Are Handled.

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES.
Social security taxes received..	$ 888,000,000
Paid out:
Grants to state.....	468,000,000
Administration expense .. .	38,000,000
Transfer to old age reserve..	690,000,000
Total paid out.....	$1,196,000,000
OLD AGE RESERVE.
Appropriations by congress ..	$1,125,000,000
Interest on investment	18,000,000
Total	$1,143,000,000
Less benefit payments	6,000,000
	$1,137,000,000
OLD AGE RESERVE ASSETS.
3 per cent treasury certificates	$ 700,000,000
Appropriation credit	435,000,000
Disbursing account	1,000,000
Total	$1,136,000,000
UNEMPLOYMENT TRUST FUND.
Deposits by states	$1,094,000,000
Interest on investment	18,000,000
Total	$1,112,000,000
Withdrawals by 28 states....	$ 228,000,000
Total	$ 884,000,000
UNEMPLOYMENT TRUST ASSETS.
2½ per cent treasury certificates	$ 872,000,000
Disbursing account	12,000,000

Based on Estimates.

In the old age reserve account the transfer from the general fund is included in appropriations from congress. The yearly appropriation is based upon estimated tax collections for old age pensions during the year. The law provides that appropriations should be determined on an actuarial basis, but this has not been done.

Only six million dollars has been paid to date out of a "reserve" of more than 1 billion dollars. This leaves the greater portion to be borrowed by the treasury from the reserve and spent. The treasury certificates, backed only by the promise of the treasury to pay, constitute the I. O. U.'s. The appropriation credit is the amount to be paid into the appropriation account from tax collections during the remaining eleven months of the current fiscal year.

These collections then also may be borrowed and spent by the treasury and replaced by more I. O. U.'s. Thus the practice of spending the old age funds keeps expanding.

Disbursing Fund of Million.

The disbursing account item represents cash left in the fund to meet current needs. This is a paltry million dollars out of a reserve of more than a billion.

The old age pension provision of the act calls for benefits of from $10 to $85 a month, beginning at 65 years of age, beginning in 1942. Benefits to date represent lump sum settlements. Up to July 31, taxes collected from employés and employers for the pension fund totaled 738 million dollars.

Other provisions of the social security act allow outright grants by the federal government to states with approved programs. The unemployment trust fund is only handled for the states, all of which now have unemployment insurance.

U. S. Pays for Admnistration.

The federal government only pays for administration of the state plans and taxes employers for this purpose.

But, as the table shows, the federal government has dipped its hand into the state funds to the extent of 872 million dollars, practically all of the fund. It again left its I. O. U.'s. The federal government compels the states to hand over the unemployment taxes.

Other state grants include old age assistance for persons over 65, up to $15 a month, matched by the state, aid to dependent children and aid to the blind.

State Grants Made.

State grants from 1935 to July 31, 1938, under the social security program were as follows:

Old age assistance.....	$351,000,000
Aid to children.....	46,000,000
Aid to blind.....	11,000,000
Unemployment insurance administration	60,000,000
	$468,000,000

While the government spent only 60 million on administering state unemployment insurance, it collected 150 million from employers for this purpose. This left 90 million for caulking deficit chinks.

Government officials have admitted that social security taxes now are larger than necessary, but will prove handy in meeting the federal deficits now stringing along for nine years. But treasury officials point out they are acting strictly within the law. This says that all taxes must be considered as general revenues and must be spent as such.

Roosevelt Statement Stirs Up Hornets' Nest in Georgia

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Georgia politicians were stirred today by President Roosevelt's pronouncement in Washington that he favors a clear-cut division between liberals and conservatives and would welcome the election of liberals irrespective of party lines.

Leaders who understand Georgia politics expressed amazement that the President, a part time Georgian, could be so poorly informed on the state's traditional Democracy. They also were surprised that he would make such a statement in view of the political fight he faces here.

Bad Politics, Say Workers.

At the headquarters of United States District Attorney Lawrence S. Camp, the Roosevelt-indorsed candidate in the purge campaign against Senator Walter F. George, workers admitted that the statement was bad politics.

Friends of Senator George were jubilant, believing the President's approval of "a good liberal Republican" will have a disastrous effect on Camp's candidacy in wool hat rural Georgia, where Republicanism amounts to political suicide.

Camp has been charging that Senator George is tainted with Republican support. Observers said that the President's statement tended to knock the props from that charge. It was felt that Roosevelt's declaration actually will put the brand of Republicanism upon Camp.

Whole Purge Questioned.

One typical comment was: "In view of that statement, what right has Roosevelt to read anybody out of the Democratic party?"

Most of Georgia is hidebound Democratic, although there is Republican strength in a few northern Georgia counties.

Senator George, in a speech tonight at Greenville, made no comment on the President's new blast at congress conservatives. He is expected to do so later, however.

There was considerable speculation today on the significance of a demand by Camp that Senator George make public the contents of a letter.

Demands Right to Know.

Camp charged last night that the letter was written to President Roosevelt and that the people of the state are entitled to know its contents.

Camp said the President received the letter at Los Angeles before he embarked on his Pacific fishing cruise, a trip that preceded his indorsement of Camp last month.

Roosevelt indorsed Camp in a speech in Barnesville, Ga., and declared: "What I am about to say will be of no news to Senator George, because I have recently had personal correspondence with him, and as a result of it he knows my views."

G. O. P. LIBERALS ARE ACCEPTABLE, SAYS ROOSEVELT

calls liberal support, regardless of party affiliation, recalled his efforts to persuade Senator James P. Pope [D., Idaho], a yes-man who was defeated in the Democratic primary, to run either as an independent or on the National Progressive [La Follette] ticket. Chairman Farley stepped in and blocked this attempt.

In 1934 Mr. Roosevelt supported the La Follettes in Wisconsin, ignoring the Democrats. In 1936 he induced the Democratic candidates for governor and senator in Minnesota to withdraw in favor of the radical Farmer-Laborites. Also, in 1936, he supported the radical Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, a former insurgent Republican, against the Democratic nominee.

Hand-Picked Candidate.

James H. Fay is the hand-picked administration candidate against Representative John J. O'Connor [D., N. Y.], chairman of the house rules committee, and Fay is the candidate of the communist-Socialist-C. I. O. American labor party. If Fay fails to defeat O'Connor in the Democratic primary the administration will support him on the American Labor ticket in the general election campaign.

Chairman John Hamilton of the Republican national committee issued a statement applauding Mr. Roosevelt's appeal for the support of liberal Republicans.

"We shall not even recall Mr. Roosevelt's recent lamentation concerning the immorality of crossing over party lines in this year's campaign," Hamilton said.

"But I cannot believe that Mr. Roosevelt actually means what he says, because if he does his statement constitutes a repudiation of the New Deal and a large number of his followers on capitol hill.

"True liberals, today as always, are those who are making a determined fight against the centralization of governmental powers in one man.

"True liberals never would vote for irresponsible fiscal measures and for monetary tinkering which chiefly benefit a few speculators at the expense of the industrious farmer and worker. True liberals today are fighting against domination of the labor movement by government burocrats."

NORTH CAROLINA MAN APPOINTED AS AID TO WAGE-HOUR BOARD

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, announced today appointment of A. L. Fletcher, North Carolina commissioner of labor, to be assistant administrator in charge of compliance. Andrews told newspaper men today he believed the first court test of validity of the wage-hour law would arise over the question of "where interstate commerce begins." At the same time he expressed the opinion the act undoubtedly is constitutional, adding that "even the most conservative lawyers" had told him it would stand up in the courts.

REVEAL SCHEME OF TVA OFFICIAL FOR LAND PROFIT

Deal and Job Offered to Members of Family.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—A personal letter written by John I. Snyder, $8,500 a year head of the TVA land acquisition department, proposing a land deal on the Little Tennessee river to his New York in-laws provided a sensation at today's final hearing in Knoxville of the congressional committee.

At the end of today's session, which completed seven weeks of hearings, the committee adjourned, subject to call. Senator Vic Donahey [D., O.], chairman, said the investigators probably would be called together within the next two months in Washington.

Snyder's letter was written to his father-in-law, John E. Connelly, 22 East 40th street, New York City, in January, 1934. It suggested Connelly put up the capital—some $15,000—to gather in a tract of 4,800 acres worth $45,000. In a short time, as Snyder pictured it, the property would pay off the $15,000 and make a profit of $30,000.

Snyder's Position Cited.

It was pointed out that in this proposal Snyder was not trying to get property sought by TVA nor seeking to sell property to TVA. But his letter indicated he sought to take advantage of information he obtained as a high TVA official to suggest a business deal for members of his family.

As head of TVA land acquisition, Snyder has had charge of buying about half a million acres for $25,788,179. The total acquisition, when the experiment in hydro-electric and social planning is completed, is estimated at about one million acres at a cost in excess of $50,000,000.

The land which Snyder's letter said gave him an idea for making money is at the postponed Fontana dam site on the Little Tennessee river. It has a slate quarry. It is owned by William R. Hamilton of Knoxville.

Slate Lease Obtained.

In the early days of TVA there was a plan to put slate roofs on the houses at Norristown, near Norris dam. Snyder, then in the legal department, got a lease, so he testified, that gave TVA access to the slate quarrying for almost nothing, but the roofs at Norristown got other covers than slate.

Unpaid taxes and creditors were about to send the Hamilton tract under the hammer. Whereupon, Snyder wrote to his father-in-law about the chance to make a handsome profit. He suggested his brother-in-law, Al, be sent to Knoxville to handle the deal. He also said he believed he could offer Al $2,500 a year for a part-time job with TVA. [Presumably Al is a son of Mr. Connelly, although this was not brought out.]

Regrets His Action.

Five days after writing the letter, Snyder sent a telegram to his father-in-law saying: "Further investigation shows investment suggested in letter not warranted. Forget it."

Testifying today, Snyder declared: "I realize now that what I did was wrong and is subject to criticism. Now that I am in public service, I would no more think of writing such a letter today than I would of flying."

The letter was read to the committee by Representative Thomas A. Jenkins [R., O.].

"I was regretfully thinking of the opportunity which this property offers to make some money," Snyder wrote.

"It will be sold under the hammer in sixty days from Feb. 12 to satisfy creditors' claims of approximately $4,000. Back taxes thereon are a little over $5,000. The property, I believe, can be conservatively valued at $45,000.

Describes Location Angle.

"This property is almost surrounded by land of the Aluminum Company of America, which they have acquired in connection with their project of building another dam on the Little Tennessee river. They have their largest producing plant in this area and they offered $35,000 for a very small strip [about 100 acres] of the property on the river edge. Their offer was refused, the owner presumably holding them up for all he could get. [The Aluminum company later acquired the tract.]

"Part of the tract is good bottom land, and with the authority's acquisition of farms in this area, the necessity of replacing these farms arises and there is a market for the same.

"This farm land will sell here for $20 or $30 an acre. At the moment I do not remember how much of this tract is good farm land, but it is a substantial amount. The owner tells me there are 8,000,000 feet of marketable timber on the property which he now has offers for and which presumably could be sold immediately."

The letter also said there was marble on the property which might offer profitable opportunities.

Calls Owner Inadequate.

Snyder wrote that if all this were true, his father-in-law might wonder why the owner had not been able to raise the $4,000 to satisfy the creditors' claims and prevent a forced sale. He said he had the answers, one being the hopeless inadequacy of the owner [Hamilton], another the title situation.

"The owner of one of the large marble quarries in this section has offered to take a mortgage on the property if title is cleared," Snyder wrote. "I know, through my negotiations in connection therewith and my dealings with all the attorneys in the matter, as a result of a title abstract which I have had made, the title can be cleared in comparative short space of time."

Snyder's letter then made several suggestions to his father-in-law.

"Send Al [the brother-in-law] down here," he wrote. "I can arrange for his firm to grant him a leave of absence for one year to work for me. I will have him appointed on part time basis and offer him what, in my opinion, is one of the most interesting jobs a lawyer might have to tackle.

"He would be out with Dr. H. A. Morgan, president of the University of Tennessee and one of the three directors of the authority.

Suggests a Salary.

"On a part time proposition, i. e., approximately one-half of a lawyer's day, I believe I could justifiably offer him $2,500 per year."

The letter went on to say that $4,000 would have to be put in escrow to stop the property being advertised for sale and that $5,000 should be raised for back taxes, but that a deal might be worked out for waiving penalties of $1,500.

"Over the period of a year," the letter said, "Al should have approximately $3,000 to $6,000 as working capital. In other words, I am estimating a total of $15,000 to be secured by a first mortgage on the entire property which will represent only one-third of today's value of same."

Snyder's letter suggested a corporation be formed to acquire title to the property free and clear except for this $15,000 mortgage and the TVA slate lease. The owner [Hamilton] would get one-third of the stock and Al would hold two-thirds as Connelly's representative.

Expects Board Approval.

"I should like to discuss this matter with the board of directors of the authority before proceeding with it and have no doubt they will approve, but I desire to put myself in a position to avoid any possible criticism," the letter declared.

Snyder wrote that he had not discussed the matter with the owner but could make the deal.

"Al would have to promote this proposition," he wrote, "on his own initiative, as I should not concentrate on it and the owner would be useless to him.

"If the foregoing interests you I would suggest you wire me at once and I shall have the property more than conservatively appraised by our board of appraisal and on review, which consists of three men. Shall also have the timber cruise made at once and shall obtain maps and the expense of doing these things I can guarantee will not exceed $100."

They were being led by Mae Blalock, attractive sweetheart of Basil Banghart, one of the toughest of the defunct Touhy gangsters, now in prison. Miss Blalock herself was being led by Detective Chief Frank Littlejohn of Charlotte, N. C.

The appearance of Miss Blalock, sometimes known as Mrs. Basil Banghart, was unscheduled, and came as a surprise to police headquarters. It was announced in Charlotte on Thursday that she and Chief Littlejohn had left North Carolina for Chicago to start the treasure hunt.

Already in Chicago.

The information was slightly incorrect. The two were already in Chicago. They registered at the Stevens hotel Thursday, and checked out late yesterday. They did not say where they were going.

The money represents the unrecovered portion of $105,000 stolen by Banghart, Ludwig Schmidt, and other Touhy gangsters in a mail truck robbery near Charlotte on Nov. 15, 1933. When Banghart was arrested some time later $16,000 was recovered on him; $8,000 was found elsewhere. Banghart was sentenced to thirty-six years' imprisonment and Schmidt to thirty-two years' imprisonment for the crime. Since Banghart was already under a ninety-nine year sentence in Illinois for the John Factor kidnaping, he was returned to Illinois. He is now in Joliet prison.

Pardoned in Kidnap Case.

Miss Blalock herself also met trouble. In her efforts, it was said, to recover part of the mail truck loot, she was arrested on a state charge of kidnaping Rufus Costner of Knoxville, Tenn., a brother of Ike Costner, who was convicted with Banghart and Schmidt for the mail holdup. She was sentenced to forty-five years in prison in 1936.

Recently Gov. Gordon Browning of Tennessee pardoned her. He said the kidnaping charge was fictitious. Miss Blalock promptly agreed to help show the authorities where the balance of the mail loot could be found. It was in or near Chicago, she said. The journey here and last night's search resulted.

HUNTER, 14, HEADS FOR CITY WITH PELT OF BIG KILL

Lester Clay Essig Jr., a freshman at Lane Technical High school, will be in Chicago today with the pelt of a 1,700 pound polar bear he killed in the far north with an arrow.

"Dad saw the bear first," the boy said last night in Toronto, Ont. "Then the Eskimo pilot made sure it was a bear swimming."

The lad took his first aim from 60 feet. The arrow struck the beast in the shoulder. A second arrow hit him in the right shoulder. A third shot, from 30 feet, pierced the animal's heart. The boy will have the trophy mounted and will present it to his school. He is 14 years old.

Two years ago he made a similar kill on a hunting trip with his father. The hunt this year was made at North Twin Island in James bay.

Essig senior said he took movies in color of every detail of this year's kill, "just to show the folks at home." The family lives at 3200 Lake Shore drive.

Gets 2 Years and $1,000 Fine on Morals Charges

Russell M. Combs, 6551 Wallace street, was sentenced to two years in the Bridewell yesterday on two charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. In addition Judge Joseph B. Hermes fined him $200 on each of five charges of indecent exposure.

IDENTIFY SUICIDE AS CHICAGO BOND SCANDAL FIGURE

The Central station police breathed easier yesterday. They identified fingerprints of a man who committed suicide in a Pittsburgh jail on Aug. 12 as those of Louis Swinberg, alias Weinberg, Swenberg, Swanberg, and Jacob Port, who was much wanted here. He had been arrested in Pittsburgh Aug. 6 for purse snatching.

Swinberg caused a lot of trouble and embarrassment a year ago when Judge Cecil G. Smith of the Municipal court released him on a $1,000 unsecured bond and Swinberg skipped. Judge Smith said he acted on advice of William "Big Boy" Cannaday, or Kennedy, a precinct captain in the 11th ward, who told the judge that Swinberg was a good citizen.

Swinberg was arrested on a charge of purse snatching. When his case came up neither he nor Cannaday could be found. Swinberg had a long record as a thief, and the police were ordered to find him. Sergts. Elmer Johnson and William Carney of the Central station were given warants for Swinberg and told to get him the moment he returned to town. Yesterday they were advised that the case is closed.

THIS LAND OF PLENTY.

Government purchases of butter have nearly reached the authorized limit of 75 million pounds. The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation will buy 10 million pounds of it from the Dairy Products Marketing association to distribute through relief agencies. Butter is one index of subsistence sufficiency. When Germany made military power its chief national necessity people were told that as between guns and butter they'd have to do without butter. Butter and milk are taken to mean a fat country and a well nourished people. An abundance of fats and grains should be sufficient proof that a country is prosperous and that its people are living well.

None of the great countries except the United States produces grains and fats sufficient for its population. Russia could if its people were intelligent and free. The Russian peasant was a pretty low order of mentality in the beginning and the imposition of communism upon him took away the little sense he had by destroying the only ambition with which he was possessed—to own and cultivate his own land.

None of the other great European countries can raise its own food, not even Germany under the best of conditions. Great Britain has to keep its bread line open and, living in constant war scares, must try to store up foodstuffs for war. Italy has drained marshes and studied improved methods of intensive cultivation with some success, but still must impose subsistence conditions upon its population. Some of the small countries which do not make war their chief government preoccupation or find that it is their chief dread do better.

The United States produces so much that, our government being what it is and acting the way it does, the overabundance constitutes a problem. There is too much wheat, too much butter, too many fine cheeses, too much cotton, too much of almost everything. Too many, also, of people who cannot get enough to eat. The government which tries to restrict the acreage growing the necessities of life and the luxuries of the table is also trying to take the products off the hands of the people who produced and cannot sell them and dole out a bare subsistence to the people who cannot get them.

Our federal planners are buying up wheat to export it at a loss, they are making loans on cotton to carry it over in storage, they are buying butter and other dairy products to keep them off the market, they don't know what to do with the corn crop which has been produced in spite of their efforts to keep it from being grown, and they have nearly a third of the nation on their hands in one way or another, these people being forced to depend on the planners for their subsistence. The mass of destitution is completely surrounded by bounteous products of natural wealth which people cannot touch unless somebody gives it to them.

Young people coming out of school do not know where to find work or how to fit themselves into any useful self-sustaining place in society. Even in school they had learned to rely on a federal organization, and for many of them there is nothing ahead except what the planners will give them, so long as the planners have charge of things.

Butter, the index of the prosperous and well fed nation, wheat, the staf of life, cotton, the great textile fiber, fats, hides, building materials—everything required by life, civilization, high standards of existence and a good national culture—are everywhere about, almost burying the millions of people who can't touch them until some federal planner puts these necessities in their hands. And this is the sixth year in which the planners have watched the steady progression of their schemes, making more unemployment, more destitution, more tragic maladjustment of all the elements that might make a prosperous nation and a contended people. They continue proclaiming their superior good will, their better intelligence, and their obstinate determination to keep on what they are doing, regardless of what happens to anybody.

These planners when they began their work were free to blame everybody they thought they could condemn for the situation as it was. They have had their way ever since. The responsibility for things as they are is upon the shoulders of the people whose program is being carried out. The contradictions existing in a land abounding in riches and in destitution at the same time are the work of the New Deal.

INLAND NAVY YARDS.

Under our century-old treaty governing the Canadian border there are no frontier fortifications on either side of the line. Likewise, neither nation is permitted to maintain warships on the Great Lakes without the consent of the other, and in practice this provision has meant that neither nation has done so.

When this naval treaty was made [1817] there was still much bitterness between the two countries and no doubt the absence of menacing armaments on both sides served to promote peace. But latterly it has become apparent that no such device is required to maintain good relations between the United States and Canada. For all practical purposes the United States is and has been for many years the guarantor of Canada against any foreign aggressor. Mr. Roosevelt's recent pronouncement to that effect was nothing more than the statement of a long recognized responsibility.

In view of this informal but none the less binding obligation which is acknowledged by the people of this country as well as by their government, it may be wise to modify the treaty to permit and encourage warship construction at yards on the Great Lakes. To do so would in no conceivable circumstance menace Canada. On the contrary, the supplementing of our present navy-building facilities would provide an added protection to Canada.

At present the shipyards at our inland ports are deprived for reasons no longer valid of an opportunity to bid on warship construction. The coast cities enjoy a monopoly of this large and growing business. Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago and other lake ports could concentrate on the production of destroyers, submarines, and all other naval vessels small enough to pass through the St. Lawrence locks. Shipyards in these cities would be relatively safe from enemy raids and in any event the appropriations for naval construction would be more widely distributed over the country.

CONFIDENT REPUBLICANS.

The speeches made at the Illinois Republican convention at Peoria and the resolutions adopted indicate that a profound change has occurred in party morale. Two years ago, at the beginning of the presidential campaign, the Republicans counted the cost of New Dealism in the nation and the state and foretold the failure of the schemes, despite the billions spent and to be spent. In 1936 the economic indexes were trending upward and the majority of the voters refused to heed the warning.

Today there is no need to forecast failure. The prophecy of 1936 has been realized at every point. It is not necessary today to argue that if certain policies are not abandoned dire consequences will ensue. They have ensued. The burden of proof is no longer on the Republicans. They have been proved right and because of that fact they enter the campaign this year with all the moral factors on their side.

It is no longer necessary to predict, for example, that excessive taxation and governmental warfare on business will produce a depression; the Roosevelt depression is here. It is not necessary to warn against the spread of communist influence in government; everybody can see that the Democratic leadership is the willing prisoner of the C. I. O. and that the C. I. O. is the prisoner of the communists. It is not necessary to argue that the trend of the New Deal is toward one-man rule, for the Supreme court bill, the dictatorship bill, and the Democratic purge all prove the fact beyond any possibility of doubt.

The Peoria convention saw the Republicans sure of the strength of their position and eager to place their case before the people. The Republicans are united; the Democrats are torn with internal feuds and are forced to go to the people to explain a record of promises broken and expectations disappointed. No wonder the Republican candidates and platform breathe confidence.

DRAWING CLOSER TO THE BRITISH.

The United States and Great Britain have a condominium, territory which they occupy and administer together. It's small and fairly secure from attack by predatory neighbors, being composed of the two little Pacific islands of Canton and Enderby. If an acquisitive power should seek to pick them up the British and American fleets would rush to the rescue. The islands are good for aviation. The United States and Great Britain bumped heads in trying to pick them up and decided not to wrangle about them but to take them in joint tenancy, under a working agreement without a political settlement.

"Even so," remarks the London Spectator, "this example of cordial Anglo-American collaboration in the Pacific will not go unmarked by other Pacific powers." Meaning, it would seem, Japan. There isn't a condominium in Singapore, but the American navy, if its ships should happen to be in the vicinity, have privileges there granted no other warships. They may use the naval base facilities. Just now with something like a war scare persisting in Europe much is made in Great Britain of Mr. Hull's recent speech in which he said: "When freedom is destroyed over increasing areas elsewhere our ideals of individual liberty, our most cherished political and social institutions, are jeopardized."

Of this speech the Manchester Guardian observes: "It will not be the fault of Mr. Cordell Hull, the American secretary of state, if his countrymen do not believe that we are all members one of another and that, whether they like it or not, they are and will be affected by the revolutionary tides that now threaten to sweep over what is to them the outside world."

In spite of the American recession from the Philippines and from the Caribbean the American frontiers are expanding. We may have a border incident near Czechoslovakia. Would this be a good time to renew the offer to take the British West Indies as part payment on the debt before the obligation becomes larger? Probably not.

Editorial of the Day

NOTHING NEW.

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

If they know their Indian lore, believers in the time honored axiom which claims that there is nothing new under the sun should find support for their theory in the fishhook controversy now going on in Alabama. In an effort to promote better fish conservation, I. T. Quinn, game and fish commissioner for that state, is trying to "sell" anglers on the advantages of the barbless hook for catching such fish as bream, crappie, and perch. A straight hook, he claims, makes this type of fishing finer sport by giving the fish a better chance to escape. By not injuring the fish the death rate of those thrown back into the water is lessened, and even with such a device there is only one chance in eight or nine of losing a catch.

To many fishermen the idea of a barbless hook may be comparatively new. But students of early American history can tell them that such hooks are hundreds of years old, and were used in this country long before white men ever roamed its woods or dropped a line in its streams. Examples of the straight hook made of bone may be found in various museums. And their efficacy would seem to be vouched for by the acknowledged fact that the Indian had to make his fishing trips successful if his simple larder was to be filled.

Whether or not the barbless hook is widely adopted in Alabama, that state's attempt to introduce it gives rise to questioning thoughts on the subject of modern ingenuity. Have we really so much today that men of other centuries didn't have? Aren't many of our modern ideas, in truth, simply new arrangements of old patterns? Couldn't we well give a bit more credit for inventiveness to those early eras which "moderns" often speak about with haughty condescension?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THIS IS POETRY DAY

THE LINE has always had an especial affection for its contributing poets, whether it publishes their verses or not. Year after year, since the foundation of this column in the first decade of the century, they have been singing helpfully, cleverly, often beautifully; and their authors have been manifestly sincere workers in a difficult form of literary expression. A large portion of The Line's mail—about one-half, it seems—contains poetry, and, although much of it never gets into print, the rejected matter has always formed a ground swell of encouragement to the various Linemasters.

Therefore the present editor of the column declares that today is Poetry Day in honor of its verse writers. This decision was prompted by a note from the author of "Let's Go Slumming," printed three days ago, which stated that she had been trying to make The Line for four years without success. Most of The Line's poets are like that; they don't give up the ship. So this is their day, to be celebrated by the publication of as many poems of recent contribution as the column will hold.

First, a song in the vein of civic pride, which was inspired by the Chicagoland Music Festival. One stanza has been omitted, in order to save space for other offerings:

CHICAGOLAND

(Air: "America the Beautiful.")

O, glorious for lake and plain
And maze of silver streams,
For wealth of mine and golden grain
Beyond our dearest dreams.
Chicagoland, Chicagoland,
A realm with gems thick sown,
City and town adorn thy crown
And magnify thy throne!

O, glorious for mighty marts
And temples grand and high,
And for the beat of kindred hearts
Beneath thy far-flung sky.
Chicagoland, Chicagoland,
Kissed by the saltless sea
The winds of fame shall waft thy name
Through all years to be!

O, glorious for valiant men
Of strong, devoted soul,
Whose record of the sword and pen
Is an unblemished scroll.
Chicagoland, Chicagoland,
God grant that over thee
Shall wave with stars and red-white bars
The ensign of the free!

Frank Earl Herrick.

Now for a short piece to give variety—a city vignette in rime, almost Japanese in its brevity and simplicity of suggestion:

WINDOWSILL RHAPSODY

A little strand of ivy,
A little spray of phlox,
A little bit of heaven,
My garden in a box.

G. Vivian Rossi.

The favorite theme of The Line's poets, and of all others, should be represented—that is, Love. This lyric has a Swinburnian rhythm, and is not too sentimental:

APPEAL TO DIANA

I walk in the spell of your glamour,
Wrapped in your silvery light;
The stars are paled by your beauty,
And the wind walks hushed in your sight.
Your tresses of mist-spun silver
Are caught by the green-fingered trees,
And the petals of your loveliness
Are unfolded with the breeze.
Moon, so fair and beloved,
Ageless since time began;
You know this heart of a woman,
Do you know the heart of a man?
Then tell me, Queen of Knowledge,
Is he true, does he love me still?
(But the moon she cannot answer,
And my lover never will.)

Louisa.

Something light and in the modern manner should come next. The following verses, giving an impression which every automobile driver has felt, are by a recent discovery of The Line's—a young person with an original touch who appears to be making a hit with the present Linemaster:

THE NIGHT HAS EYES

Driving along at night
Did you ever watch

Who's hiding behind
Those twin sparks of fire?
A fox? A lost farm cat?
Look out! There goes a rabbit!
Eyes beside the road

Melissa Van Sant.

A poem on Death must be fitted into the pattern, for the theme is standard. The following verses contain a figure of speech which carries ironic overtones, and which is cleverly sustained in five different allusions.

CLOSED, BY ACT OF GOD

Life answers the eternal call of Spring,
And suddenly the world is green once more;
But where is all the joy we found in living?
Death walks across the stage and slams a door.
The grass, the flowers, the trees are only props
Against a painted canvas sky of blue.
How can the play go on, when in my heart
No one could ever understudy you?

Eleanore Merle Ireland.

EPITAPH

Here lies a true poet!
He'd not even curse
Unless he could say it
In blank-ety-blank verse!

Jazbo of Old Dubuque.

ECZEMA IN INFANTS.

ANY one with the temerity to define the term eczema hazards his professional reputation. At any rate it is not a disease, but a manifestation of something that has gone wrong somewhere in the body. The trouble may be traced frequently to a food or to some other material to which the child is allergic [sensitive]. The skin lesions, however, can be described with fair accuracy and we recognize swelling, a reddish rash, watery blisters, and then the crusty, weeping stage with the production of a substantial quantity of gummy exudate.

Ordinarily this will coagulate and dry on the surface, although scratching and rubbing may keep the parts constantly raw and oozing. After a time the excretion subsides, whereupon scales form and healing begins, only to be succeeded—if the irritant has not been removed—by another cycle of like character.

If a babe is to be afflicted with this distressing malady it may occur as early as the third or fourth week of life, although as a rule it will come on some time in the first few months. While the little one may look well nourished, nevertheless the general appearance is anything but healthful. The red, blotchy areas are particularly prominent on the cheeks and the chin, although at times the scalp, the forearms, and the legs may be affected. If bacteria have invaded the lesions we are faced with inflammatory reactions which may become quite serious and are sometimes attended with a fever.

Foods are likely to be responsible and, in most instances, careful studies will identify the culprit. The elimination of one substance after another must be tried in order to fasten the guilt where it belongs. Now and then the edible itself is not at fault, whereupon we must look to some one of the products of digestion. It is rarely advisable or necessary to skin test these children.

With nursing mothers the suggestion has been offered that changing the maternal diet may so alter the milk as to bring about an amelioration of symptoms. Unfortunately this seldom will prove effective. It may mean that the omission of some other element or, now and then, the substitution of condensed milk or a modified formula for breast nutriment will be desirable. Egg white and wheat are the most common causes. A mother reported to me recently that her infant had been perfectly well until she had tried cow's milk, whereupon a violent reaction ensued. Among other like offenders are orange juice, house dust, feathers, animal dandruff, and silk and wool.

At about one year of age the phenomenon seems to wear itself out, although it may not subside until the end of the second year and some cases have been observed in which it persisted well into adult life. The reason for the tendency to spontaneous recovery is that an immunity to the inciting factor has developed.

Not long ago I saw one of these sensitive children with whom as little as one-quarter of a teaspoonful of cooked wheat cereal would transform within 24 hours a smooth, clear skin into a blazing eruption. Foregoing additional feedings of the grain was followed within three or four days by complete subsidence. Abstinence resulted in freedom from difficulty, and now, at the age of 15 months, the little chap can take a modest amount of wheat without the slightest bad effect. A larger portion, however, will still produce the lesion.

Treatment includes, first, the elimination of the specific excitant or vaccination against it. The greatest care must be exercised not to permit the victim to scratch or rub the sores and sometimes mittens may be needed for busy hands. Soap and water must not come into contact with the skin during the acute period. On the other hand, a starch poultice is both soothing and healing. Occasionally a sedative will be helpful, as many of these youngsters exhibit a nervous inheritance and hence are more susceptible to eczema, hay fever, asthma, and other disorders that may be traced to allergy.

TUBERCULOSIS DANGER.

P. I. writes: I am 16 years of age and work with an elderly man about 55 years old. This man had tuberculosis when he was young. He coughs and spits all the time. We eat lunch together. Do you think I am in danger?

REPLY.

If your fellow worker has tuberculosis in an active form and is expectorating live bacilli, you are in danger. He should have a careful examination. Hawking and spitting, however, may not indicate a serious lung disease. If the condition proves to be tuberculosis, a change of environment on your part is suggested.

EXCESSIVE PERSPIRATION.

E. K. writes: What is the cause of excessive face perspiration on hot days?

REPLY.

The cause is obscure, but some disturbance of the nervous system is a factor. It is an episode similar to blushing. Many individuals observe that the palms of the hands always are moist; others, that the feet perspire excessively. All such instances are accounted for on the ground that the blood vessels of the parts are abnormally dilated. If the condition bothers you, dry the surface gently by patting and then apply a dusting powder that contains a small amount of boric acid and alum.

PROPER BREAKFAST MENU.

O. G. G. writes: Just how much should an average man eat for breakfast? We have had a discussion on this.

REPLY.

I am a great believer in a substantial breakfast, as early morning is the time to break one's fast. Furthermore, the stomach is in excellent tone to carry on the digestive processes after a good night's rest. A breakfast for a normal man not engaged in active labor is as follows: Fruit, cereal [if desired], 1 egg, 2 slices bacon, buttered toast, and coffee, tea, or milk.

RUPTURE.

S. L. R. writes: I contracted a rupture eight months ago and have been wearing a truss since that time. Would it be injurious for me to swim? Could I wear some other protective device while swimming?

REPLY.

Constant wearing of the truss is the price of safety. While in the water you may remove it with relative safety, as the buoyancy of the water will relieve the abdomen of pressure. Swimming to the point of fatigue should be avoided.

ONE SELF-WILLED MAN.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—It is incredible that just one stubborn, self-willed man, raised by the accident of political upheaval to high position, could bring this nation to a state of economic disaster far beyond anything that it has experienced since its founding.

Demanding and receiving unlimited powers under the plea of emergency, upon him alone rests squarely the responsibility for the present state of the nation.

The loss occasioned by six years of one man misrule goes even beyond the power to estimate:

In the unprecedented increase of public debt.

In loss of material wealth brought about by the decreased production of industry, largely the result of downright persecution.

In the utter destruction of the limited morale and spirit of self-reliance of a large portion of the population.

In the fostering of class hatred.

In the attempted wrecking of the plan of government which had made our nation first among the people of the earth.

In the continued threat to all our liberties through the centralization and even usurpation of powers never even contemplated in the constitution, the basic law upon which the integrity of our government rests. TES.

OPEN SEASON APPROACHES.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—The open season soon will be here when the hunter may go forth and lawfully gratify his instinct to kill. When three men kill nearly 200 rabbits in one day; when two men kill 19 pheasants in a day; when two men slaughter nearly 175 doves in a day; or when three men kill nearly 1,100 ducks in three weeks it seems time to inquire into just what kind of fiber goes to make up such persons. Shame on them!

Such killers are no worse, in my opinion, than the sportsman who uses the instinct of a dog to locate his quarry and thus exerts himself only enough to fire the shot that brings to an abrupt end the life of a beautiful game bird or harmless wild animal.

No hunter should kill more than his own family can eat at one meal. This rule would limit the take to two ducks or geese in one day; four quail; two pheasants; two rabbits or squirrels, etc. Hunting with dogs should be prohibited.

H. E. BARTLETT.

SAYS WE'RE BRITAIN'S CATSPAW.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Typically British with her dominions the mightiest empire on earth, already allied with the world's greatest military powers, France and Russia, Britain now looks more cunningly than bravely toward the United States for petticoat protection. The British are always trying to domineer and regulate the affairs of other nations, providing the protective arm of the American policeman stands behind her.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Britain's subsidized mouthpiece, does its master's dirty propaganda work, trying her utmost to push us into another European war. J. C. S.

WOULD PROD THE ALIENS.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Write your congressman and ask for a law like this:

"Any alien who is here for two years or more and refuses to become an American citizen shall be deported immediately."

This would end our isms and make good old U. S. A. the greatest country God ever allowed to prosper. P. A. S.

A BUILDER ON BUILDING.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—We have heard many reasons for what is wrong with the building business. One says the trouble is that taxes are too high, that we should have a maximum 1 per cent tax. Others say labor is too high. Still others say material is too high. I don't think any of them has the right answer.

I am in the building business and when a prospective home owner comes to me with his plan for a figure, can I really tell him what he is up against? I should tell him that aside from the money he has put in the lot and the money it takes to make up the difference between the mortgage and the cost of his house, in fourteen years he will have paid in the amount of his mortgage in interest, plus what he pays to reduce the mortgage and for taxes. Also it will be necessary for him to put in cash for maintenance and upkeep. Now while he is pouring in all this liquid asset [money] his property value is depreciating and is considered a frozen asset.

Do you think it is fair for Uncle Sam to borrow money at ½ of 1 per cent to whitewash viaducts and build postoffices, which are nonincome bearing, when he charges home owners 5¾ to 6½ per cent interest for the privilege of increasing the wealth of the nation not only physically, but also morally?

Home mortgages should not pay over 2 per cent interest. That would solve our slum clearance, unemployment, government spending, and the half-baked ideas on abundant life.

CLARENCE OLSON.

ONE-SIDED BROADCASTS.

Kiel, Wis., Aug. 30.—For the last two summers I have lived where I can get the Chicago baseball broadcasts and have enjoyed them greatly. But I have been surprised by the constantly one sided broadcasts from most of the Chicago stations, which seem at all times to be playing the Chicago teams to win; the fatuous praise of all Chicago players and the supposedly droll comments on the opposing players. The public has a right to expect an impartial broadcast. Indeed I wonder that the owners of the two big league parks will permit such one sided exhibitions. I have become so disgusted with the manifest unfairness that I have finally turned to a broadcast which while favoring Chicago seems too fair-minded to practice the methods employed by the others. That others have the same idea I know from frequent complaints. Cut out the phrase "Our Cubs." FAN.

MR. BAKER'S ARTICLE PRAISED.

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 30.—Your Mr. Warren Baker's headline of "A Little Piece About Going on a Boating Trip" caught my eye today. I've just returned from a week's cruise on the Great Lakes, and still have the sailor's roll—to such an extent that any one would think I'd been doing considerable "interior decorating."

After reading his human interest story I had the urge to write a fan letter—my first in fact. The incident as reported certainly rated the first page—very amusing and cleverly written up.

GIFT OF PROPERTY.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When father was ill my two spinster sisters had him give them a quitclaim deed to his home and another piece of vacant property. Mother was already deceased. The property was in father's name.

1. Did he have a legal right to sign over said property? Father is now deceased. Will was thrown out, as there is no cash and property has already been turned over. One insurance policy was left to spinsters jointly to pay for funeral expenses [$750]. He had another policy for $300 with a protective association. This policy is held by protective association.

However [2] a year ago he wrote them a letter stating that I was to be beneficiary. Since then, as he sensed trouble, he wrote twice. His signature appears on all statements naming me as beneficiary. Meanwhile the two sisters have received $750 jointly to pay funeral expenses, but protective association refuses to send me my check for $300, saying it will have to be paid to undertaker or I'll have to have all other members of the family sign that I can have it.

3. Are they correct about this?

4. Must the above proceeding take place after my father has sent them written notice?

5. Shall I get an attorney?

6. Can the protective association refuse to give me my check? G. G.

1. Yes, but questions might be raised as to whether the gift was contingent upon his death, whether he had mental capacity, whether he was subject to undue influence, etc.

2. It seems probable that the policy specifies the method to be used in changing the beneficiary. In general, rights under an insurance policy depend on the wording of the policy.

3. See preceding answers.

4. It is not clear what proceedings you mean.

5. Yes.

6. See preceding answers.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

JUDGMENT NOTE.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a judgment note signed for one year after date by the husband only.

1. How long is that note in force after that date? Should husband die in that year [2] could I collect from the wife?

3. What are the proceedings?

4. I have been told that note is no good as husband is working on commission only. A. R.

1. The Illinois limitation period is ten years from the maturity date.

2. Not unless the debt was for a family expense, but if the husband leaves assets you could file a claim in the probate proceedings.

3. See preceding answers.

4. This has nothing to do with your right to obtain the judgment. The chances of collecting depend upon the debtor's assets as well as his income.

5 POLL OFFICIALS SEIZED FOR APRIL PRIMARY FRAUDS

Illegal Voting Charged in Arvey's Ward.

All five members of a precinct election board in the April 12 primary were arrested yesterday by the state's attorney's office on charges of allowing fraudulent voting. The prisoners, three women and two men, served in the 35th precinct of the 24th ward.

Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash, who appeared as special prosecutor when the prisoners were arraigned before County Judge Jarecki, indicated the arrests were the start of a series of primary election fraud prosecutions. Judge Jarecki set the cases for next Tuesday.

Few Votes for Jarecki.

Those seized were Mrs. Minnie Hirsch, 1511 South Millard avenue, Democratic judge; Henry Levin, 1509 South Lawndale avenue, and Mrs. Lillian Rothstein, 1511 South Lawndale avenue, Republican judges; Joseph Rosenfeld, 3617 West 15th street, Democratic clerk, and Mrs. Bertha Schallman, 1444 South Ridgeway avenue, Republican clerk. They were released on bonds of $2,500 each.

The 24th ward is the stronghold of Ald. Jacob M. Arvey, chairman of the city council finance committee. A tabulation of ballots showed a low percentage of votes for County Judge Jarecki and other candidates on the Courtney-Horner ticket.

Prosecutor Nash said Criminal court charges may be filed against precinct captains and other outsiders who allegedly aided in the frauds. He asserted that of 385 voters questioned in the precinct by investigators, 180 said they had received help in marking their ballots.

Arvey's Views on Arrests.

Informed of the arrests, Ald. Arvey pointed out that the election officials were appointed by Judge Jarecki, who was supported in the primary by State's Attorney Courtney.

"Judge Jarecki is responsible for the election machinery," the alderman asserted. "It is his duty to investigate violations of the law. But Courtney says he had watchers in all the polling places. Why didn't those men stop the violations or arrest the polling place officials on the spot? Why wait until now—and lock the barn after the horse is stolen?

"Obviously there is an effort being made to determine my political course for me by prosecutions or threats of prosecutions."

NOT GUILTY PLEA ENTERED BY MINE STOCK PROMOTER

J. Benjamin Ott, president of the Vanadium Refining corporation of Arizona, pleaded not guilty yesterday to charges of violation of the blue sky laws. County Judge Jarecki continued the case until next Wednesday. Ott is accused of selling more than $150,000 in unregistered securities of the corporation since it was organized in 1926.

Assistant State's Attorney John Phillips said the corporation was organized to work mines in Arizona which he declared do not exist. Phillips said he is seeking to question those who purchased the stock. Ott is 65 years old and lives at 1408 Jonquil terrace. His office at 332 South Wells street has been closed since July 15.

Phillips said the books of the company are missing. He said he has also been seeking Clinton B. Cochran, secretary of the corporation, for questioning. Cochran, he said, has been missing from his home at 1605 Walnut street, Wilmette.

Parole Board to Hear Pleas of 751 Convicts

The state pardon and parole board will hold hearings Tuesday and Wednesday on the pleas of 751 convicts for clemency. They include 154 parolees who were returned to prison for parole violation. Most of the prisoners were sentenced from Cook county. The hearings will be held at the Joliet, Pontiac, Dwight, and Menard institutions.

3 Questioned in Brick Slaying on Lake Shore

Three colored men were questioned yesterday by Pekin Inn police as suspects in the brick slaying of John Walsh, 23 years old, 7703 South Ridgeland avenue. Walsh, son of a city policeman, was struck by a colored man he had rebuked for following him as he walked with his fiancée Aug. 19 along the lake near 23d street.

Phone Collector Forced Into Car; Robbed of $100

Two bandits forced Clarence L. Dyer, a telephone collector, 2143 West 22d place, into their car yesterday and robbed him of $100. He was seized at St. Louis avenue and 63d street and ejected at Springfield avenue and 63d street.

POST NEW POLICE ELIGIBILITY LIST BEFORE SEPT. 15

The civil service list of candidates for jobs as patrolmen in the police department will be posted before Sept. 15, James P. Osborne, secretary of the civil service commission, said yesterday. Examination papers of the 9,200 candidates have been graded.

Commissioner Allman said that from 50 to 100 of the top men on the list will be appointed immediately and assigned to training school. Other appointments will be made as additional funds for salaries become available.

The old patrolmen's list was exhausted last April. No new appointments have been made since.

LIEUT. O'CONNELL OF TOWN HALL IS NAMED A CAPTAIN

Police Commissioner Allman announced yesterday the appointment of Lieut. Patrick B. O'Connell to the rank of captain. The promotion was made possible through the retirement last Sunday of Capt. Michael Tobin.

Capt. O'Connell was born in Mayo, Ireland. He joined the police force in 1915 and has an unusual record for bravery and work. He will remain in charge of the Town Hall station, where he has been acting captain.

Commissioner Allman also announced the promotion of Sergt. Edward LeFevour of the morals division to a lieutenant in the same division. Four new sergeants appointed and their assigned stations are: Patrick J. Groark, North Damen avenue; Thomas D. Donnelly, state's attorney's office; Michael Gibbons, Chicago avenue; and James J. Lynch, New City.

LAWYERS URGED TO CEASE GIVING AID TO CRIMINALS

A resolution urging all members of the Delta Theta Phi law fraternity to refuse their services to habitual criminals was adopted yesterday at the final session of the fraternity's convention in the Morrison hotel. One hundred delegates attending represented about twenty thousand lawyers. The resolution urged all lawyers to take a greater interest in public affairs and "measure up to the high standard of leadership which the public has a right to expect of men with the training and ideals of our profession." Thomas B. Collins, Portland, Ore., was elected chief justice of the fraternity.

ST. CHARLES HOST TO DEMOCRATIC AND G.O.P. PICNICS

St. Charles will be host to political picnickers the next two days. The Democrats will gather at Pottawatomie park this afternoon and the Republicans will meet there tomorrow. Both affairs are part of the annual St. Charles fall festival, sponsored by the local chamber of commerce.

Both Gov. Horner and Scott W. Lucas, candidate for United States senator, have accepted invitations to speak at the Democratic rally, according to J. E. Alschuler, chairman of the Kane county central Democratic committee. Another speaker will be Senator Mathew W. Neeley of West Virginia.

The Republican gathering will hear Col. Theodore Roosevelt and Richard J. Lyons, Lucas' rival in the senate race. In addition, they offer an arc light baseball game, a beauty contest for the title of Miss St. Charles, and performances by radio and stage stars. The festival will end Labor day with a Swedish tercentenary celebration.

Water Snail Kills Snake but Is Fatally Wounded

Lebanon, Pa., Sept. 2.—(AP)—A small water snail killed a struggling 15-inch water snake today and then died. Found near Colebrook by a fisherman, the pair of battlers, still alive, was brought here. The snake's head was gripped by the snail's shell and the reptile threshed wildly trying to free itself.

FASTEST FLYERS IN NATION START AIR RACES TODAY

Three Day Assault Will Be Made on Records.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 2.—(AP)—A dozen racing airplanes, some of them so tiny that the wing span is scarcely twice the length of a man's arm, will start a three day assault on speed records in excess of 260 miles an hour over a closed ten mile course here tomorrow.

The Bendix transcontinental and the pylon races are worth more than $100,000 to winning pilots in the eleventh national air races. The nation's speediest flyers will compete.

Air Aces to Compete.

The ships competing in the Labor day week-end races have been tested at speeds approaching 300 miles an hour during three days of qualifying runs. They will be piloted by men whose names have made headlines for years—Roscoe Turner, Leigh Wade, Joe Jacobson, and Arthur Chester.

One, flown by Russell Chambers of Los Angeles, was destroyed in a forced landing. Chambers was not badly hurt. Another was withdrawn by its pilot, Jacobson of Kansas City, because it threatened to kill its pilot at high speeds.

The closed course races, the $25,000 Greve event on Sunday for 200 miles, and the $45,000 Thompson trophy race on Monday for 300 miles are expected to develop speeds of 280 miles an hour or more.

Expect New Records.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Cross-country airplane records are expected to topple tomorrow when ten of the nation's fastest flyers—including one woman, Jacqueline Cochran—take off from here for Cleveland in the annual Bendix speed dash.

This year's long distance aviation Classic will run predominately to stock models, the kind that cost from $7,000 to $30,000.

BUILDING HOUSE, FURNITURE, TOO, OF NEWSPAPERS

Pigeon Cove, Mass., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Ellis F. Stenman disliked to throw away old newspapers and he always seemed to have stacks of them around. So he decided to make some use of them. Not content with anything trivial, he proceeded to build a house and furnish it—all with newspapers.

By rolling papers into solid rolls and coating them with a preserving varnish he made the paper as serviceable as wood. Since 1922 he has been sawing and hammering away with his homemade product.

He built tables, floor lamps, chairs, and settees, even curving bracing to give the furniture an artistic effect. A desk was made exclusively from papers featuring stories about Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's flight to Paris. Stenman made a bookcase out of issues from sixty-seven foreign papers. Shingles were made of paper.

A.M.A. DELEGATES CALLED TO ACT ON U.S. MEDICAL PLAN

The house of delegates, ruling body of the American Medical association, will meet in special session for the second time in A. M. A. history on Sept. 16 at the association's Chicago headquarters.

The purpose of the meeting, as announced in the current issue of the A. M. A. journal, is to consider the $850,000,000 a year government medical care program recommended by a presidential committee at the national health conference in Washington last July. The plan, which aims eventually at a tax for compulsory sickness insurance, is opposed by conservative leaders in organized medicine.

The house of delegates is expected not only to declare itself on socialized medicine but to discuss the department of justice's charges of anti-trust violations against the A. M. A.

FAILS TO CARRY HIS UNION CARD; BEATEN; 2 HELD

When he failed to show his union card he was beaten until his nose and jaw were broken, William Genengels, 35 years old, said in court yesterday. Carl Gustavson, 58, and his son, Vernon, 27, of 4900 North Kostner avenue, partners in a tuck pointing company, were charged with the assault.

"I'm a member of local 21 of the bricklayers' union," Genengels asserted outside of court. "I was doing repair work on my brother-in-law's home at 4848 Kenneth avenue Aug. 23. The two men came along and asked me for my union card. It was at home. They beat me."

Genengels lives at 5404 Lovejoy avenue. The Gustavsons, arraigned in the Shakespeare avenue court, asked for a jury trial. It will be held Sept. 15.

OFFICIALS ASK RELIEF; DESKS CRAWLING AWAY

The county commissioners called John A. Kornak before them yesterday. Kornak is custodian of the county building. They demanded action from him against cockroaches.

"Every time I open my desk," complained Commissioner William N. Erickson, "seven or eight of the pests come out.

"Yes, they're all over," agreed Commissioners Fred Fischman and H. Wallace Caldwell. "Pretty soon they'll run off with our desks or open our mail."

Custodian Kornak admitted action was needed. Three attempts already have been made to exterminate the cockroaches on a mass scale. He promised he would try again.

OUTLOOK CALLED BRIGHT TO END N. SHORE STRIKE

Bright prospects for settling the North Shore line strike were reported yesterday by Harry E. Scheck, federal labor conciliator, and Martin P. Durkin, director of the state department of labor. The strike started on Aug. 16.

"We are more encouraged than at any time previously," they said. "Progress was made at a conference with Col. A. A. Sprague, receiver for the railroad. We discussed the plan to give 1,300 employés receivers' certificates to cover a 15 per cent wage cut."

Also in the conference were the Rev. Francis J. Haas of Milwaukee, a special federal conciliator, and O. David Zimring, attorney for the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway and Motor Coach Employés. The mediators will meet today with Edward McMorrow of Detroit, acting president of the Amalgamated union.

The strikers received their first union benefit payments yesterday. A total of $4,800 was distributed among 375 Amalgamated members. Payments are $10 a week for single men and $15 for married men.

City Budget Estimates Ordered Turned in Oct. 1

City department heads got their annual headache assignment yesterday. Controler Robert B. Upham ordered them to submit by Oct. 1 department estimates for the 1939 city budget. The estimated budget must be in the hands of the city council on Dec. 1, Upham explained.

L. P. CONOVER, 75, DIES IN HINSDALE; FUNERAL TODAY

Funeral services for Lawrence P. Conover, 75 years old, former attorney of the village of Hinsdale, will be held at 11 a. m. today in the home at 4 South Oak street in the suburb. Burial will be in Madison, Wis.

Mr. Conover died Thursday in his home. He was born in Dayton, O., and was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1885. He received his LL. B. degree from the same institution and was admitted to the Illinois bar two years later. For a number of years Mr. Conover was president of the Hinsdale State bank. In 1915 he served as special state's attorney of Du Page county to investigate the accounting and auditing in the county clerk's office.

Surviving are his widow, Isabel; a daughter, Mrs. Alfred S. Frank of Dayton, and three sons, Harvey of Mamaroneck, N. Y., George S. of Cleveland, and Richard A. Conover of Chicago.

RAPS LA GUARDIA ON PLAN TO MOVE EASTERN AIRPORT

Newark, N. J., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Political expediency, without consideration for the lives of airplane passengers and pilots, was charged here today against Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York by Mayor Meyer Ellenstein of Newark. Ellenstein made his accusation in connection with a reported change next spring of eastern terminals for major air lines from Newark airport to North Beach [N. Y.] airport, now under construction.

"This controversy," said Mayor Ellenstein, "began with a campaign promise by Mayor La Guardia and with him it has since developed into an obsession.

"There is no emergency field in the vicinity of North Beach, where planes could make forced landings if compelled to do so. In thick weather, when blind landings are necessitated, the physical hazards that surround North Beach would make such a landing most precarious."

OBITUARIES

Thomas J. Prendergast.

Thomas J. Prendergast, a building contractor in Chicago for more than fifty years, died of a heart ailment last night in his home at 6158 Kimbark avenue. He was 84 years old. Mr. Prendergast was born in County Mayo, Ireland. He came to Chicago in 1880, and two years later formed his contracting company. He put up many homes, apartment and office buildings and factories, and worked on numerous federal and city projects. He is survived by four sons, James J., John F., William A., and Cornelius C. NO. 1 HITCH-HIKER GETS BUM'S RUSH AT Y.M.C.A. HOTEL

Arthur Dean Swift, the young vagabond who has been a guest of big hotels from coast to coast, met with humiliation yesterday. He was ejected from the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 826 South Wabash avenue, shortly after his exploits became public. His rent had been paid until Monday by a friend. The hotel refunded a dollar.

H. M. Peach, assistant manager, was regretful.

"We have a lot of youngsters here," he said, "and we don't want them to get the idea they can get through the world by chiseling. Swift has a lot of ability and ambition and should go far if he'll only change his ideas. Besides, we had complaints on his attitude."

Swift, whose 156,000 miles of hitchhiking during the last five years have cost him nothing, was chagrined. "I have found in 48 states no organization which will help young fellows as much as the Y," he said, "but that doesn't seem to go for Y. M. C. A. hotels."

He intends to remain somewhere else in Chicago until he completes his book. The title: "Everything for Nothing."

PROFESSOR LEFT $243,830 TRUST IN RYERSON ESTATE

The late Mrs. Carrie Hutchinson Ryerson left an estate valued at $1,649,130, according to an inheritance tax return filed yesterday in County court. Under the terms of her will and that of her late husband, Martin A. Ryerson, Chicago capitalist, the bulk of the estate is left to the Art Institute, University of Chicago, and the Field museum. The income from a trust of $243,830 is left to William D. Darrow, 41 East Division street, a professor at the Chicago Latin school and friend of the Ryerson family. At his death the fund will go to the three institutions. Mrs. Ryerson died a year ago in her summer home at Lake Geneva, Wis.

Dr. Johnson to Discuss Schools in Radio Talks

William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, will make the first of six weekly broadcasts over station W-G-N at 11 a. m. tomorrow. The talks will be on school matters and directed to the parents of school children.

Senator Walsh to Address U. S. Employes' Federation

Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts will address the annual convention of the American Federation of Government Employes to be held in the Hotel La Salle for three days beginning Sept. 12.

CHICAGO AIRPORT ORDINANCE READY FOR COUNCIL O. K.

The proposed ordinance to clear the way for enlargement of Chicago airport was agreed upon in substantially its final form yesterday by city officials and representatives of the railroads affected. Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman said it will be submitted to the city council airport subcommittee in time for council action Wednesday.

Only two minor legal differences, both of a technical nature, remain to be settled, it was reported. These will not cause further delay, as they do not affect the object of the ordinance—removal of tracks of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad from the mile square tract bounded by 55th and 63d streets and Cicero and Central avenues, to a new right of way paralleling 54th street.

The proposed ordinance is subject to the approval of the Bankers Trust company of New York, mortgage trustee of the C. & W. I. It must also be approved by the Illinois commerce commission before it can become effective.

BATHTUB DEATH VICTIM FORMER SCHOOL TEACHER

Miss Sarenella Seegar, who was found dead Thursday in her room in the Morrison hotel, was a former principal of the Grant-White school in Forest Park. This was disclosed yesterday at an inquest into her death. A friend, Mrs. Ruth Blasius, 7717 West Adams street, Forest Park, said Miss Seegar was in charge of the old Grant elementary school from 1919 to 1928.

Miss Seegar, who was 57 years old, had registered at the hotel last Sunday as Mrs. Sandra Sellner, from Davenport, Ia. She was found Thursday evening partially submerged in a bathtub of water. A cheerful letter addressed to a friend led Deputy Coroner Ted Luber to believe she died of natural causes. The inquest was continued to Sept. 20.

Lieut. Col. K. L. Halpine of 7th Infantry Is Dead

Vancouver, Wash., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Lieut. Col. Kenneth L. Halpine, executive officer of the 7th infantry, post hospital, Vancouver barracks, died late yesterday after a brief illness. He graduated from West Point in 1916. He came here last year from the 6th corps area [Chicago], where he was on duty with the Officers Reserve corps. Survivors include his widow and three children.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

"Beat Out."

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—On Jan. 8, 1936, two gentlemen from West 52d street went into the Paramount theater at Times Square and tore off the roof with their treatment of "The Music Goes 'Round and 'Round." For the first time in Paramount history audiences whistled and sang with a stage band, and one unknown hero screamed from the mezzanine: 'Beat out, boys."

The phrase had been in use in Harlem for some time, but so far as this investigator can discover this was the first time it ever had arrived on Broadway, and with its arrival came the cycle of swing. Just how quickly the phrase caught on was demonstrated a day later. Ella Logan was swinging "Music Goes Round" at Loews' State and the audience chorused: "Beat it out."

Since that time swing has become a national fad. On the morning of Jan. 26, 1938, you could have seen youngsters, at 5:30 a. m., building bonfires in 44th street. Instead of calling the fire department you would have seen theater ushers bringing coffee and doughnuts to these bonfire builders because these incendiarists were keeping themselves warm until Benny Goodman heated them up. It was then that the country got some idea of the swing craze because these youngsters became so excited when Goodman's band played "Don't Be That Way" that they sprang into the ailes and danced up and down the incline. Others, as though at a revival meeting, fought their way to the stage and gazed with fanatical awe at Goodman's high priests of cacophony.

It will take a keener analyst of social trends than this reporter to explain this national fanaticism for swing. Perhaps it's because kids are being graduated from high school and college into a troubled world that they turn thus eagerly to swing. Certainly there is a connection between swing and blaring brass and nervous systems.

It is the golden age of bands. Goodman gets between $8,500 and $10,000 a week. Waring is in the $10,000 class. Lombardo and Eddy Duchin command $8,500 a week. Tommy Dorsey is in the $7,500 class and climbing. The rest range from $1,500 a week up.

Paul Whiteman and Vincent Lopez, caught in a new cycle of rhythm, didn't even make the first thirty in the current Paramount theater poll. This is not necessarily an exact poll, because bands that play New York regularly are apt to get more votes than those who tour the country on highly successful one night stands. For instance, Abe Lyman, Phil Harris, and Tony Martin, who cracked records at Chicago within the last month, are not even named.

Here is the way the first thirty are rated: 1, Benny Goodman; 2, Tommy Dorsey; 3, Sammy Kaye; 4, Guy Lombardo; 5, Kay Kayser; 6, Gene Krupa; 7, Eddy Duchin; 8, Hal Kemp; 9, Larry Clinton; 10, Phil Spitalny's girl band; 11, Blue Barron; 12, Horace Heidt; 13, Glenn Gray; 14, Fred Waring; 15, Chick Webb; 16, Jimmy Dorsey; 17, Red Norville; 18, Shep Fields; 19, Rudy Vallee; 20, Duke Ellington; 21, Art Shaw; 22, Bunny Berrigan; 23, Jimmy Lunceford; 24, Raymond Scott; 25, Bob Crosby; 26, Mark Warnow; 27, Will Osborne; 28, Xavier Cugat; 29, Russ Morgan; 30, Cab Calloway.

Norma Shearer said something that was very wise last night: "The amazing thing to me is that the white youngsters have invented so many of the new dance steps. We always believed that the colored youngsters had a monopoly on dancing, but it seems that the instinct of rhythm has finally caught the white youngsters. I think we ought to feel very happy about it."

Her thought is expressed strikingly in this band poll which is carried two paragraphs north. Of the first fifteen bands only one is a Harlem band, that of Chick Webb. In the old days there would have been five or six Negro bands in the first fifteen. But Duke Ellington has slipped to 20th and Cab Calloway is just holding on in 30th place. So it seems that the whites have found rhythm. Just how many colored "arrangers" are employed by the white bands I don't know off hand, but the number would be negligible.

The song titles are in the swing tradition. Art Shaw is identified with "Shoot the Liquor Along, John Boy." Chick Webb is famous for his "Who You Hunchin.'" Goodman drives them wild with "Don't Get That Way," and "1 O'clock Jump." Tommy Dorsey has a gorgeous arrangement of "Marie." Most of the titles are more in the "Flat Foot Floogie" spirit. The amazing thing to one who is not steeped in the current swing craze is the familiarity of the kids with these titles.

At the Harvest Moon ball, Fred Astaire, Norma Shearer, Mayor La Guardia, the Ritz brothers, Mary Dees, Mae Murray, Jimmy Walker and thirty thousand others were interested spectators at a typical dancefest that included all of the modern dances as well as some which the kids made up under the spur of the moment.

"I never saw anything like this," said Jimmy Walker. He expressed the sentiments of a lot of us. "What startles me," said Astaire, who sat from 8:30 to 11:30 p. m., "is the smoothness and the natural dancing talent of all of them. There hasn't been a poor dancer on that stage all night long. In the old days, a fine dancer was a rarity. Today, all of them dance expertly. I can't get over it."

Coiffure Plus Hat Often Is Comical Team

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

It's a fairly amusing game to look on and study the effects of hats and coiffures. Presently you begin studying yourself.

Seated next is one of the domineering type, straight as a ramrod. She's on to the new upswept coiffure, yebetcha. It sweeps up stiff and stark of softness as a mountain climber's Waterloo. Her face is square—definitly square. But away up on top of the head with an upturned brim sits her millinery number.

It perches there. That's the word for it. If there were a bird on it, you'd expect the hat to be lifted from the lady's head and be off to parts unknown. The square face bared painfully with this piece of headgear far away up there—well, it isn't what an artist would prescribe for the individual.

A few seats away is the long faced darling, unusually long-faced. A center part is seen just before the hat begins to rise mountain high. You wish she'd take the hat off, set it down somewhere so you could sit on it and bring it back down to a hat height more becoming.

In the interim you discover those charming women with hats and coiffures beautifully adapted to their lines and proportions. Maybe you'll hear one say: "I paid only $1.98 for this hat." But it has the lines for its wearer. And her hair carries out the harmony motif beautifully.

About this time you may catch a glimpse of yourself in the mirror and wonder who is that funny looking woman and where did she get that hat! That's the game, anyway. Of course, you may find in that mirror a face, a hairdress and a hat that beams back at you: "Pretty good, girl. Pretty good."

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Shelton-Sanders of Silverton, Tex., announce the engagement of their daughter, Aurelia, to Lauren Tenney Conger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Park Conger of River Forest. Miss Sanders attended Texas State College for Women, West Texas college, and the University of Texas. She made her debut in Dallas. Mr. Conger was graduated from Denison university. He is engaged in business in Texas.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

This and That:

This week-end will be the last summer holiday and because it is don't cast caution to the winds and go out and get burned to a crisp. The protection you have given your skin and hair through the summer will be for nothing, if you get careless and decide to have a last summer fling sans preventives. So, mind your ways.

Change of seasons invariably means change of makeup. It won't be long before the skin kissed by the sun will gradually take on a lighter tone. This means that the glowing shades of powder, rouge, and lipstick that you have been using all summer will be a little too much so, and lighter shades will be in order. No need to rush the matter, but keep it in mind.

You'll find, too, that something will have to be done about your nail polish. As the summer tan begins to fade out, the shades of polish that have been quite lovely on your hands are apt to look a little queer. Fashion experts are all but shouting to us that colors for the fall and winter season are to be vivid, gay, and even unexpected. All this means that you had better keep a weather eye open for shades of polish that blend and complement the new wardrobe.

Still talking about polish, and what it does for hands: If you have large knuckles, you'll be surprised how much smaller they will look if you use a gay color polish.

Do you use a comb with a broken tooth? Throw it away if you do. If it is handy you'll pick it up and continue to use it and it's nothing but a hair shredder. FLORENCE MURDOCH.

WEDDING

The wedding of Miss Dorothy May MacManus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph D. MacManus of 5200 Blackstone avenue, to Walter Blair Adams Jr. of Plymouth, N. H., will take place on Sept. 14. The ceremony will be performed at 8 o'clock at the Church of the Redeemer. A reception will follow at the Windermere East hotel.

Akron, O., Sept. 2.—(AP)—A marriage license was issued today to Miss Elizabeth Idabelle Firestone, only daughter of the late Harvey S. Firestone, tire manufacturer, and Ray Austin Graham of Roslyn, N. Y., a son of the late Ray Austin Graham, founder of the Graham-Paige Motor company. Their engagement was announced last July. They will be married tomorrow at the Firestone home here. Miss Firestone, 24 years old, is the youngest of the six Firestone children and the last to marry. Mr. Graham, 23, is a law student at the University of Virginia.

Horse Show at Fort Sheridan to Open Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE annual Fort Sheridan horse show, opening this morning and continuing through tomorrow night, will provide two days of thrills for horse lovers who are remaining at home for the holiday week-end. One hundred and fourteen horses have been entered in thirty-eight classes. There will be morning, afternoon, and evening performances on both days, the evening shows being military exhibitions by the 3d Field Artillery, the 14th Cavalry, and the 2d Infantry.

The list of boxholders is a long one, as it always is for this popular show. Proceeds go to the Army Relief society. Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hughes, the Julian Armstrongs, Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood, Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick, the John F. Jelkes, the William Roy Carneys, the David A. Crawfords, Col. and Mrs. Charles C. Haffner Jr., Charles H. Schweppe, Edward I. Cudahy, Col. Morris Keck, Mrs. Frederic H. Burnham, Gen. Hugh A. Drum, and Gen. Karl Truesdell are among those who have taken boxes.

Among the exhibitors will be Miss Kay Goodman, Debutantes Betty Mead and Elizabeth Crawford; Arthur Farwell, Priscilla Armstrong, the Denison B. Hulls, Hill Blackett, Leonore and Robert Cudahy, Mrs. Merrill Hubbard, the Carney and the Hughes boys, and Donald B. Douglas.

A number of parties have been planned in connection with the show. Gen. Drum, commandant of the 6th Corps area, and Gen. Truesdell, commanding officer of Fort Sheridan, and their wives are giving a dinner tonight for the directors of the Lake Forest Horse Show association and their wives, and for the judges and officials of the Fort Sheridan show and their wives. Another dinner will be given tomorrow night when the Fort Sheridan show committee will have the exhibitors and their wives and the show officials as their guests.

Debutantes Will Be Entertained at Show.

Mrs. Burnham is entertaining at a small party tonight for Debutante Miriam Bartlett, taking Miss Bartlett, Miss Priscilla Payne, and Miss Virginia Ballard and some beaux to dinner at the Indian Hill club, then to the horse show, and then back to the Indian Hill for dancing.

Undoubtedly a number of the debutantes who will be having luncheon at a party Miss Helen Shoemaker is giving today for Miss Payne will go afterwards to the horse show. Miss Shoemaker is entertaining forty of the season's buds at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren W. Shoemaker, in Hubbard Woods.

Miss Shoemaker and Miss Margot Webbe are entertaining on Sunday, Sept. 11, from 5 until 7 o'clock for Miss Bartlett. This party, too, will be given at the Shoemakers', and will follow a luncheon the Fred W. Fairmans are giving for Miss Bartlett.

Another debutante party tonight is one Mr. and Mrs. Theodore G. Rockwell are giving at the Indian Hill club for their daughter, Miss Paisley Rockwell. They have invited a number of their daughter's friends for dinner and dancing, but it is not to be a formal debut for Miss Rockwell, who is a student at Wells college.

Miss Payne, who is called "Prill" by her intimates, is not to be presented until Christmas time. She and her parents will move to their Winnetka home from their Barrington one on Tuesday.

Miss Shoemaker and Miss Webbe both are leaving after the luncheon for the holiday week-end. Miss Shoemaker will be a guest at a house party Miss Jane Darrow and William W. Darrow are giving at the Lakeside, Mich., home of their mother, Mrs. Theodore Butz, and Mr. Butz. Debutante Alice Graff also will be in the group at Lakeside. Miss Webbe will attend Miss Mary Warner's house party in Lake Geneva. On Sept. 18 Miss Webbe will return to Smith for her junior year.

Rawleigh Warners to Lake Geneva.

Mr. and Mrs. Rawleigh Warner are going to Lake Geneva for the week-end, too, to be there for Miss Mary's house party. Miss Warner will not return to Smith college this fall but will study music in Chicago. Dorothy Warner leaves on the nineteenth for her first year at Sarah Lawrence college. She will make her debut next year.

The young man of the family, Rawleigh Jr., will leave on the thirteenth for Lawrenceville to be there early for football practice.

Mr. and Mrs. Warner plan to keep their house open at the lake until about Sept. 23.

The Labor day week-end marks the end of the tourist season at Lake Geneva, but the people who have homes at the lake usually remain on until October. Most of the summer colony will be celebrating at the Lake Geneva Country club dance tonight. Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne and Mrs. Henry C. Bartholomay are giving a large party at the dance. It will include members of the families of Philip Wrigley, Sangston Hettler, and Earle J. Zimmerman. Mrs. John McNeil is giving another large party.

A buffet luncheon will be served at the club on Monday. On Monday at the Lake Geneva Yacht club the A class yachts will race for the Charles H. Wacker trophy, a reproduction of Frederick G. Wacker's A boat. It was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Wacker to be sailed for each year on Labor day in memory of his father.

Next Saturday at the Big Foot Country club there will be a dinner-dance and presentation of the season's trophies to end the sailing schedule of yacht club members.

Mother Makes or Mars a Day for Her Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

A friend of mine is a teacher. A few days ago after school one of her pupils said to her: "Miss Blakeley, you never smile any more in school. You used to be so jolly."

My friend has been greatly worried for some time over her personal affairs, but hadn't realized that her low state of mind was reflected in the classroom—and for that matter, she probably wouldn't have thought her children would notice if it had been. But children are sensitive to these things.

They are responsive to home atmosphere, too, especially as it's determined by the moods of their mother. To small children, particularly, the center of their universe [mother] may make or mar their day.

The mother of a little child should be to his mind and spirit what the sun is to his body—the source of life, strength, and growth. We see so many children, both rich and poor, and all the way between, whose minds and spirits are unhealthy because of an inadequate amount of "sunshine" in the mental atmosphere of their homes.

Ill health in a child's mind and spirit may not be so easily detected as is bodily ill health. We are not apt to think so much about it.

Some of the symptoms of mental and spiritual ill health are sullenness, irritability, inability to get on with others, discontentedness, or just plain apathy—a lack of interest in life. As children go to school and associate with a larger group of people they become less dependent on mother; but a little child is appallingly dependent on his mother's moods.

If the mother is, like the sun, dependable, calm, warm, and comforting, the child grows strong and well in mind and spirit. If the mother is undependable, cross, or lacking in affectionate warmth—if she forgets or doesn't understand how dependent her little child is on her words and ways, his mental health suffers.

Nagging Wife Finds Too Late She Loves Man

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"Dear Miss Blake: Here is a tale of woe I would like to tell the world if it will save one woman from my mistake. It may help some other giddy headed, divorce bound woman.

"I married three years ago. That man was wonderful to me. He loved me as no man ever will love me again.

"Did I appreciate it? I was mean to him because he was making only a small salary. I was cheap and low in the things I said and did to him. I lost my head completely, perhaps because he told me always how fine I was; that he didn't deserve such luck; that he felt his salary so inadequate for the girl he had married. I began believing that I was a sort of super-woman deserving of a better fate financially. So I kept on with my meanness to him.

"I started suit for divorce. Why I don't know, honestly. He is letting me have the divorce without even wanting to stop me. I know now I love the man and how good and wonderful he was and is. I broke his heart and also broke my own. He won't let me drop the divorce suit now. If I do, he'll get one, but he says it looks better if the woman gets it.

"I may as well tell all on myself. I had the drink habit when we first met. He got me over that. Now, I find I am drifting back into it again.

"Please help me to be the wife and woman I want to be, and tell me if there is any way of getting my husband back. LILA V."

How we mortals do destroy the gifts laid in our laps. All of our own doing—a vice, a disposition, real or adopted, a false appraisal of our worth. But that you know, Lila V. No one need tell you now that the penalty is unhappiness, not for the other person but for ourselves.

Can we help you, Lila V.? No, we cannot. But you can help yourself, if not back into the arms of that beloved mate, then into a life from which you may still extract happiness by administering it to others.

You can stop the drinking. You did it once. It was a magnificent help to have that husband's faith in you. But you're honest and you have much worth saving. You're the only one on earth who can do it now. It will be hard going without the support you once had, but doing it may yet work that miracle of restoring your man's faith in you.

Good Morning!

As I entered the Chicago the jungle beat of the Goodman orchestra's fantastically seductive music was producing its incredible reactions on a houseful of variously affected addicts. . . . Even the ushers' perfect decorum threatened to bust a strap. . . . Hands clapped. . . . Feet kept monotonous time. . . . Eerie whistles pierced the semi-darkness, and as your eyes become accustomed to it you witnessed a prancing savage peering from behind each presumably civilized human façade.

"It's got to be some picture to amuse 'em after this!" I thought as at last the din ceased and I was able to find a seat.

Well—"Give Me a Sailor" is just the ticket for a program featuring a Goodman frenzyphony. It's a pleasant farce comedy interpreted by pleasing people; generous with its laughs and stressing what has been increasingly apparent—the fact that, allowed to be faintly natural, Martha Raye has charm, considerable good looks, and a disarming wistful appeal.

As Letty Larkin she's a Cinderella girl. She has a beautiful, selfish sister, Nancy, and a helpless, lovable, widowed papa. Letty works among the cinders, so to speak, while Nancy wears the pretty clothes and snares all male eligibles.

Since mere children the Larkin girls have known the Brewster boys—now officers in the navy. Letty and Jim are like brother and sister, but Letty has always honed for Walter—who loves Nancy. For ten years Jim has done his best to keep these two apart that Letty may win Walter and he—Letty's sister.

The brothers come ashore and intrigue flourishes. But it's not till Letty inadvertently wins a beautiful legs contest instead of the cake cooking competition she thought she'd entered that the Great Discovery is made.

Miss Raye gives a corking performance. Betty Grable scores as the sister. Jack Whiting is so-so as Walter—but the boy the leddy fans will go for is Bob Hope as Jim.

Stylists Ready for Upturn in Hair Fashions

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The new turned up hair dress is beginning to look like a national crisis. It is testing the adventurous spirit of both the young and the not so young. The issue makes any other fashion question pale into the thinnest of shadows.

Everything in the new showings in suits, dresses, coats, and evening costumes has been designed to accentuate the new rise of the coiffure. Hats especially need the provocative flock of top curls and the sweep of a back hairline to dramatize the feathers, bows, and veils that are combined to make these microscopic areas labeled hats.

Jackets and coats are deliberately collarless. But that doesn't mean any particular lack of warmth, for shoulderlines are high, square, and almost face framing. Small snug ascots of velvet, fabric or fur muffle in around velvet suits as well as street outfits of tweed. If the newest hats don't prove the most insidious lures to start brushing the hair up, the gay dangling earrings will . . . long siren-ish affairs, in all kinds of effective and very feminine designs. Very alluring, that's the way to describe the long earrings set with topaz. It also applies to the romantic dull gold finds copied from the Victorian baubles of a decade ago. Seed pearls, set in black oynx; off-white cameos against black; lovely amythest and garnet jewelry, together with tassels in gold beads, are matched to breast brooches and even bracelets. These new arrivals are ready to accent the first fall dresses and slim suits.

Huge clips and pins are bigger and more barbaric than ever. They glitter enticingly with multi-colored simulated jewels, rubies, emeralds, amytheses, sapphires, and pearls, all lavishly mixed in one clip. Coral, both carved and in branches, is used in multi-strand bracelets, long strands and in clips. These are excellent accents for dull blue and all dark dresses. Dog collars, large wide affairs that remind you of African jungles, come in dull gold or silver metal. These are sensational accents for the neckline of a form-revealing dress that needs no other contrast.

Knit Sweater

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Whether it is worn on the campus or golf course, a sleeveless knitted sweater is one of those items which are indispensable for feminine comfort. There are times when it is too warm for a full sweater and too cool to be without some protection, therefore a sleeveless garment. The sleeveless jacket illustrated today serves numerous purposes. It may be worn over a light or self-colored sweater to serve as a part of a twin set, or it may be called upon to serve in the capacity of a sleeveless cardigan. The knitting is of the simplest variety. A band of ribbing denotes the waist, and the garter stitch around the armhole, neck, and down the front is the only trimming. The body is knitted in the stockinette stitch, 1 row knit and 1 row purl.

For instructions for knitting the sleeveless sweater jacket, No. X59, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Tenderfoot's Inheritance

By Marie De Nervaud

SYNOPSIS.

Anne Claxton arrives from New York at the Wyoming ranch she has inherited, after refusing the last minute proposal of her city beau, Gerald. Steve Hayward, neighbor ranch owner, tells her that Jake Collins, who owns the adjoining ranch, expects to buy her heavily mortgaged ranch, but her uncle never would sell to him. Anne determines to stay and fight. She is immediately attracted to Steve, but Gwen Collins, Jake's daughter, shows a proprietary interest in him. She wins over old Tim Salter, her uncle's foreman, and Whitey, a handsome ranch hand. She finds the house in disorder and a gun missing from the rack. Tim thinks Collins had been there and threatened her uncle with the gun and that her uncle died from a heart attack. Collins calls with Lawyer Bill Jennings and turns surly when she refuses to sell. W Steve calls and advises her to sell she is cool to him. Steve is offended and jealous of Whitey. To help surmount financial difficulties Anne looks forward to receiving her former boss, Mr. Trainor, and his family, to the ranch as paying guests. Collins serves notice that he is going to fence in the water holes, which he claims are on his property. Whitey takes Anne to a local dance. Steve is there with Gwen. Jake Collins, drunk, insults Anne. Steve fights him. Anne runs off without thanking him. She sends him a note of apology, but receives no answer. Anne tactfully refuses a proposal from Whitey. Gerald arrives unexpectedly to visit Anne. She makes him stay at the hotel in town.

INSTALMENT XXIV.

A SHOWDOWN.

Anne had been so absorbed that she hadn't heard Gerald come up. He stood in the doorway, the sun gleaming on his immaculate tan riding breeches and faultlessly pressed brown coat.

"You must be a godsend to Red Butte's tailor!" she teased.

Gerald impatiently ignored her amused comment. He came in and closed the screen door behind him, standing with his back against it.

"Anne, I've come out here for a showdown. I've had enough of all this tom-foolishness. It's high time you came to your senses!"

Anne closed the cook book and perched on the edge of the kitchen table. Her heart beat irregularly and her mouth felt dry but she met Gerald's eyes squarely. He was right, the time had come for a showdown.

"It would be a lot easier, Gerald, if you could realize that that is just what I've done." She chose her words with careful precision.

"What's what you've done?"

"Come to my senses. I'm doing exactly what I want to do and what I mean to go on doing. This is my home, and I'm trying my best to keep it. You're welcome, when——" she drew a deep breath, and took the plunge——"When it doesn't interfere with my making a go of the ranch."

"What do you mean, 'when it doesn't interfere with your making a go of the ranch?'" His eyes were hard and angry.

"I'd hoped you'd get tired of roughing it, and go back before I had to tell you that I can't have you here when the Trainors come," Anne answered honestly.

"You see," she hurried on before Gerald's indignation had a chance to break out, "they agreed to come out on the condition that they should have the ranch entirely to themselves. They hate the idea of a dude ranch. It was the fact that X Bar 9 was a real cattle ranch and that I was trying so hard to build it up again that attracted them. Please understand how it is, Gerald!"

Anne had never looked prettier than she did at that moment. The sun caught the gold in her hair, and the blue chambray apron that she had slipped over her riding things added a vivid note of color. Her lips parted, she leaned forward in mute appeal.

Gerald's eyes were stormy and rebellious.

"Understand!" he exploded. "I never understood anything less in my life! I never knew a person to change as you have!"

He flung his hat and crop on a chair and crossed impetuously over to her.

"Anne, this whole thing is a fantastic nightmare! You don't have to spend your life slaving in a kitchen! Marry me, and come back to your own world!"

There was silence for a moment. Anne threw out her hands with a helpless little gesture.

"When you could have had me, you didn't want me." Color rushed into her cheeks at the admission, but she went stubbornly on, "Now that you can't have me, you do. That isn't love, Gerald. It's stubbornness and wounded pride, and—O, any number of things, but it isn't love!"

"You don't know what you're talking about!" Gerald seized her hand. "You're obsessed with this God-forsaken country! Come back where you can see things in their true perspective. If you loved me once, you'll love me again, now that I know I love you. I'll refund the Trainors' money and send them a wire not to come! We'll——"

"You'll do nothing of the sort!" Anne snatched her hand away and jumped to the floor. Her yellow brown eyes glinted dangerously as she met his. "If you don't understand, I'll give it to you straight from the shoulder. I don't love you, I'll never marry you. I want to keep you for a friend, but if you dictate to me and try to run my affairs that's out, too."

She paused in consternation at her brutal frankness, but the words were out. She meant what she had said, there was no point in going back on it.

He deliberately turned and picked up his riding crop and hat. Not until he reached the door did he speak.

"There's more than one way to make you come to your senses." His voice had an odd, stifled note that brought a chill to Anne's heart. The next instant the screen door slammed behind him.

The apprehension that Gerald's looks and tone, rather than his actual words, brought cropped up in Anne's mind at odd intervals throughout the day.

A remark from Red Howard at supper that he had seen Gerald and Gwen Collins having dinner together at the hotel brought it back with renewed force.

"Gerald and Gwen Collins!" Anne managed to keep her voice indifferent, but she couldn't control the flush that rushed to her cheeks. "You must be mistaken. He doesn't even know her."

"That's where you have another guess coming," Red insisted. "If yuh ask me, I'd say they knew each other right well, the way they had their heads together."

The weeks since the dance, that had passed with such lightning speed for Anne, had dragged by for Steve in a dull routine of hard work.

His first thought that night, after the fight had been for Anne, but instead of finding her, he had met Gwen's lashing tongue.

He had turned away, still determined to find Anne, when a chance conversation between two punchers caught his ear.

For days after, Steve could have repeated word for word these few sentences that had struck a death blow to his hopes.

"That's one on Steve! Doesn't he know she's Whitey's girl?"

"One on me, too! Since when?"

"Say, everybody's wise to that! Whitey and she are nuts on each other!"

Once back at the Flying Five, he had fought the thing out, with bitter self-disgust.

Why hadn't he minded his own business, and let Whitey champion Anne? The fact that she had slipped away and not even stayed to at least acknowledge this defense of her, showed how she felt about it.

"Fool!" Steve took miserable pleasure in debasing himself. "Why so surprised about Whitey? From the minute she saw him, she threw you down! She let him teach her riding——she let him——"

Steve's thought dissipated into inarticulate misery.

In the cold light of day he had resolutely determined to face realities.

Anne wasn't for him, never had been and never would be. She'd marry Whitey and stay on the range, and he'd have to get used to the idea. Either that, or sell out and make a fresh start somewhere else.

Nothing could be more refreshing than a cool drink. There are recipes galore in Mary Meade's booklet, "Thirst Quenchers." This booklet sells for 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, or will be mailed for 5 cents in stamps. Address mail requests to Mary Meade.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Women have found the commercially prepared biscuit and pastry mixes such a convenience that several of them have written us for recipes they can use to prepare a homemade mix. Mixes prepared from vegetable shortenings will keep fresh almost indefinitly, even at room temperature, and I've found them a great convenience in making hurry-up biscuits and pies.

Homemade Pastry Mix.

16 cups flour [4 pounds]
2 tablespoons salt
2 pounds [4½ cups] vegetable shortening

Sift flour with salt into a large bowl. If you haven't a bowl large enough divide the recipe and mix in two batches. Cut in the shortening with a pastry blender or two knives until the fat is evenly distributed. Store mix in a closely covered canister or other container, and use as needed. This mix needn't be kept in the refrigerator if the creamy vegetable shortening is used. If lard is used instead it must be refrigerated. I'd suggest, in the latter case, using only half the recipe unless pies are baked frequently. Lard will become rancid in time, of course, although it does make very excellent pastry.

TO USE THE MIX: To make a one-crust pie measure out 1¼ cups of the mix and add about 3 tablespoons ice water. For a two-crust pie use 2½ cups of the mix and about 5 tablespoons ice water. The recipe will make about 17 one-crust pies.

Homemade Biscuit Mix.

[Four Standard Recipes.]
8 cups sifted flour
¼ cup baking powder
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup vegetable shortening

Sift flour with baking powder and salt several times. Cut in the shortening until the mixture has a rather fine, even texture. Place in a closed container.

TO USE THE MIX: Use a fourth or a fifth of the mixture at a time. Add enough milk to make a soft dough for drop biscuit. Add only enough to get a stiff dough for regulation baking powder biscuits. Knead the dough gently before rolling or patting out, just as you would in making biscuits without a prepared mix. Bake as usual in a hot oven. For muffins mix 2 cups of the mix with a beaten egg, 2 tablespoons sugar, and ¾ to 1 cup milk. Stir only until dry ingredients are damp, and turn into greased muffin pans. Bake as usual.

Many variations are possible. Cinnamon rolls, quick coffee cake, and other hot breads are as possible with a mix as with an ordinary recipe.

SPICY MORSELS: Saffron is expensive because it produces only about 2 pounds to the acre, and there are 4,300 flowers in an ounce of it. Saffron is the flower of an herb grown in Spain, and is used to color breads, rolls, soups, and other foods. . . . Turmeric, used in many pickles, comes from the root of a plant of the ginger family. It's used more for its rich yellow color, which acts as a dye, than for its seasoning power. . . . Mixed pickling spices vary with the packer, but include many of the following: Allspice, mace, black pepper, mustard seed, cinnamon, cloves, laurel leaves, celery seed, caraway seed, cardamon seed, coriander seed, Japan chillies. . . . Bay leaves are laurel leaves.

For some time I've been thinking about collecting into a booklet a group of the best of my Wednesday short-cut menus for business women, but now an authoress has the jump on me. For last week Little, Brown & Co. published a book by Hazel Young called "The Working Girl Must Eat." Here's a random menu from it: Chilled grapefruit juice, spaghetti and meat sauce, tossed green salad bowl, deep dish blueberry pie, hard sauce. Of course, there are recipes to go with all 100 of the menus. And a work plan accompanies each menu and its recipes. The price is $1.75. I believe many business women-cooks will find it helpful.

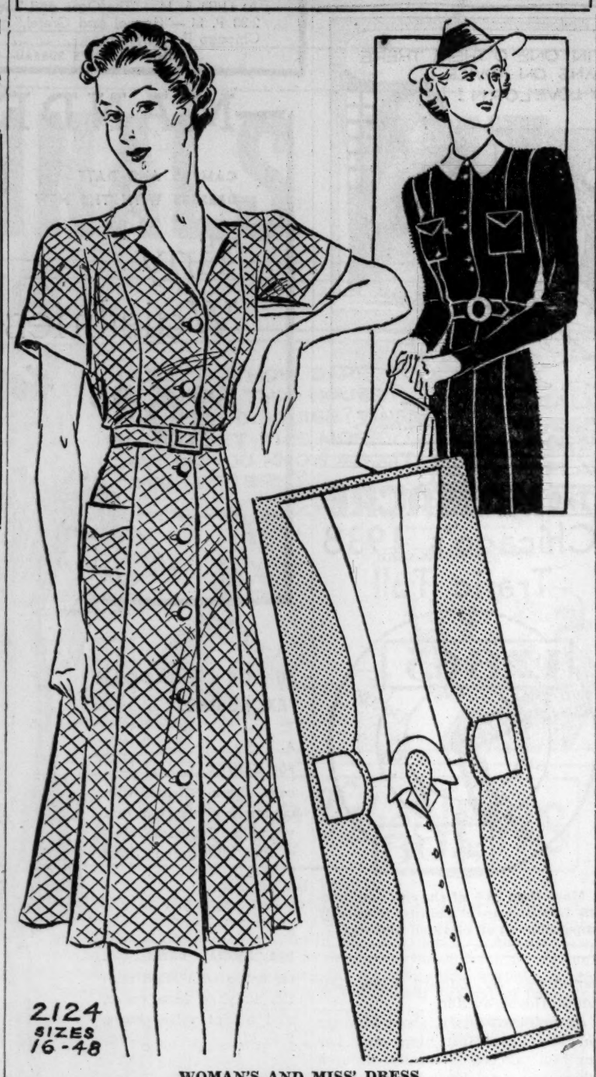
Tailored Dress Is Standard



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Fashion fancies may come and go, but one traditional mode always remains, and that is the tailored dress. It is so practical that none can deny its usefulness in every wardrobe. The style in the pattern today may be created in at least two ways. At the left is a sketch suggesting a model especially suited for informal wear around the house. It has an open rever neckline with notched collar that matches the cuffs on the plain sleeves and the trimming on the pocket. Plaids are particularly good in this design, and prints make up well, too.

You may style this dress more severely for your business hours. Give the high neckline a lingerie collar and put two pockets on the bodice. Group buttons in twos and lengthen the sleeves. There you have a trim frock that will give you an air of distinction, whether it's an important executive you have to interview or a gay little club tea you are to attend.

Style No. 2124 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20 years, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4½ yards of 35 inch material, with 1 yard of 35 inch contrasting.

ing the hunt Thomas J. McKearnan will entertain the riders at breakfast at his home. The M. F. H. of the Longmeadow, Clark J. Lawrence, and his wife and family have not yet returned from a summer abroad.

Freeman J. Wood is acting master during Mr. Lawrence's absence. Until it is cool enough to hunt later in the day the Longmeadow hounds will assemble Monday, Wednesday, and Saturday mornings at 6:40 o'clock. Among the members who will ride this morning are the honorary whips, Ross J. Beatty Jr. and Henry Webster Meers; also Miss Elizabeth Crawford, Martin Lindsay, the Denison B. Hulls, Lockwood Pirie, Miss Veronese Beatty, and the Stewart Boals.

Mr. and Mrs. Boal just have returned from a trip to Maine. Her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fowle Jr., are giving a small cocktail party this evening to welcome home the Boals. Mr. and Mrs. Fowle are moving to town to the Marshall Field Garden apartments Sept. 18, but before then Mrs. Fowle will take a trip to Akron, O. Mrs. Fowle is to be a bridesmaid for Miss Laura Musser when she is married to William Floyd II. on Sept. 17. Miss Musser came to Winnetka to attend the Fowle-Ballard wedding in June.

Mill Creek Hunt to Meet Monday.

The Mill Creek hounds, which have been meeting informally for several weeks, will assemble Monday morning at 11 o'clock. After the hunt Mrs. Merrill Hubbard will entertain at luncheon in the clubhouse for the forty riders. The first formal hunt will be held on Sunday, Sept. 11. On the following Sunday, Sept. 18, the masters, Austin H. Niblack and S. Prentice Porter, and the house committee, which consists of Mrs. John Andrews King and Mrs. Samuel J. Walker, will give a hunt breakfast.

The William F. Peters' debutante daughter, Miss Phyllis, will be at home for this week-end, but their elder daughter, Miss Sylvia Peter, is in Charlevoix, Mich., as a guest of Mrs. C. Morse Ely. Both the Misses Peter are to be at home this winter. Miss Sylvia Peter will continue her art studies this winter.

Miss Barbara Willson, daughter of the Leonard D. Karchers, is another bud remaining at home for the holiday week-end. She will have a gay time, for some of the Karchers' Barrington neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Ivo Meucci, are having houseguests for whom there will be a round of parties. The Italian vice-consul at St. Louis, Alessandro Savorgnan, will be a guest of the Meuccis.

Robert J. Dunhams Arrive Tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Dunham are arriving at home tomorrow from a five week trip to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Peabody, who have been visiting Mr. Peabody's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody, left yesterday for their home in California.

A daughter was born Tuesday night at Passavant hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Kinney Smith Jr. [Virginia Seeley Harrison]. The baby probably will be named Valerie Seeley Smith. She has two brothers, Nicholas Harrison Smith and Kinney Smith III.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: How about a little comedy relief in the great drama of bridge? The following incident contains a few chuckles:

"Our regular Wednesday night game was in session and we were in Dr. M.'s home. The element of chance in our game is greatly increased under these circumstances. Occasionally the doctor receives a phone call from some one in need of his ministrations. Sometimes Doc finishes the rubber then in progress, but when he doesn't his wife takes his place. That is the extra hazard. Doc's play of the hand is not much above average, but his wife's knowledge of the game is decidedly under par. Doc was my partner when the following hand was dealt:

"Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ K J 7 6 4
♥ J 7 3 2
♦ 6 5 3
♣ K

WEST
♠ 8 2
♥ A Q
♦ K 10 4 2
♣ J 10 8 5 3

EAST

♦ Q J 9 8 7

SOUTH
♠ A Q 10 9 3
♣ Q 6 4 2

"Doc, sitting South, was the dealer and opened the bidding with one spade. The final contract was four spades, reached by the 'stagger' system. Without intervening bids we bid one, two, three, and four spades.

"The opening lead was the club jack. I exposed the North hand as dummy just as the phone rang and there was a lull in hostilities while Doc conversed. When he returned he announced that he would have to make a 'call.' I urged him to finish the rubber. Sighing ponderously, he sat down and picked up his cards. 'All right,' he said, 'but it was your mother who phoned. Your kid brother's in bed with a tummyache.' I almost upset the bridge table as I jumped to my feet. 'What are you waiting for? Get going!' I yelled. So Doc grinned and turned over his hand to his wife.

"East took the first trick with the club ace, smothering dummy's blank king. East then failed to make the only return, a low heart, that could set our contract. He led the queen of diamonds. South took the diamond ace and led the queen of clubs, discarding a small heart from the dummy. Then the club four was led and ruffed with the spade four. North's five of diamonds was then ruffed with South's three of spades. South now led her last club and ruffed with the six of spades! Faintly, in the distance, I could hear angels and their harps, softly playing 'My Heart Stood Still.'

"East, grumbling at the cruel fate that dealt him the worthless five spot of trumps, discarded the four of hearts. Dummy's last diamond was led and ruffed with South's nine of trumps. Now the ace and king exhausted the adverse trumps and a small heart was led from the North hand!

"But the agony was over. The ace and queen of hearts were cashed, but the next lead meant a 'sluff and a ruff.' Even East's play of overtaking West's heart queen could not have saved the situation, for the heart jack then would have been promoted to a winning trick. Doc's wife beamed as she announced the result: 'Four hearts, game, and rubber.' Apparently my pale and wan appearance reflected the anxious moments I had just passed through. 'You don't look well,' she said. 'No,' I replied. 'I'm going right home and tell my kid brother to move over.'

Chair-side tables do so much to make a living room attractive and comfortable! In selecting one care should be taken to see that it is the right height for the lounge chair beside which it is to be placed. Its top should be level with the arm of the chair.

We saw a trim, smart little mahogany table of this type the other day. It measured 13 by 21 by 24 inches, and it had an excellent feature, a lower shelf, convenient for holding current magazines and papers. The finish of this table was in the dark wood. It could be used in almost any type of living room except the ultramodern. Its price tag puts it in the inexpensive class, yet it is ever so good looking.

Vercel's Novel Remarkable in Word Imagery

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Tides of Mont St. Michel," by Roger Vercel. [Random, $2.50] Published Tuesday. Joint choice of the Book of the Month club for September.

This remarkable vivifying of a place is called a novel. It does celebrate human drama—in the story of the unhappy spiritual conflict of Andre and his dissatisfied wife, Laura—but it really celebrates something more subtle and more eternal than any human mismating. It is a pæan of beauty, of the august, awe-inspiring beauty of that fantastically rising pile of God's and man's handiwork off the coast of Brittany, lashed by terrific tides, beaten by torrents, surmounted by a vast, untenanted abbey to the honor of St. Michael. Mont St. Michel fired Henry Adams to one of the most beautiful descriptive works in American literature.

The "plot" of this novel is like the quicksands about the mont . . . a mere surface crusting over which those unwilling to worship beauty may hurry safely. It tells of an educated and sensitive man, ruined financially by the depression and the softness of his life as a supported son-in-law. He takes a position as guide in the famous abbey. It is his wife, not he, who comes daily under the mont's spell, who feels degradation in that association. To the reader eager to share with him the mont's fascination, Andre's growing love for the place and the building up of its beauties before his eyes is a literary joy.

"Tides of Mont St. Michel" is in the tradition of the great imaginary writing which creates or recreates a mood. It is writing which is peculiarly French. Warren Bradley Welles, who has made the translation from the original French, has preserved M. Vercel's dignity of phrase when he is writing of the permanencies of nature contrasted with an idiomatic lightness when ephemera speak or act. The picture of the onrushing tide pursuing four men in the mist is one of the tensest experiences in modern literature.

Virginia Woolf Writes a Brilliant Document.

"Three Guineas," by Virginia Woolf. [Harcourt Brace, $2.50.] Published a week ago Thursday.

Thoughtful readers, who remember Virginia Woolf's "A Room of One's Own," have hoped during the ten years since its publication that soon again her trenchant pen would be turned toward the social criticism which she makes so brilliantly both in the subtlety of her attack and in the literary dressing which her onslaught wears.

At long last has come this full sized book in which she chooses the appeals of three "honorary treasurers" for contributions—toward a society for the prevention of war, toward a fund for rebuilding a woman's college, and toward a society to help professional women obtain work—as a springboard to write with sparkling passion about the status of women in England. She elaborates the theme of "A Room of One's Own" and declares that if women are to help prevent war they must be given equal educational opportunities with men to know the causes and effects of wars, they must be able to judge wars with their own economically independent brains and hearts, and they must have direct as well as indirect influence on government and social economy.

Her arguments are stated in language which is a joy to read, for its pure literary beauty, for no one writes her native English with more sheer art. As argument and record of fact concerning women's economic subservience to men, its power, however, for American readers is greatly lessened by the fact that here the status of women economically and socially is infinitely nearer Mrs. Woolf's ideals than it is in England. Many of the restrictions which she writes of with passion are in the United States points won and forgotten with long acceptance. The class which she finds most hampered in England—the educated man's daughter—is here most certain of receiving a good education and of being able, if she wishes, to become a respected individual in the American social and economic scheme.

How she feels the educated man's daughter can help prevent war is stated at brilliant length with concrete suggestions and with witty rapierings of the Englishman's lack of past success in attaining that ideal.

Another Master Uses Her Very Best Prose.

"The Moon Is Feminine," by Clemence Dane. [Doubleday Doran, $2.50.]

Clemence Dane, another master of contemporary English prose, uses her best style in "The Moon Is Feminine." It is a story of Brighton in the year 1803; of Henry Cope, who felt himself somehow related to the legendary "green folk"; of Lady Molly Jessel, whom he loved almost against his own wishes, and of a mysterious seaweed covered boy who came out of a pool in the ocean bearing an amber cup for Henry, and whom Henry loved with all of the volition in him.

The story is utterly remote from reality, except for the authentic background of the famous watering place in that rococo period and except for the authority with which the relationship between Henry Cope and Molly is given a contemporary psychological interpretation. The merboy has no flavor of reality [as, indeed, he is not intended to have], nor has the final tragedy. "The Moon Is Feminine" embellishes Miss Dane's skill as a writer rather than as a novelist.

Three Generation Story of Immigrants in U. S.

"Roots in the Sky," by Sidney Meller. [Macmillan, $3.] Published Tuesday.

Another enormously long, three generation tale of immigrant life in America is this record of Rabbi Drobnin, his wife, their children, and their grandchildren in a "west coast city." It is the tale of two unquestioning orthodox Jews—the rabbi and the rabitzen—about whom their youngest son says, "If I could be as sure of anything as they are of almost everything." They are never touched by their contact with a different way of life. They feel, as they see their children lose their orthodoxy, that "something in America is poison to a Jew." And it is the story of Miriam, "flinging herself hysterically after wisps of salvation," and of David, "groping, clinging to the past, clutching for the future." It also is the story of Leo, who wanted only money and didn't care how he got it, and of Estelle, whose "assurance depended on whomever was nice to her." Then there is Irving, who "had a fairly contented life, but no creed, only the temporary creeds of motorbikes and insecticides" which he sold with passion. And, finally, there is Aba, the youngest, the only one who went to college, and who emerges a militant communist. The grandchildren live briefly but not ephemerally in these closely packed pages.

"Roots in the Sky" is a very thorough record, minutely detailed as far as Jewish customs and observances go, as far as daily living and actions are concerned. It is not a delving, psychological study of any of the characters. Prohibition brings them affluence, through the kosher wine business. They suffer in the depression with the rest of America. But the Drobnins remain essentially aliens—and that through the influence of the most remarkable character in the book, the mother.

Looking Over Latest Books

This Whimsical Story Has Many a Chuckle.

"Age of Consent," by Norman Lindsay. Sketches by the author. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.]

Bradley Mudgett and his doings bring many a chuckle. The problems of food and paint absorb Bradley as he descends from the train at Wantabadgeree. Young Podson arrives to complicate the food problem and the matter of tonal analyses. Next a "figger" appears in the foreground of Bradley's landscapes and he wastes paint in scandalous fashion. The "figger" costs money for model's fees. Bradley needs the money for food and paint. But he can't paint—he discovers—without that "figger." Some laugh producers are aimed at the belly. Norman Lindsay strikes home at a point somewhere nearer the level of the ears. W. D. O.

Second Murder Adds to the Complications.

"A Funeral in Eden," by Paul McGuire. [Morrow, $2.]

Into an urbane British community on a South Sea island comes a stranger who would force exploitation of the asphalt deposits which the sultan—a Scotchman named Buchanan—knows would ruin the charm of his retreat. Besides irritating the sultan, Smith, the interloper, manages to alienate most of the other whites, so his murder leaves it touch and go as to the killer's identity. Paul McGuire is deft at switching suspicion and also complicates things by a second murder and a mysterious attack on the island's woman doctor. In the best fashion he leaves the disclosure to almost the last page. This is not a mystery to be read at 2 a. m. P. W.

Two Volumes Study Problems of Housing.

"Housing Comes of Age," by Michael W. Straus and Talbot Wegg. [Oxford, $2.75.]

Langdon W. Post, an administrator in the field of low cost housing, eloquently presents the case for better planned urban housing, but he frankly appraises the mistakes of the federally subsidized program and recognizes the enormous practical obstacles to solution of the slum problem.

Michael W. Straus, a former Chicago newspaper man, is director of information for the federal program, and Talbot Wegg, his collaborator, is a federal housing architect. As part and parcel of the federal scheme, they content themselves with a factual summary of housing progress under the Public Works administration.

The thoughtful reader—conservative or New Dealer—will recognize the timeliness of Mr. Post's book. For no urban dweller need go farther than the slums of his own city to recognize that our building practices have lamentably failed to provide for families with low incomes. Furthermore, slums are poor business for the city; they breed crime and disease and are bad fire risks, yet rarely pay in taxes the cost of their protection.

No city is proud of such areas. But uncoördinated private building, as practiced in the past, is helpless to replace them, Mr. Post asserts. Nor is federally subsidized housing the solution. It can never provide for the third to one-half of our families whom Mr. Post estimates will need housing under a different sponsorship. The responsibility, he argues, is a local one and should be shouldered locally by private capital and the municipality.

Mr. Straus and Mr. Wegg are certain that Washington can meet the housing situation, especially under the 1937 act, which encourages decentralization and provides a half billion for new projects. Their history of the movement since 1933 is illustrated with an excellent series of photographs of the subsidized units now in operation, of which two of the largest are in Chicago.

An Adequate History of American Packets.

"Square-Riggers on Schedule," by Robert Greenhalgh Albion. [Princeton University press, $3.50.]

The most important of three groups of the old American merchant marine—the packets or sailing liners—is told about in "Square-Riggers on Schedule." Whalers and clippers have been pictured by many writers, but the history of the square rigged packets never before has been adequately told. The author has written a comprehensive story of the New York sailing packets to England, France, and the cotton ports of the south. It is well illustrated, has extensive appendices, a bibliography, and is carefully indexed. It is a valuable addition to marine literature.

This Diary Noteworthy as Record of Courage.

"My Mind a Kingdom," by George Thomas. [Dutton, $2.50.]

George Thomas is the son of a London street cleaner. More important, he is one of four members of a family of seven helplessly crippled with progressive muscular atrophy. He won many admirers several years ago with his "Tenement in Soho." This time he gives us 365 days of his year and thoughts.

None of it is dry reading. None of it is mawkish or morbid. Its literary style is not remarkable, but of what value is a diary if the writer, before scribbling down his thoughts, makes sure they are literature?

In reading this it should be remembered that Thomas must write by hand when writing is almost as difficult as walking, which he cannot do. If his pressure on the pen is not so slight as to be infinitesimal it paralyzes his arm. That he gets any word written is remarkable. But that he has achieved a diary not only barren of complaint but singing with humor and hope, is almost godlike.

Arizona Quest Pictured with Idyllic Quality

"Cactus Forest," by Zephine Humphrey. [Dutton, $2.50.]

If you can imagine any one writing delicately and charmingly about sciatica, Carlsbad cavern, and an Arizona sandstorm, you have an inkling as to the sort of book "Cactus Forest" really is.

Zephine Humphrey is definitly in the gay-curtains-in-a-kitchen-window school of writing. Her style is restful. She finds beauty in simple things. She invests daily living and all its pleasures and little misfortunes with a spiritual quality and an optimism that could easily become saccharine. That it doesn't is a tribute to Miss Humphrey's ability as a writer.

"Cactus Forest" tells the story of a quest for a sciatica cure—and, one suspects, for the satisfaction of a yen to go somewhere. The trail leads to a cottage on the desert near Phoenix, where even the wary rabbits have a mystical aura about them. To one who knows Arizona, the book has a nostalgic quality that at times is almost irresistible.

Similar Motif in Tale of Trailer Adventure.

"We Live in a Trailer," by Syl MacDowell. [Julian Messner, $2.]

Similar to "Cactus Forest" only in motif, "We Live in a Trailer" rides a different road. It is factual, abrupt, outdoorish. The MacDowells cover much of the same territory as do the travelers in "Cactus Forest," but theirs is a practical story of do's and don't's. It tells of adventure found from Arizona to Idaho, of fish in the mountains and campers in Mexico. It covers 15,000 miles and winds up with the inference that so far as the author is concerned trailer life is the well known berries. And it's a good yarn.

Great Arizona Drouth Is Vividly Recorded.

"Arizona Cowboys," by Dane Coolidge. [Dutton, $2.50.]

It is hardly necessary to introduce Dane Coolidge as one of the really authoritative writers on things southwestern. His word pictures of the history, the people, and the appearance of that storied land are preserved in a long row of books. His zoölogical collections and his photographs are even more tangible evidence of his importance as a preserver of the old west.

"Arizona Cowboys" is biographical, for Coolidge saw the heartbreak of the great drouth of 1903-'04, photographed it, and now makes it into a book. It is the story of the cowmen's struggle against the implacable elements and the equally unrelenting business interests which were sending sheep into cattle country. Lightening this unhappy note are tales of the Lost Dutchman mine, tall tales by one Johnny Jones, and the tingling adventure of the Tewksbury-Graham feud.

Some writers are more colorful, better tale tellers. But none is more satisfyingly authentic nor more understanding of the west than the veteran Coolidge.

CHECK FOR $500 IS IDENTIFIED AS HINES' GANG PAY

Sister of Davis Says She Delivered It to Him.

"Dixie" was out of town. He called her up, she said, and instructed her to see Milton Bernard, an accountant who handled income tax returns for the Schultz gang. Bernard gave her a check which she delivered into Hines' hands, the witness testified.

Dewey produced the check and exhibited it to the judge and defense counsel. He announced that the "J. Hines" scribbled on the back was not, in the opinion of the people, the defendant's own signature. Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief of defense counsel, objected, but Justice Pecora overruled him and allowed the check to go into the record.

Passes Check to Jurors.

Passing the check along to the jurors, Dewey left the inference that he would trace its history further next week. Dated June 22, 1934, and drawn on the Continental Bank and Trust company of New York, the check was signed by one Harry Albert, an attorney. It was made out to "cash."

Three signatures appeared as indorsements on the back of the check and they furnished some hint of the journey made by the scrap of paper. First was "J. R. Davis," which Mrs. Wendroff said she had written because she had the power of attorney from "Dixie." Second was the "Hines" signature and third was the name of "Eddie Holly." Holly was identified earlier in the trial as Hines' tout, or the man who handled his bets at the horse tracks.

The state attached great importance to the check. It may be the only bit of documentary evidence of payments from the racketeers to the politician that will be produced at the trial in which oral testimony has indicated the total climbed above $100,000 during 1933, 1934, and 1935.

Tells of Hines Phone Call.

Before putting Mrs. Wendroff on the stand, Dewey had called Max Steuer, well known lawyer and foxy adviser for Tammany Hall, to testify concerning another important episode in the story told by "Dixie" Davis. This was that Hines had asked Steuer to see George Z. Medalie, United States attorney, in an attempt to "adjust" the income tax difficulties of Dutch Schultz in 1933.

Dewey asked Steuer if he recalled a conversation with Hines in which the name of Arthur Flegenheimer was mentioned. Flegenheimer was Schultz's real name.

"Mr. Hines called me to ask whether I would be interested in the income tax case involving Arthur Flegenheimer," related Steuer. "I said I would be glad to find out whether I would be interested in conducting negotiations for adjustment."

Thereafter he talked to Medalie. In the questioning that followed it developed that Medalie explained to the astonished Steuer that Flegenheimer really was the notorious Schultz.

"When Mr. Hines first spoke to you did he tell you who Arthur Flegenheimer was?" inquired Dewey.

"No," said Steuer.

"I called Mr. Hines and said the matter he had spoken to me about could not be adjusted and I was not interested," replied Steuer.

Tax Could Not Be Adjusted.

Steuer added he learned from Medalie that evidence was being presented against Schultz and he was confronted with something more than a "simple matter of adjustment." An indictment against Schultz on income tax evasion charges was obtained by Dewey, who was Medalie's first assistant at this time.

Further food for thought dished up for the jury over the week-end came in the record of another case in which Magistrate Hulon Capshaw allegedly discharged a flagrant policy game case at the request of Hines. "Dixie" Davis had testified Hines interceded with the judge to free "Lulu" Rosenkrantz, bodyguard and chauffeur for Schultz, who had been arrested.

"Lulu," it appeared, had been chased in an automobile by Detectives Edward J. McCarthy and Robert Jones. Just before the officers caught up to him, he threw a big package of policy game slips out of his machine.

Detectives Put in Uniform.

The detectives, who later were transferred from plain clothes duty to walking a beat in uniform after they became over-zealous in raiding policy game headquarters, told the whole story of "Lulu's" capture to Judge Capshaw.

The Schultz hoodlum swore, however, that he did not know what a policy slip—a piece of paper bearing the name of the player and bet—was.

"Do you swear you never had these slips in your possession," asked Judge Capshaw.

"Never," replied "Lulu."

"Defendant discharged," said the judge.

The dapper disbarred attorney, "Dixie" Davis, appeared on the stand at the start of the morning session, but Stryker announced he had no further cross-examination. Dewey said he had no redirect examination, so the man whom Schultz once affectionately called the "kid mouthpiece" walked out of the case to await his sentence by Judge Pecora. Dewey has promised to recommend leniency.

A few minutes later the introduction of wire tapping evidence precipitated violent objections from defense counsel. Stryker declared the tapping of wires was a felony in New York state. There was no statute, he hotly contended, which gave any police officer the right to "violate the privacy of any citizen or break any law."

"That is an attempt to mislead the jury," declared Dewey, "because the penal code does not apply to officers of the law in the performance of their duty in protecting the citizens of this state. Evidence has been obtained by interception of telephone wires with legality and propriety."

Tell of Wire Tapping.

When the legal decks were cleared Sol Gelb, one of Dewey's assistants, took over the examination of the wire tapping witnesses.

First on the stand was Gerald D'Ablemont, a test supervisor for the New York Telephone company. He reported that "Dixie" Davis had a telephone in his apartment from April 16, 1933, until Oct. 4, 1934, with the number Endicott 2-5666.

Next to appear was William J. Mellin, an agent with the intelligence unit of the bureau of internal revenue, who told the court he had "tapped telephones and installed dictographs all over the United States."

Jules Salke, a New York City detective lent to the federal government at the time of the search for Schultz, appeared as the next witness and related that he had listened in on conversations over Endicott 2-5666. On the morning of Sept. 28, 1933, he said, he took notes on an incoming call. Some one had called "Dixie" or "Dick" Davis. Then he narrated the conversation as follows:

Man [outside person] — "Hello, Dick?"

Davis—"Yes."

Man—"This is Joe—the boss wants to talk to you."

Boss—"Hello, Dick, can you let me have 500? I am going downtown to see Johnny Dietz and I need that."

Davis—"All right."

Davis—"Okay."

During his examination Davis had recalled this conversation and identified the "boss" as "Jimmy" Hines. Eddie Holly was Hines' racing tout and the Dietz referred to was a Tammany leader.

Bandits Captured

Location of holdup and capture. After taking slot machines and $200 at the country club (No. 1) two bandits were seized at Inwood golf course (No. 2) and two others in nearby cornfield. Numbers indicate highways 44 and 69.

Police radio effected the capture of four bandits late yesterday within three hours after they invaded the Joliet Country club. A fifth bandit escaped. Police recovered the loot—four slot machines containing about $200.

The club is a mile and a half east of Joliet on route 44. As soon as the bandits fled, police were notified. Radio bulletins went out to Joliet and state highway squads. A Joliet squad sighted the bandits and pursued them west of the city on route 69. A state squad approached from the opposite direction. The bandits swerved off into the Inwood golf course about four miles west of the city and abandoned their car. Police chased them on foot, capturing two. A posse was formed and an hour later two more were seized, hiding in a corn field.

The prisoners, all of Joliet, are Martin Galle, 211 Ottawa street; his brother, Frank, of the Central hotel; Steve Jasurda, 125 Fairchild avenue, and Herman Valentino, 1317 California avenue. They were taken to the Chicago detective bureau for investigation.

WANT TO DODGE LABOR DAY JAM? HERE ARE TIPS

Return Early or Use Alternate Routes.

BY HAL FOUST.

A week-end of heavy motor travel started last night and will be in full motion today. In the three days ending Monday night, an estimated 1,500,000 drivers and passengers will use the highways of Chicagoland.

Trafic will reach its peak volume on Monday afternoon and night. There will be congestion at bottle necks on main routes within Chicago and approaching Chicago.

With schools opening on Tuesday, the Labor day trafic will include thousands of families returning to the city from vacations and from summer cottages. On the highway, they will be joined by city dwellers who have spent a week-end in the country.

Congestion Monday Night.

Today and tomorrow, police anticipate that the roads will be busy but not congested. The outbound trafic will be distributed over two or three days. The inbound trafic will be concentrated from about 5 p. m. to 10 or 11 p. m. on Monday.

To avoid Monday's jams requires that automobile parties plan their trips in advance. Some will escape delays on the road by timing their return to Chicago for Monday forenoon or early Tuesday. Others, aware of locations subject to congestion, will bypass these bottlenecks over pavements rarely crowded.

To aid week-end motorists in bypassing congestion the Chicago Motor club has offered several helpful suggestions.

How to Avoid Bottleneck.

"For example," said Bert Vanderwarf, manager of the motor club touring bureau, "a motorist who will be returning to Chicago from Michigan or northern Indiana on Monday can be forewarned of congestion at the convergence of U. S. 12 and U. S. 20 in East Gary, Ind. He can see that he might avoid this bottleneck by turning south in Ind. 49 to enter Illinois on U. S. 6.

"As another example, South Shore drive will be jammed between 95th street and Jackson park. The preferred alternate route is over 95th street and Stony Island avenue.

"Approaching Chicago on U. S. 20 from the west, motorists are warned of congestion at the intersection of Harlem avenue and Lake street in Oak Park. To avoid this jam the driver can leave U. S. 20 in Elmhurst and take North avenue into Chicago.

"Excursions returning from Wisconsin and northern Illinois will find Rand road jammed south of Volo, Ill. At Volo they can leave Rand road for the less crowded Ill. 59A to Ill. 54."

117,000 NOW DUE AT SAFETY LANES FOR AUTO TESTS

Owners of 103,000 passenger cars and 14,000 trucks are due at the city's testing lanes this month for compulsory semi-annual safety inspection of their machines. Owners of 34,000 other motor vehicles are overdue at the lanes, and are guilty of a misdemeanor under a city ordinance.

Edward J. Gorman, deputy commissioner of the vehicle license bureau, said yesterday that arrests are continuing at a rate of about fifty a day. The delinquents receive summonses returnable to the Cafeteria court with payment of a $2 fine.

Due for tests in September are passenger cars under 35 horse power with city license numbers 200,001 to 300,000, cars over 35 horse power with numbers 6,001 to 9,000, trucks of less than one and one-half tons from 16,001 to 24,000, and trucks over one and one-half tons from 12,001 to 18,000.

6 PERSONS KILLED AS AUTOS CRASH; 1 DRIVER HURT

Dayton, O., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Six persons were killed and one critically injured tonight in an automobile collision at a highway intersection near Lebanon, 20 miles south of Dayton. The dead are C. A. Platt, 59 years old; Mrs. Platt, 50; Thomas Mylor Jr., 14; Robert Mylor, 12; Mrs. Helen Mylor, 42, and Mrs. Audrey Grigsby, all of Dayton. Platt was driving one car and Thomas Mylor Sr., 45, the only survivor, the other. Mylor was critically injured. A tree struck by one of the cars on the rebound was scarred 13 feet above ground.

Vehicle License Collections Slightly Higher This Year

City Collector Louis Rixmann said yesterday that $5,063,740 was collected in the first eight months of this year through the sale of vehicle licenses. The total was $5,034,240 in the corresponding period last year.

WPA WORKER IS STRICKEN.

Norwegian After All

[Acme Photo.]

SIGRID GURIE.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Sigrid Gurie, whom Samuel Goldwyn, movie producer, tried to publicize as a Norwegian "find," although she was born in Brooklyn, really is not a United States citizen, federal immigration officials informed her today.

Miss Gurie asked for a passport to go to London, where she is to make a sequel to "Marco Polo," her first Hollywood starring vehicle. She was informed that although she was born in this country and lived here a few years immediately thereafter, a treaty with Norway, the land of her parents, decrees that she is Norwegian.

"I can't understand it," said the actress. "If the government holds that being born in Brooklyn does not entitle me to citizenship, I shall ask permission to reënter under a quota number. I want this to be my home for the rest of my life."

Fined $100 for Leaving Scene of Auto Accident

Kazimer Bougis, 4536 South Wood street, was fined $100 by Judge John V. McCormick in the Safety court yesterday for leaving the scene of an accident. He also was suspended from driving for a year. Bougis was arrested on Aug. 13 after his car slightly injured a girl, 13 years old, at Ashland avenue and Garfield boulevard.

BOY DARTS FROM BEHIND TROLLEY; KILLED BY TRUCK

Herman Romanek, 14 years old, 5205 South Kilbourn avenue, was fatally injured late yesterday when he stepped from behind a street car into the path of a truck in front of 5207 Archer avenue. The driver of the truck was Bert Lode, 6800 West 95th street, Oaklawn.

Peter Halko, 22 years old, 2017 West 50th street, was fatally injured last night when he fell from a truck on which he was a helper at 5243 South Fairfield avenue.

John Nevins, 80 years old, 11364 Champlain avenue, died in the County hospital yesterday from injuries suffered in an accident May 17. Nevins was struck by a car driven by the Rev. Katherine Krysinski, 5206 South Justine street, while crossing Michigan avenue at 44th street.

Michael Bennett, 42 years old, 5751 South Ashland avenue, died late last night in the County hospital of injuries suffered on Thursday when he was struck by an automobile in front of 1520 South Halsted street. The driver was Joseph Petrauskas, 33, of 2800 South Union avenue.

Peter Sanfilippo, 33 years old, 4855 South Kedvale avenue, was injured seriously when he was struck by one automobile and hurled against another as he was crossing Archer avenue in the 4200 block. Police said Sanfilippo was struck by a car driven by Thomas McEnery, 5523 South Albany avenue, and thrown against a car driven by Edward Kika, 3343 South Hoyne avenue.

An unidentified girl about 18 years old was killed last night and her youthful escort critically injured when they were struck by an automobile on Jackson boulevard in Columbus park. The driver was Lester Bresnick, 3825 Congress street, a trucker.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 536 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 408 were killed in Chicago, where 12,865 were injured in the same period.

CARDINALS CUT PIRATE LEAD TO 6½ GAMES

Budge Paired with Bromwich.

Bobby Riggs.

These pairings for the opening singles matches tomorrow in the annual battle for the Davis cup, international tennis trophy, occasioned widely divergent opinions on the part of the two competing teams. Quist and Bromwich, who will attempt to win the cup for Australia, were overjoyed at the quirk of the draw which sends the former against young Riggs, making his debut in Davis cup play. The Americans, on the other hand, felt that the draw for the first round of the singles tomorrow afternoon on the courts of the Germantown Cricket club, meant no difference whatsoever.

The Australian reception of the pairing, bringing together Rookie Riggs and the veteran Quist, was expressed by Harry Hopman, nonplaying manager of the team from down under. He said that the draw was perfect as far as he and his players were concerned, and that tonight they feel they have a real chance to retrieve the trophy.

Americans are Satisfied.

Walter Pate, nonplaying captain of the American squad, stated that he also was satisfied with the draw. He pointed out that the pairings for the first singles matches will be reversed for the second set on Monday, and that regardless of whom Riggs played or in what round, it made little difference. The Americans are convinced that they have the team and the tennis to retain the cup.

Of more concern to the Americans was the condition of the courts on which they will battle, a point in which the Australians agreed with them. The grass playing surface at Germantown is marked with small divot holes and the grass itself is quite patchy. The players of both teams agreed, however, that it was as fair for one as for the other.

A majority of the experts feel that the Australian jubilation over Quist's pairing against Riggs may become a psychological advantage for the young American. Vincent Richards, New York professional, who was a Davis cup mainstay for years, stressed Riggs' serious attitude toward his Davis cup berth, adding that with such a mental attitude, the young Chicagoan is capable of defeating any player in the game.

Play Doubles Tomorrow.

Riggs has for the last year been a challenge to the propriety of the officials of the United States Lawn Tennis association, but that august organization finally was forced to recognize his talents by giving him a place on the squad. He has won one tournament after another the last twelve months, dominating national tennis while Budge was overseas. If he attains a frame of mind in which he feels that he is on the spot the husky youngster may still be able to overcome the more experienced Quist.

Budge is naturally being favored to win both of his singles matches, and while there has been no official announcement for Sunday's doubles match it is practically a foregone conclusion hat Don and Gene Mako, his California partner, will face Quist and Bromwich.

ERROR BY RUTH HELPS BUFFALO BEAT DODGERS

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Buffalo's International league Bisons pushed over four runs in the first inning of an exhibition game with the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight and went on to win, 7 to 5. An error by Babe Ruth, who forsook the coaching box for first base in the Brooklyn starting lineup, helped pave the way for the Bisons' opening attack. Ruth played five innings, fanning once and rolling out twice in three trips to the plate. Score:

ITALIAN OWNED TROTTER WINS $2,500 STAKE

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Duchess, owned by Count Paoli Mandelli of Italy and handled by Will Caton, scored a straight heat victory in the $2,500 Consolation stake for 3 year old trotters, feature of today's Grand Circuit racing program at the New York state fair.

The brown Peter Volo filly was pressed only in the second heat, when the Good Time stable's Esther Mite from Goshen, N. Y., was nosed out after a fine stretch drive.

BANNER SEASON AT WASHINGTON PARK ENDS TODAY

$2,500 Stake Draws 10 for Closing Feature.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Washington Park's remarkable racing season, during which attendance and betting records have been shattered, comes to a close with the running of the Washington Park Sprint handicap at 6 furlongs this afternoon.

Ten were named in the overnight field and it is expected that all will start in the $2,500 stake. Mad Money, which will represent Leo J. Mark's Lemar Stock farm stable of Kentucky, will rule as the favorite. He scored a victory early in the week to qualify for the race.

The Patrons' Handicapping contest, which has given the Washington Park track a new lease on life, will dangle a prize of $5,000 before the eyes of those in today's crowd. It will go to the person or persons selecting the most winners.

Distribute $33,000 in Prizes.

This alone gives promise of packing the plant. The Washington Park Jockey club, after today's prize is awarded, will have passed out $33,000 in the contest. Tracks in many sections have copied the contest, rules of which have been changed to take it out of the lottery classification.

The Washington Park handicap is the ninth stake of the 30 day meeting. It replaced a mile and a quarter event that failed to fill to the satisfaction of the track officials. There has been a derth of route running stake performers in this section most of the summer.

Mad Money will attempt to roll up the third stake victory for Lemar farm. His stable companion Marle accounted for the two others. In these races Mad Money finished second behind his stable companion on one occasion and was third back of Marle in the other.

Manie O'Hara, Gato Win.

The two best races on yesterday's program, which was witnessed by a record mid-week crowd, were captured by Manie O'Hara, at 14 to 1, and by Gato, which paid $9.20.

Gato, matched against some of the fleetest sprinters at the track in the fifth race, took the lead soon after the start and stayed there until the windup. Maleman and Absconder challenged at different times, but neither was able to get close to Gato, which won by a length and a half. Black River, stoutly backed in some quarters, ran a bad race and finally wound up last, beaten by more than fifteen lengths.

Manie O'Hara, already the winner of two races at Washington Park, employed new tactics when she led a fashionable band home in the mile and seventy yards sixth race. In her previous victories here she had come from far back in the stretch to run over her field in the late stages.

Wilson Pilots Winners.

Manie O'Hara flew into the lead at the end of the first quarter and maintained such a speedy pace that she won by two lengths in 1:43. J. G. Wilson was in the saddle and it was his second victory of the afternoon. He had scampered home on old Drombo in the second race.

H. C. Mechtersheimer of 534 West 103d street won the $1,000 handicapping prize yesterday. Mechtersheimer and three others picked six winners out of seven. In the eighth race, used to decide a tie, he picked Carl B., the winner, while the other three all had Thistle Ress, the favorite, which was out of the money.

Mechtersheimer's only miss was the fourth race, in which he chose Boston Sound in place of the winner, Gold Mesh.

Mechtersheimer declined to give his age when interviewers gathered around as he received his check, but he did say that he has been a grocer and butcher for fifty years in the 103d street district, once known as Fernwood. He recalled going to the races at the old Washington Park, Harlem, and Hawthorne tracks. He said he made only a few modest bets on the winners he picked yesterday.

Cubs and Reds Play Twice Today to Break 2d Place Tie

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs, who finished second to the Giants last season, and the Cincinnati Reds, who finished eighth to the whole bunch of National league teams in 1937, this afternoon will play two games of baseball in Cincinnati in an effort to break their present second place tie. Of course, some thought will be given to gaining on the Pirates, who now lead both teams by the rather chilling margin of 6½ games.

The improved Reds and the same old Cubs have played seventeen games this season. Strangely enough, the Cubs have won most of the games played in Cincinnati, but have been soft for the Reds in Wrigley field. But put them all together and they spell nine victories for the Cubs and eight for the Reds.

This ratio seems good enough, in view of the fact that the Reds have been able to whip the Cubs when they couldn't whip anybody else. Incidentally, the 1937 tailenders took the Cubs to the cleaners eight times.

Vance Page, currently effective, and Tex Carleton, who had won three straight before the Boston Bees put him in the broiler the other day, will pitch this afternoon for the Cubs. The Reds have been running a pitching infirmary recently, headed by Johnny Vander Meer, the double no-hit fellow. But when it comes to a showdown with the Cubs, Manager McKechnie always can rely upon Derringer, Derringer, and Derringer in a three game series.

Dizzy Dean did not go to Cincinnati with the team. It was said that neither Manager Hartnett nor Trainer Lotshaw could penetrate "Do Not Disturb" barricades at Diz's apartment in a north side hotel. It was learned, however, that he was in bed with a severe chest cold.

Eye Second Place Money.

The double-header today will be the start of an eight game western road trip. There still are mathematical chances for the pennant, but the greater incentive will be to assure second place money. Thus relaxed the boys might not get the pennant jitters as heretofore and might skip in if the Pirates drop dead. When the Cubs think about pennants they choke, as everybody has observed since 1935, but if they arrange their target a little closer they still are a fair baseball outfit.

Then there is the matter of playing for next year's contracts. Several of the former sluggers who simply had to walk in with their batting and runs batted in records and demand the big sugar, on the present statistics, will have to base their high salary demands on winning smiles and radiant personalities. Mr. Wrigley is said to be more susceptible to big batting and pitching averages than he is to winning smiles. So the boys just must fatten up those numbers if they are to get the gelt.

That Cash Difference.

The cash difference in the second, third, and fourth places is worth a little September exertion, even for the most blasé and lazy ballplayers. Based on last year's take, which was average, the differences are as follows:

Each second place Cub received $1,276.75 of the world series pot. Each third place Pirate received $810.05. Each fourth place Cardinal received $412.85.

The Cubs on Thursday noon rated $412.85. If the Reds had not moved into second with them while idle Thursday afternoon the Cubs would have rated $1,276.75. So you can see the Cubs still have plenty to work for even if they can't overtake the Pirates in Chicago's remaining 30 games.

PROBABLE MAJOR LEAGUE PITCHERS IN TODAY'S GAMES

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Probable pitchers in the major leagues tomorrow, with their won-lost records:

St. Louis at Pittsburgh—Macon [2-9] vs. Tobin [12-7].

Barlund, Pastor Sign for New York Fight

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Gunnar Barlund, Finnish heavyweight boxing champion, and Bob Pastor of New York today were signed by Mike Jacobs for a 15 round bout in Madison Square Garden on Oct. 3. Jacobs said he hoped the bout would be the first of a series of matches to find an opponent for Champion Joe Louis.

SOX WILL FACE TIGERS TODAY; KNOTT TO PITCH

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Prof. James Dykes will have his White Sox back in their own Comiskey park today and would like nothing better than to open, in a formal fashion, the fall school for green peas.

But the aged professor who for the last couple of weeks has taken a terrible beating while trying to play second base, may have to delay giving expert advice to the freshmen who are supposed to be on hand this afternoon.

The hitch in the school opening is that today and tomorrow the Sox play the Tigers. On Monday they play the Cleveland Indians in a double header. Both these teams are struggling for money positions so in fairness to all concerned the Professor thinks it would be better to play as many of his regulars as possible during these two series.

Berger Ready to Play.

The Professor won't object much to postponing the fall class if he can find somebody to relieve him of playing second base. He has hopes of making this find today. Reports from the sick bay where many of the Comiskey employees are confined indicate that Boze Berger will be able to take over the position. Boze was spiked above the knee at Cleveland and that's what made it necessary for Dykes to get up out of his easy chair and go to work. He was willing enough but it was sort of tough on his 41 year old body.

At least one rookie may be present today, this change being justified by the fact that it might strengthen the Sox. With two of the catchers in a convalescent state, Norm Schlueter has been doing all the backstopping and his talents haven't been exactly pleasing. So the professor may substitute Mike Tresh, the third man in the big deal with Detroit last December. Tresh summered with the Buffalo club.

Knott to Pitch.

Jack Knott, the fellow who has a habit of pitching tight ball and seldom being furnished with any runs by his mates, probably will work today's opener. Dykes did want to start off with either Monty Stratton or Ted Lyons, but the former isn't quite sure of the ankle turned while running around the outfield in Boston last week and Lyons has the sniffles.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The revived St. Louis Cardinals went on a scoring spree for three innings today, but they just managed to beat the league leading Pirates, 11 to 10. The defeat sliced half a game from the Pirates' lead, leaving them six and a half games in front of the idle Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs, who are tied for second place.

Paced by Don Gutteridge, whose home run, triple, and single drove in five runs, the Cardinals landed on Cy Blanton and Joe Bowman in the fourth, fifth, and sixth innings to score all their runs.

Pirates Come Back.

The Pirates came back to drive Bob Weiland from the game under a six run barrage in the seventh, and they scored another in the ninth. But with the tying run on second base Bill McGee got Al Todd on an outfield fly to end the game and save the fifteenth victory of the year for Weiland.

Johnny Rizzo matched Gutteridge in run-making for the day, hitting a homer and single and driving five runs home. Two errors and Rizzo's homer gave the Pirates a three run lead in the first inning, but starting the fourth the Cardinals took command.

Gutteridge Enjoys Himself.

An error, Gutteridge's single, Jim Brown's triple, and Mickey Owen's hit scored three in the fourth; singles by Stu Martin, Don Padgett, Joe Medwick, Johnny Mize, and Brown, and Gutteridge's triple brought five home in the fifth, and, in the sixth, after Medwick and Mize singled, Gutteridge hit his homer inside the park.

RILEY SMITH MAY LEAVE HOSPITAL, GO EAST TODAY

Riley Smith, quarter back of the Washington Redskins, who has been in Woodlawn hospital since Thursday morning, hopes to leave for Washington this afternoon for further treatment of the leg injury suffered during the defeat of the professional football champions in the game with the College All-Americans Wednesday evening.

Smith has not walked since being admitted to the hospital with a hemorrhage of the right thigh muscle, but the attending physician, Dr. Gilman W. Petit, said last night he will be able to walk unaided to board a train. Smith is expected to be able to resume his duties for the opening game of the National Professional football season against Philadelphia Sept. 11.

Pneumonia Causes Death of Bill Terry's Father

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—William T. Terry, father of Bill Terry, New York Giants manager, died today. He was 60 years old. Pneumonia was given as the cause of his death. He entered a private hospital here a short time ago. Terry, native Atlantan, was a retired wholesale grocery dealer.

WOMEN GOLFERS SEE CHANCE FOR RECORD SCORE

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The low qualifying mark in the national women's golf tournament has dropped 19 shots in 42 years of competition, but that figure is expected to be cut again when the nation's ablest feminine swingers and a number of their contemporaries from the British Isles gather at Westmoreland Country club on Sept. 19 for the 1938 event.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, perennial threat in the big league tournaments, is one of the experts who have played Westmoreland recently and who feel that the present record of 76 will be bettered on the day of the 18 hole qualifying round, granting that good weather conditions prevail. Among the entrants whom Mrs. Hill feels may lower 76 are Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, defending champion; Patty Berg, western Derby winner and victor in the recent western closed meet, who was national runnerup last year; Marion Miley, Kathryn Hemphill, Maureen Orcutt, Jane Cothran, Barbara Ransom, Beatrice Barrett, and Dorothy Kirby. Mrs. Hill's own name can easily be added to this list as potential 76 breaker.

First Mark 95.

The last century saw Beatrix Hoyt win the medal at Morris county, N. J., with a 95 in the 1896 tournament. Two years later she shot a 92 at Ardsley-on-Hudson, N. Y. Ninety was broken for the first time in 1902 when Margaret Curtis and Mrs. L. A. Wells tied with 89's at Brookline.

It required 22 years to break 80, Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare shooting a 79 in 1924. The following year, Mrs. Alex Stirling Fraser turned in a winning 77, which stood until 1933, when Enid Wilson of England smacked out a 76 at Exmoor.

Wins Medal Twice.

Mrs. Page has won the qualifying medal the last two years, in 1936 with a 78 and last year with a 79. The present champion also holds the record for the lowest medal play card in a recognized event—a 69 in the North and South qualifying round at Pinehurst last spring. Currently, Miss Berg is the fastest scorer in the game. Her most recent achievements include a 73 in the rain during the western Derby and a match play card of 74 in the first eighteen holes of the women's western championship match.

Practically all of the favorites in the national tournament will have an opportunity to warm up their competitive games next Wednesday and Thursday, when the fourth biennial Curtis cup matches between the United States and Great Britain are decided at the Essex Country club, Manchester, Mass. The Americans won the trophy in 1932 and 1934, and tied for it in 1936.

The American squad includes Frances Stebbins of Boston, non-playing captain; Mrs. Page, Mrs. Vare, Charlotte Glutting, Maureen Orcutt, and the Misses Berg, Miley, and Hemphill. The British squad, led by Mrs. R. H. Wallace-Williamson, captain and manager, consists of Jessie Anderson, Nan Steel Baird, Elsie Corlett, Mrs. Andrew M. Holm, Clarrie Tiernan, Phyllis Wade, and Mrs. J. B. Walker.

The three foursome matches will be played on Wednesday and the six singles battles on Thursday. All matches will be at 18 holes.

The twenty-fifth annual Club Relations day of the Chicago District Golf association will be held next Friday at the Medinah Country club. The event is one of the best on the C. D. G. A. calendar, bringing into competion as it does all of the officers and directors of the organization.

DETROIT GOLFER TAKES COLORED AMATEUR TITLE

Dr. Remus G. Robinson, Detroit, won the national colored amateur golf championship yesterday by defeating John Lewis, Chicago, 10 and 8, in the final round on the Palos Park course. It was the third title decided during the week. Last Thursday Harold Wheeler, Atlanta, Ga., won the open crown, and Miss Mel Moye, also of Atlanta, captured the women's championship.

Wheeler, playing with friends yesterday, established a new course record, firing a 65, five under par. The old record was 66, established by Pat Ball. Wheeler shot a 32 on the first 9 and a 33 on the second.

FIFTY DRIVERS TO COMPETE IN MIDGET RACES

More than fifty drivers will compete in the midget automobile races at Riverview speedway tomorrow and Monday night.

Most of the states in the middle west will be represented as well as California and New York. Harry and Marshall Lewis are the west coast pilots and Bubby Rush is expected from New York.

Steinkemper Is Named Line Coach at St. Mel

Bill Steinkemper will be the line coach at St. Mel High school this season, it was announced yesterday by Al McGuff, head coach. Steinkemper was an all-Catholic tackle and full back when a member of the De Paul preps and a star at Notre Dame. of the Negro American league.

Fort Sheridan Horse Show Opens Today

The thirteenth Fort Sheridan horse show will open this morning and continue through tomorrow night, with morning, afternoon, and evening programs scheduled for each day. Proceeds will be turned over to the army relief and other charities.

In addition to the regulation classes for three gaited and five gaited saddle horses, hunters, jumpers, and horsemanship, the performances will be featured by such unconventional events as troopers' mounts, bareback jumping, officers' chargers, polo pony bending races, Olympic equestrian fund sweepstakes, and hunt team competition.

Military Exhibitions.

Military exhibitions by the 3d field artillery, 14th cavalry and 2d infantry will climax each evening's performance. These maneuvers include an intricate criss-cross specialty by the artillery, a squadron parade with pistol firing, and a machine gun demonstration by the cavalry, and a silent rifle drill and wall scaling exhibition under fire by the infantry.

The order of events in the ring today:

MORNING—Privates' jumping, children's horsemanship, green hunters, troopers' mounts, and horses suitable to become hunters.

AFTERNOON—Lightweight hunters, children's jumpers, three gaited saddle horse [open], middle and heavyweight hunters, knockdown and out, five gaited saddle horses [open], polo ponies, and thoroughbred hunters.

EVENING—Three gaited saddle horses ridden by women, bareback jumping, officers' chargers, and five gaited saddle horses ridden by women.

Many of the 125 horses entered in the thirty-eight classes will compete in three or more events. Judging will be done by C. Wadsworth Howard of Greenwich, Conn.; Lieut. Col. E. N. Hardy of Lexington, Ky., and James Casson of Franklin, Mich.

Tip Top Has Most Entries.

Fort Sheridan officers are concentrating upon the hunter and jumper events, with Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commanding officer of the 6th corps area listing three mounts; Lieut. Col. Wilfred M. Blunt, two, and Lieut. Col. P. W. Evans, one.

Conspicuous among gaited saddle horse contenders are Miss Elaine Victor of Wilmette with Little Man, Miss Jean Scharin of Evanston with Bubbles, Frederick Perry of Chicago with Rippling Rhythm, Irving Ellis of Chicago with Dare Hightone and King of Highland, Col. I. S. Martin of Highland Park with Benny and Red, and Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Rivers of Highland Park with Hy Action and Rex Wilmore.

American Giants Face Series with Memphis

The Chicago American Giants will open a four game series against the Memphis Red Sox tomorrow. Double headers are scheduled tomorrow and Monday in the Giants park, 39th street and Wentworth avenue.

Track Workers Bet on 100-1 Shot --And They Win

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Gay Troubadour, which hadn't won a race in the last two seasons, came under the wire first in the second race yesterday and paid off the few who backed him at 100 to 1.

Among those few were the track workers, who get out with rakes between races and smooth off the strip, and the boys who handle the jocky board in the infield. They had pooled their money and bet $20—which gave them back $2,000 plus their original bet.

Such a whooping and hollering went up from the infield when Gay Troubadour stuck his nose under the wire that everybody from the paddock to the bleachers knew that the boys finally had speared a winner. The price of 100 to 1 was the longest paid off by any winner this season.

Gay Troubadour had earned only $170 in prize money in two years—less than enough to pay his oat bills. Matched in the second with a field of fourteen cheap platers, he opened at 50 to 1, but with no action on him at all, the bookmakers raised the price to 100 to 1. A 100 to 1 shot is the hope of every horse player. Of 16,000 races at all tracks in America last season, there were only eight winners at 100 or more to 1—an average of one in 2,000 races.

BERG WON'T MEET ARON; BURKE MAY BE SUBSTITUTED

Jackie [Kid] Berg, veteran New York welterweight, has refused an offer to meet Milt Aron in a ten round headliner in Marigold Gardens Sept. 12. Marigold promoters explained Berg's handlers do not wish to endanger the fighter's chances of obtaining a large purse against a major opponent in the east. Negotiations have been opened to have Jack Burke of Ogden, Utah, substitute against Aron. Davey Day and Harvey Woods are principals in the ten round windup in Marigold next Wednesday.

California Polo Team to Meet Rangers

Eliminated from the intercircuit tournament by the Austin Polo club in the semi-final round, the Santa Barbara polo team from California will make a fresh start in the 12 goal meet against the Rangers of Chicago this afternoon on the No. 2 field of the Oak Brook Polo club, York road and 29th street.

The game will be a quarter-final round of the 12 goal tourney, and the winner will qualify to oppose Grosse Pointe of Detroit in a semi-final Monday.

Starting time for this afternoon's game will be 4:30 o'clock.

Austin Tunes Up.

The Austin Polo club team of San Antonio, Tex., southwestern circuit champions, engaged in a tuneup match yesterday with the 124th Field Artillery of Chicago in preparation for the final of the inter-circuit meet tomorrow against the United States Artillery of Fort Sill, Okla., northwestern sectional champions.

Today's lineups:

SANTA BARBARA.	RANGERS.
C. M. Converse	No. 1 J. A. Hannah
Hale Marsh	No. 2 Jack Armstrong
Alex Bullock	No. 3 Dan Peacock
C. H. Jackson Jr.	Back Leon Mandel

Grosse Pointe to Play.

Preceding the tournament match and starting at 3 o'clock, Grosse Pointe of Detroit will ride against Rising Sun Ranch of Chicago in a test game arranged to give the Michigan team practice for the 12-goal semi-final Monday.

American Automobile Wins in Softball, 13-8

American Automobile, defending softball champion, defeated Insurance Company of North America last night, 13 to 8, in Grant park. In the other games London and Lancashire upset Great American, 7 to 6, and W. A. Alexander & Co. beat Miller's Nationals, 5 to 4.

Jock Sutherland Denies He'll Quit as Coach at Pitt

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Dr. Jock Sutherland said today he has no intention of changing his football coaching job at the University of Pittsburgh for another school. The statement was made in reply to persistent reports that Sutherland planned to resign, or had given the school notice of his intention to quit and go to U. C. L. A., Duke, Temple, Southern California, or Navy.

Sutherland's contract provides he or the school must give two years' notice to terminate.

"I absolutely have not given the university any notice of quitting, nor has the school served me with any such word," said Sutherland. "At various times I have been approached concerning other coaching jobs, but always indirectly—never by any one with authority to really proffer such positions. Any stories to the contrary are false."

GRAHAM LEADS GOLDEN JUBILEE GOLF TOURNEY

French Lick, Ind., Sept. 2.—[Special.] — John Graham, 58 year old member of Oakmont Country club, Pittsburgh, and present senior champion of western Pennsylvania, led a field of veteran golfers in the Golden Jubilee tournament today at French Lick Springs course. He scored 76. The concluding 18 holes will be played tomorrow.

Sherill Sherman of Utica, N. Y., was second with 77. In third place was Christian Kenney of St. Louis, three times Missouri champion and senior titleholder last year, with 78. Next was Robert Resener of Kokomo, Ind., with 79, then W. H. Diddel of Indianapolis with 80.

John A. Middleton of Beverly club, Chicago, scored a 93, E. L. Essley of Westmoreland club, Chicago, totaled 92.

GHEZZI, HOGAN INCREASE LEAD IN GOLF TOURNEY

Hershey, Pa., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Putting that drew the gallery's cheers gave Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., and Ben Hogan, White Plains, N. Y., a lead of nine points today in the Hershey round robin, best ball golf tourney.

Holing birdie after birdie for a 10 under par 63, Ghezzi and Hogan routed Jimmy Thomson of Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., and Lawson Little of San Francisco, 7 up, in a third round match. The game of Thomson and Little blew up on the last five holes, giving Ghezzi and Hogan a plus thirteen for the three rounds to date.

Paul Runyan, national P. G. A. champion and fellow townsman of Hogan, and Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., grabbed the runner-up position by beating Dick Metz and Ky Laffoon of Chicago, 2 up. Their score for the three rounds is plus four.

Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., and Ed Dudley of Philadelphia, dropped to third place by barely beating Gene Sarazen of Brookfield Center, Conn., and Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, N. Y., 1 up.

Henry Picard, playing his own course, and Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., defeated Harry Cooper of Chicago, and Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., 1 up, in the other third round match. The team standings:

Ghezzi-Hogan, plus 12.
Runyan-Snead, plus 4.
Nelson-Dudley, plus 3.
Sarazen-Hines, zero.
Picard-Revolta, minus 1.
Cooper-Smith, minus 3.
Metz-Laffoon, minus 7.
Thomson-Little, minus 9.

Dog Fanciers of Chicagoland Plan Busy Fall

BY BOB BECKER.

Dog owners in Chicagoland are getting their pets ready for a busy fall season. Starting Sunday, Sept. 18, when between 100 and 200 promising puppies are shown in a match sponsored by the Midwest Puppy Match association, many events for dog fanciers will be held.

Dog owners wishing further information on the Sept. 18 show and other fall events write Mrs. Florence Lowenbach, secretary of the Midwest Puppy Match association, whose address is Glenview, Illinois.

On Oct. 9 the Northbrook Kennel club will hold its annual show at the Onwentsia club in Lake Forest. This is one of the most enjoyable of all fall dog events for Chicagoland dog owners who have show specimens.

Expect 700 Entries.

Last year the club had around 500 entries in the show. This year it expects 700. Entries for this show will close Sept. 25. Full details on the show may be obtained from Miss Emily Schweitzer, secretary, 1240 Waukegan Road, Northbrook, Ill.

The two week-ends of Oct. 15 and 16 and Oct. 22 and 23 will be entertaining for those who like the sporting breeds. On Oct. 15 and 16 the English Springer Spaniel Field Trial club of Illinois will hold its annual trial, probably between Barrington, and Dundee. On the 22d and 23d the Midwest Field Trial club, the first organization in the west to promote the interests of retriever breeds, will hold its fall trial near Barrington.

Plan Stake for Springers.

Fletcher Garlock, president of the Midwest club, has announced three judges for retriever stakes in the trial: They are Gaylord Donnelly of Lake Forest, Ill., Arthur P. Moecher of Aurora, and Walter Roesler of New York City. Roesler is the secretary of the Cheasapeake Bay Club of America and one of the best known eastern authorities on retriever breeds.

A special springer spaniel stake to be run during the trial will be judged by Glen S. Dundore of Plainfield, Ill. and Dr. Stuart O. Sowle of Rockford, Ill.

DOROTHY TRAUNG REACHES MASON AND DIXON FINAL

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The finals of the Mason and Dixon women's golf tournament took on an international aspect today as Dorothy Traung of San Francisco and Evelyn Marvin of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, won their semi-finals matches.

Miss Traung was a finalist last year, but lost to Virginia Guilfoil of Syracuse, N. Y. That defeat was avenged today as Miss Traung vanquished the defending champion, 5 and 4.

Miss Marvin went into the finals with a 3 and 2 victory over Mrs. Jean Solomon of Memphis, Tenn., who won the medal in Monday's qualifying round.

The two finalists will play thirty-six holes tomorrow for the championship.

Mrs. R. J. Paisley of Cleveland, O., won the second flight final from Mrs. G. S. Jones of Toledo, O., 2 up.

Mrs. C. V. Ridgely of Huntington, W. Va., defeated Mrs. James Miller of Toledo, O., 2 up, in the third flight final.

In the fourth flight final Mrs. D. A. Harston of Cleveland, O., defeated Mrs. W. I. Tycer of Columbus, O., 2 up.

The Chicago Public High School Football league schedule will open with three games on Friday night, Sept. 23, it was announced by A. H. Pritzlaff, athletic director, and will close Nov. 5, after which will come the playoffs for the championship.

YANKS DEFEAT RED SOX, 6 TO 4; RUFFING'S 20TH

New York, Sept. 2—(AP)—Backed by the first regular team the Yankees have put on the field in a week, Red Ruffing became the major leagues' first 20-game pitching winner of the year today by hurling the champions to a 6 to 4 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Along with the return of Red Rolfe, Bill Dickey and George Selkirk from the hospital list, Ruffing had the benefit of the slugging of Joe Di Maggio in reaching the 20-victory mark for the third straight season.

The victory boosted the Yankees' American league lead to fourteen games over the second place Red Sox.

AKNUSTI WINS FINAL TEST FOR POLO MEET, 19-12

Roslyn, N. Y., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—After giving away seven goals on handicap, Aknusti galloped to 19 to 12 victory over Roslyn on Schiff field today. This was the final test match for Aknusti in preparation for the national open polo tournament which starts Sunday at the Meadowbrook club.

The 29 goal Aknusti quartet, made up of Ebby and Bobby Gerry, Capt. C. T. I. [Pat] Roark and Raymond Guest, had little trouble turning back Roslyn. Guest was high scorer with eight goals, and Bobby Gerry had six.

Kilgrow and Berlinski Sign with Brooklyn Pro Eleven

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Potsy Clark, coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Professional Football league, announced today that he had placed under contract two of the south's collegiate back field stars of last year, Joe Kilgrow of Alabama and Ed Berlinski, North Carolina State. Kilgrow, who played against the Washington Redskins in Chicago, and Berlinski, who scored against the Chicago Bears in Providence, will join the squad at their Farmingdale training camp next week.

Cleveland Rams Defeat Ohio College All-Stars, 10-7

Cleveland, O., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Cleveland Rams of the National Professional Football league defeated the Ohio College All-Stars, 10 to 7, before a crowd of 20,283 tonight. Nelson Peterson, former West Virginia Wesleyan star, kicked the winning field goal in the fourth quarter. Bob Davis scored a touchdown for the Rams and Marty Slovak, who starred at Toledo university, went over for the losers.

ROSS EMPHATIC IN DENYING HE'LL RETURN TO RING

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—If Tony Canzoneri insists on "doing something foolish, like making a comeback," Barney Ross says there's nothing he can do about it. But Ross, who retired on May 31 after his dethronment as welterweight champion by Henry Armstrong, won't be a party to a bout with Canzoneri. Ross definitly is through fighting.

From Ferndale, N. Y., the ex-titleholder hurled a flock of polite expletives at the suggestion that he was considering a return to the ring to meet Canzoneri in Madison Square Garden this winter. "Nothing to it. That's a lot of bunk. Positively no. It's farthest from my mind," Ross said.

Ross, who fought his way through the Chicago Golden Gloves amateur tournament and later became lightweight champion and then 147 pound king, declared this was not the first time he had heard such reports.

Irked By Wild Story.

"Somebody published a wild story that I was thinking of coming back. Now you tell me about a match with Canzoneri being planned. It's all impossible stuff. My boxing career is over. I'm grateful for what the game has done for me. When I took that beating from Armstrong I knew I was finished.

"If I can't give my best I won't fight. If I were to box Canzoneri or anybody else right now I'd have to tell my friends to stay away and not bet on me. It even makes me feel bad to think of Canzoneri going in there, a great fighter of the past running the risk of being hurt by kids who couldn't carry his gloves when he was right. Once you're through, you're through. It's foolish to think about coming back."

Ross declared his original decision to retire was made with full knowledge and consent of his managers, Sam Pian and Art Winch. Since then, he added, he hadn't heard a word from them that would indicate a change of heart.

Although Barney was unwilling to state the amount of money he has saved from his ring purses, the Chicagoan let it be known he is financially secure.

Is Going to Work.

"I don't need a dime from boxing. I've got an interest in a jewelry store in my old home town, and I'm going into business with my father-in-law. He has a chain of ladies' wear stores in New Jersey. In fact, I'm supposed to quit my loafing around next week and go to work.

"The two best reasons for my not fighting again are my wife and my mother. They didn't enjoy watching the last fight, and I'd do anything to spare them pain."

Asked to offer a prediction on the contest Nov. 2 between Armstrong and Ceferino Garcia, Ross unhesitatingly picked three crown Henry. Ross should know something about Garcia. He fought him a total of 35 rounds, including a successful title defense last September.

"Garcia's only chance is to catch Armstrong with a round house punch in the first three rounds. That's a tough punch early in the fight. He floored me with it in the first round the first time I met him. But, once past the early rounds, Armstrong's pace will wear out Garcia."

Giants Face Shakeup; Many Trades Likely

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—The New York Giants are facing their most drastic shakeup in years as a result of their poor showing this season, it was learned today. Only eight players are reasonably sure of being retained as Manager Bill Terry plans to make whatever trades are deemed necessary to bring back the pennant in 1939.

Carl Hubbell, Mel Ott, Harry Danning, Dick Bartell, Joe Moore, Slim Melton, Bill Lohrman, and Harry Gumbert will be kept unless such an attractive offer is made for one or more of them that Terry cannot refuse. Of course, it's almost a certainty that George Myatt, one of the most promising Giant rookies in some time, also will be kept.

Leiber on Block.

Among those slated to go are Hank Leiber, who has never fulfilled the promise he showed in his first season, 1935. Several National league clubs, including the Dodgers, Bees, and Cubs, are reported to have an eye on Hank. Johnny McCarthy and Sam Leslie, first basemen, also probably will feel the ax. Another player certain to go is Catcher Gus Mancuso.

Whether Burgess Whitehead, second baseman, who suffered a nervous breakdown last spring following an appendectomy, will be able to play again after a year's absence is the big question.

May Seek Demaree.

The big Giant problems are at first base and center field. Convinced that the trading market will be active during the winter the Giants plan to try to lead the way.

Frank Demaree is being mentioned as a possible outfield acquisition while Tony Cuccinello's name still pops up in connection with the second base berth. The pitching staf, which has bogged down woefully since July 1, will get plenty of bolstering. One step already has been made in that direction in the purchase of Manuel Salvo from San Diego. Terry will try to add a few major leaguers, as well.

ILLINOIS SKEET SHOOTER AMONG LEADERS IN MEET

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Lowray Booth, Ingleside, Ill., broke 100 straight today to total 198 in his two day shooting and place with the leaders in the national individual skeet event. The final 50 targets will to be shot tomorrow morning.

Other Illinois scores were Col. W. F. Siegmund, Alton, 193; Art Davidson, Chicago, 194; J. Anderson, Chicago, 193; G. Battern, Chicago, 197; W. Clarke, Chicago, 196.

Sammy Consolo Outpoints Gil Longton in 5 Rounds

Sammy Consolo, 124th Field Artillery armory featherweight, pounded out a five round decision over Gil Longton of Kankakee in an amateur contest in Madison-Cicero arena last night. Harold Rodie, welterweight stablemate of Consolo, knocked out Joe Chuchro in the first round of another bout, also scheduled for five rounds. Other results:

Pete Altizer beat James Joyce [3].
Vincent Pellegrini beat Ed Kemp [3].
Wardell Bright knocked out Tom Lean [3].
Clayton World knocked out Ray Bohne [2].
Bill Johnson beat Ed Dorsey [3].
Ed McDowell beat Henry Rachone [3].

YACHTS SAIL FOR TROPHY GIVEN BY QUEEN VICTORIA

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Eight lake yachts of the universal class unfurled sails tonight bound for Grand Haven, Mich., where a trophy donated originally by Queen Victoria of England, almost a century ago, awaits the winner.

Eleven additional yachts in the cruising class also sailed in a special race sponsored by the Milwaukee Yacht club. Only a light breeze was blowing from the southwest at the start, bringing an estimate that 11 hours would be required for the 83 mile passage. The Queen's trophy was placed in competition by Walter Hull, Milwaukee yachtsman, in behalf of the South Shore Yacht club of Milwaukee. The cup nas not been in competition since 1874. Hull inherited it from his grandfather.

OPEN THREE GAME SERIES.

The Top Most girls' softball team of St. Louis will open a three game series with the Chicago Down Draft Girls tonight in Shrewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets.

Descendant of Daniel Boone Wins Rifle Title

Camp Perry, O., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Old Daniel Boone, whose long rifle helped wrest the state of Kentucky from the wilderness, grinned today in the valhalla of departed marksmen as one of his two direct male descendants—William Boone Woodring of Alton, Ill., snatched the national small bore championship for the third straight year at the national rifle matches.

William B. Woodring.

Woodring, 23 year old chemist, became the first man ever to win the title three times, and the only one to win it in successive years.

He scored 399 of 400 today to win the Remington trophy match, piling up a grand total of 1,593 of a possible 1,600 points in the four matches constituting the championship course.

C. Paul Bomgardner of Palmyra, Pa., a comparative unknown in big time rifle circles, tied Woodring's total count but lost on the "X" ring count. Woodring placed 58 of his 160 shots in the small circle inside the 10 ring while Bomgardner had only 52 in the select circle.

The "X" ring on the 50 yard targets is only .39 of an inch in diameter, the 10 ring being .89. At 100 yards the "X" ring is one inch, and the 10 ring two inches.

The all around pistol championship went to A. W. Hemming of the Detroit police department, who set a new record of 855 aggregate for the .22 caliber, .38 and .45 caliber events. H. W. Reeves, also of the Detroit team, was second with 848. Hemming set the new championship record as he swept to a mark of 281 to win the Orton Memorial .45 caliber event today.

John T. Mills of Rochester, N. Y., was high civilian in the championship race with a score of 826, and F. L. Wyman of Washington was next with 823. In the military division the spot went to Capt. S. R. Hinds of Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., with 840. M. O. Wilson of the coast guard and McConnellsville, O., was next with 836.

In the Orton Walter Stark of the Los Angeles police and Paul C. Spavor of the St. Louis department finished second and third, each with 280.

THREE SEMI-PRO DOUBLE-HEADERS ARE SCHEDULED

Three semi-pro double-headers are scheduled for this week-end, two in Mills stadium and one on the Spencer Coals' field. Tomorrow the Mills will play two games with John Tucker's House of David Israelites at 4700 W. Lake street, and the Coals will play a double-header against the Fort Wayne Harvesters at 4200 N. Central avenue.

Monday the Mills and the Coals will reopen the local semi-pro civil war in Mills stadium, playing a double-header. The Coals won the title last year, but in the games July 4 of this season the two teams split a double-header.

ONE GUN START FOR 50 YACHTS IN RACE TODAY

Michigan City Test Is First of Three.

Yachts from all Chicagoland clubs will combine forces today in the first leg of the annual triangular race, starting off Jackson Park harbor at 11 a. m. The event is divided into three races, takes in parts of three states, lasts three days, and is sponsored by three yacht clubs.

Fifty craft are entered in the first run today, to Michigan City, 33 statute miles. The Jackson Park Yacht club ... sors this leg, and Race Committee Chairman William Moore plans to start all fifty windjammers at once.

The one gun start this morning is the only long distance race of the Chicago season in which the fleet is not divided into classes at the starting line. The line will be more than a half mile long, with plenty of room for each yacht to maneuver.

Antietam to Accompany Fleet.

The United States coast guard patrol boat Antietam of Milwaukee, in command of Lieut. E. C. Whitfield, will accompany the fleet on the three runs.

The second leg of the race will be 34 miles from Michigan City to St. Joseph, Mich., tomorrow morning. The third and last leg will start Labor day morning from St. Joseph, 56 miles back to Chicago.

Trophies Offered.

The Columbia and Chicago Yacht clubs sponsor these two runs, and the Chicago club is presenting the Dreadnaught and Hamilton club trophies for the racing and cruising divisions. The entries follow:

UNIVERSAL YAWLS AND SCHOONERS—Scarab [defender]; West Wind, Fortune, Swanee, Fame.

R CLASS—Yankee, Safara.

SEAWANHAKA — Columbia [defender]; Nancy.

CRUISING DIVISION.

A CLASS—Southern Cross [defender]; Truant, Ben Bow, Bagheera.

B CLASS—Edith III. [defender]; Shalamar, Bangalore, Baccarat, Velma, Monsoon, Fair Wind, Batavia, Reverie, Audax, Josephine.

D CLASS—Wind Song [defender]; Chinook, Aloha, Virago, Stroller, Eslyn, Tonga, Osprey II.

STAGEHAND GETS CHANCE TODAY TO AVENGE DEFEATS

Three Rivals in Field of 12 Have Beaten Him.

Pawtucket, R. I., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Maxwell Howard's Stagehand heads a field of twelve horses, including three that have beaten him, in the fourth running of the $25,000 Narragansett Special at Narragansett tomorrow.

The winner of the Santa Anita handicap and Santa Anita Derby last spring will have among his competitors Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Nedayr, which beat him in the Arlington Classic; Thanksgiving, winner of the Travers at Saratoga, and the Calumet farms' Bull Lea, which won the James C. Thornton Memorial handicap last week. Another in the field will be Tom Taggart's fast mare, Marica, undefeated in her last five starts.

Coupled With The Chief.

Stagehand, with Jackie Westrope up, will be coupled with The Chief as the Howard entry. He will carry 119 pounds, nine less than the day's top impost, assigned to Marica, for the mile and three-sixteenth's test. Thanksgiving, which held a considerable weight advantage over Stagehand in the Travers, will carry 118 pounds.

Bull Lea, which lasted long enough to win the Thornton Memorial—although Stagehand was closing fast—will carry 113 pounds. The Thornton was run at a mile and a furlong, and the added distance may prove too much for Bull Lea tomorrow. Nedayr will carry 109 pounds. The Chief has been assigned 114 pounds.

Denemark Entry.

Completing the entries are Mrs. Emil Denemark's Finance, 115 pounds, and Two Bob, 98; Cravat, 108; Eastport, 108; Gerald, 103, and Dolly Val, 95.

FAVOR FIGHTING FOX

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Fighting Fox, once considered in the front rank of the 3 year olds, will be faced with stiff opposition from members of the older division in tomorrow's $6,000 Bay Shore handicap, main event at Aqueduct. Nevertheless, he is likely to rule the public choice in the field of seven who will have been named for the six and one-half furlong sprint.

For one thing, the Belair stud color bearer has keen speed up to a mile. That would appear to be his limit in top company, and he is well within that boundary for tomorrow's dash.

TWA AIR LINE SHOWS LARGER LOSS THIS YEAR

Operating Expenses Rise Sharply.

Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., yesterday reported a larger loss for the first six months of this year than for the first half of 1937, in spite of an increase in operating revenues.

Jack Frye reports airline costs rise.

The American Power and Light company reported sharply lower profits for the three months ended July 31 than for the corresponding 1937 period. Other utility firms, reporting for the twelve months to July 31, showed mixed results, compared with the preceding year.

Columbia Pictures corporation had a sharp dip in earnings in the 52 weeks ended June 25. Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania reported moderately lower profits for this year.

Operating Costs Higher.

Net loss of T. W. A. for the half year totaled $933,169 against loss of $487,111 in the 1937 period. The company's indicated loss for the June quarter, however, was reduced to $343,090, compared with $590,079 in the preceding three months. In the June quarter, last year, the loss amounted to $127,808.

Jack Frye, president, pointed out that higher operating expenses were responsible for the heavier loss in the first six months. He said operating expenses for the period totaled $3,516,358, against $2,943,057 in the 1937 first half.

Zenith Radio reported for the quarter ended July 31 a consolidated profit of $124,806, before provision for federal income and excess profits taxes. This compared with profit of $1,122,184 in the corresponding 1937 quarter. Hugh Robertson, vice president, said that announcement of the company's new main line of receivers, made early in July, came later than usual this year. He indicated this was partly responsible for the lower profits.

Forecasts Steady Production.

"Distributors' orders now on hand and being received for future delivery," Robertson said, "indicate steady production and shipment for the balance of the calendar year."

He added that, although the outlook is optimistic, the company "continues to exercise a conservative policy of manufacturing only against orders received or the movement of merchandise in the territory, to the end that there be no excessive inventories or distress selling."

American Power and Light's consolidated net income amounted to $1,459,119 in the three months to July 31. This compared with $2,740,452 in the corresponding three months of last year. Operating revenues slipped to $23,060,533, against $23,940,857. For July alone, total operating revenues amounted to $7,664,834 against $8,033,338 in July, 1937.

Columbia Pictures Earns Less.

Net profit of Columbia Pictures in the 52 weeks to June 25 slumped to $183,393 from $1,317,771 in the preceding 52 weeks. In the 13 weeks to June 25 the company had an indicated net loss of $254,875, compared with a profit of $128,416 in the corresponding 1937 period.

July net income of Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania amounted to $711,299, against $750,588 in July, 1937. This brought net income for the seven months ended July 31 to $5,952,748, against $6,351,844 in the corresponding seven months of the preceding year.

R. Hoe & Co., Inc., maker of printing press products, reported net loss for the June quarter of $153,430, against net profit of $127,249 in the June, 1937, quarter.

Although sales in the nine months to June 30 increased to $5,555,814, compared with $4,751,346 in the like 1937 period, the company had a loss of $121,186, against a profit of $220,366 in the nine months to June 30, 1937.

Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit corporation's net income in the fiscal year ended June 30 fell to $578,168 from $4,508,462 in the preceding year. Gross revenues declined to $49,284,227, compared with $51,987,039.

Freight Trafic Rises to New Peak for Year

Freight loadings of railroads in the United States totaled 620,511 cars in the week ended Aug. 27, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. This was an increase of 3.6 per cent over trafic in the preceding week and was the highest loadings total for any week since that of Dec. 11, 1937, the association said.

Sharp upturns in shipments of miscellaneous freight, coal, live stock, and less than car lot merchandise caused the increase in trafic. Loadings of miscellaneous freight increased 9,060 cars over the preceding week to a total of 244,796 cars. Coal shipments were up 9,073 cars to 104,366 cars.

Grain Shipments Dip.

Grain was the only commodity to show a decline from the preceding week. Loadings dropped 388 cars to a total of 45,389. However, this total for the week ended Aug. 27 was an increase of 4,751 cars over the like 1937 period, according to the association. Grain was the only classification which was higher than a year ago.

The Dow-Jones financial news service said that the increase in trafic during the week ended Aug. 27 was more than seasonal. It lifted the agency's railroad freight index to 70.4 from the 69.4 mark of the week ended Aug. 20.

Still Below Other Years.

Last week's loadings still were far below levels of other years. They were 20.8 per cent under trafic in the corresponding week last year and 17.7 per cent under trafic of the like 1936 week. The total was 34 per cent under the 1930 level. In the week ended Aug. 20 loadings were 23.1 per cent under the similar week a year ago and 18.7 per cent below loadings of two years ago.

MEXICO'S REPLY ON LAND SEIZURE GIVEN TO U. S.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Mexico's reply to Secretary Hull's last note on expropriation of agrarian lands reached the state department today.

The reply was forwarded to the department by Ambassador Josephus Daniels. Secretary of State Hull said it was now being translated. For the time being Hull withheld comment. The note will be published simultaneously in Mexico City and Washington on Monday morning.

Mexican Oil Released.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The Houston office of United States customs has released to the consignee, Eastern States Petroleum company, approximately 100,000 barrels of Mexican oil at a duty rate of ⅛ cent per gallon, the railroad commission has been informed. The commission had insisted that a duty of 2½ cents be levied on the basis that the oil was 60 per cent refined.

It is reported that 200,000 barrels of Mexican oil will soon arrive at Port Houston.

SALES OF STORES DECLINE 14 PCT. FROM YEAR AGO

Sales of department stores in the United States were 14 per cent lower in the week ended Aug. 27 than in the corresponding week last year, the Federal Reserve board reported yesterday. In the 7th federal reserve district, which includes the Chicago area, sales were only 11.7 per cent less than a year ago. Chicago stores alone reported that sales were only 7.5 per cent under the like 1937 week.

The 11th [Dallas] district showed the smallest decline from year ago levels. Stores in that district were only 4 per cent under the corresponding 1937 week. The largest slump from a year ago was shown in the 4th [Cleveland] district, where sales were 21 per cent lower.

Detroit stores, with sales 21.8 per cent under last year, reported the largest decline from 1937 of all cities in the 7th district. Chicago had the smallest decline.

WRECK COTTON ON HARVEST EVE TO GET BOUNTY

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Hundreds of acres of cotton, much of it white with open bolls ready for picking, are being plowed under by southern farmers, eager to qualify for farm bill benefits and to escape its penalties.

One county in middle Georgia has almost 2,000 acres subject to penalties if the cotton is not plowed up. These penalties on coöperating farmers would run to 7 cents a pound on cotton produced on the excess acreage.

Generally, the amount plowed up by each farmer is small. It runs from half an acre to 20 acres to the farm.

RFC Will Lend 10 Millions to Refinance Seattle Debt

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The Reconstruction Finance corporation today announced authorization of a loan of $10,000,000 to Seattle, Wash. Of the amount $4,300,000 is to refinance the city's indebtedness in connection with its transportation system. The balance will be used to purchase equipment and for construction.

Holdouts Get Better Price in TVA Deal

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Bondholders of Tennessee Public Service company, who were "holdouts" against the deal by which control of the company passed to the city of Knoxville and the Tennessee Valley authority, will pocket for each $1,000 bond held $65 more than was received by holders who deposited under the TVA plan,

The nonassenting group, which holds approximately $1,050,000 of the bonds, or 15 per cent of the total, will present them to the Tennessee company for retirement at 104 and interest. The equivalent price is $1,040 per $1,000 bond.

Assenters Get Less than Par.

Holders of the 85 per cent who deposited received $975 for each bond held under the terms of the TVA proposal for absorption of the property.

The total amount of the premium which will go to the "holdouts" and will be paid by the company amounts to approximately $63,000. Retirement of the bonds at 104 is in accordance with the original terms of issue.

Closing of the deal for the sale of the property to the city of Knoxville and the TVA was announced last week after deposits reached the necessary 80 per cent level. Tennessee Public Service is a subsidiary of the National Power and Light company of the Electric Bond and Share group.

Call Bonds for Redemption.

National Power and Light formally announced today that the remaining outstanding bonds of the Tennessee company will be called for redemption on Oct. 4 at 104 and accrued interest. The bonds, which are traded on the New York Curb exchange, closed today at 104⅛, an advance of 3⅛ points on the day.

Formal closing of the Knoxville-TVA-T. P. S. deal took place today at the offices of the Guaranty Trust company.

Knoxville Gets TVA Power.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The city of Knoxville acquired a municipal power distribution system today, ending a five year fight for TVA electricity. TVA current will be turned into more than 32,000 homes here at midnight.

The city gave its check for $5,329,041, representing its share of the approximately $8,000,000 purchase price after penalties and 1938 taxes were deducted. To finance the deal, the city authorized a bond issue of $6,000,000. The TVA's share of the deal was $2,512,858.

ASSOCIATED GAS TO APPEAL RULE ON EXTENSIONS

New York, Sept. 1.—[Special.]—The Associated Gas and Electric company will appeal the ruling of Federal Judge John W. Clancy, it was learned today. Judge Clancy denied the company the right to extend the maturity date of its 5½ per cent convertible investment certificates without the consent of the security exchange commission.

The company already has made arrangements to meet its Nov. 15 maturity of remaining certificates, however.

The appeal is expected to be made soon after Judge Clancy signs the formal order to the preliminary injunction granted Monday. Until Sept. 15, meanwhile, the company has invited holders of nonextended certificates to give tenders at not in excess of par and accrued interest, stating that "certificates tendered at the lowest price by the close of business on that day will be accepted in a sufficient amount to exhaust the available funds."

Dutch Ship Line to Open Regular Service to Chicago

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, Sept. 2.—Chicago's growing importance as a seaport is indicated by the decision of one of the biggest Rotterdam ship owning firms, Anthony Veder, to open regular freight and passenger steamship service to Chicago via Toronto and Montreal. The service will operate as the Orange Line.

HERE'S A TRADE PACT WITH A STING IN IT; IT CONTROLS BEES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Agricultural Adjustment administration announced today final approval of an agreement, and order regulating marketing of honey bees and queen bees.

It said the marketing program would prohibit unfair trade practices. It would require bee handlers to file with a control committee the prices at which they would sell. They would be required to conform to the prices in subsequent transactions.

The AAA said the program had received approval of bee handlers in states including California, New Jersey, Ohio, Texas, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin.

AUTO SALES DIP DURING AUGUST IN COOK COUNTY

Ford Moves Up to 2d Place.

Automobile sales in Cook county for August dropped sharply below sales in July, 1938, and August, 1937, the bureau of motor advice reported yesterday. The August, 1938, total was 4,022, against 10,308 in August, 1937, and 5,027 in July, 1938.

Chevrolet held first place with sales totaling 833. It held first place in July with 888 cars sold. In August, 1937, Chevrolet was in second place with a total of 1,474.

Ford advanced from third place to second place in August with a total of 698 sales, against 784 in July. In August, 1937, Ford held first place with a total of 1,532.

Buick Moves Up.

Buick moved up to third place in August from fourth in July. The August total was 483, against 647 in July. In August, 1937, Buick was in sixth place with a total of 832.

Ward's Reports Upturn.

Meanwhile automobile production in Detroit has started to pick up as many of the companies are starting work on their 1939 models. Ward's Automotive Reports estimated that the industry's output for this week was 22,165 units, against 18,700 last week and 64,200 in the like 1937 week. Ward's said that the output should continue steadily upward through September and probably through October.

Week's New Financing Drops to $27,333,401

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—New financing for the week amounted to only $27,333,878, compared with $123,234,585 the previous week and $22,395,401 the corresponding week last year, a compilation by Poor's Publishing company showed today. The comparative table showed:

Banks and Markets to Close Monday

All security, commodity markets, and banks in the United States and Canada will be closed Monday in observance of Labor day. European exchanges will function as usual. The Chicago Mercantile exchange will be closed today, making a three day holiday. Other local and New York exchanges will do business today. Trading in American and Canadian markets will be resumed Tuesday morning.

WPA Expense Boosts U. S. 2 Month Deficit

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Federal expenditures, swollen by Works Progress administration spending, stepped ahead of a year ago during the first two months of this fiscal year. The treasury reported today it spent $1,445,227,238 in July and August, compared with $1,235,107,369 in the same period last year.

In the two months WPA spent $365,248,905 while building its pay rolls to a record high of more than 3,000,000 persons. In the same period last year, when WPA rolls were below 2,000,000, the relief agency's cost was $235,034,721.

Deficit Doubled.

Under the administration's spending for recovery program expenditures ran nearly two to one ahead of income. The two months' deficit was $646,648,203, compared with $372,488,750 in the same months of 1937.

The increased deficit was due to lower receipts as well as larger expenditures. July and August income amounted to $798,579,034, compared with $862,618,618 last year. Income tax, excise tax, and all other forms of revenue except social security, lagged behind last year.

Public Debt Rises.

The federal debt, meanwhile, rose $428,291,392 to $37,593,031,708 in July and August. It was the first bulge in indebtedness resulting from the spending program, which is expected to send the total of federal obligations to more than $40,000,000,000 by next summer.

The debt will increase more rapidly this month, when the treasury carries out its customary Sept. 15 borrowing operations. Details of the borrowing have not been announced.

EXCHANGE CITES NICKEL PLATE ON INTEREST MIXUP

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—G. D. Brooke, president of New York, Chicago and St. Louis [Nickel Plate] railroad, today was asked by the committee on stock list of the New York Stock exchange to appear before it next Wednesday. He was asked to send a representative if unable to appear personally

Brooke will be called on, it was announced, to explain why the exchange was notified on Aug. 1, last, that the interest due Sept. 1 on the refunding mortgage 4½ per cent gold bonds series "C" would be paid, but was notified on Aug. 30 that the interest would not be paid.

The original information came in a letter to the exchange signed by R. G. Eberly, treasurer of the road. On Aug. 29 Brooke telegraphed the exchange that the directors would meet on the following day to consider payment.

The exchange asked by return wire to be immediately notified of the directors' action, reminding Brooke of the previous notification that the interest would be paid. The road telegraphed on Aug. 30 news of the deferment.

GOLD PURCHASES ABROAD TOP SIX MILLION DOLLARS

The Federal Reserve bank of New York yesterday reported engagements of $6,100,000 foreign gold for shipment to the United States. The total included $3,900,000 engaged earlier but not previously reported.

Engagements reported yesterday brought the total so far this week to $33,000,000, the largest amount engaged for in any week since July, 1937.

The British pound and other foreign currencies developed renewed weakness in foreign exchange dealings. Gold and the American dollar rose in value in terms of both the pound and the franc. The pound closed 1-16 cent lower at $4.85¼. The French franc lost 0.00125 cent, closing at 2.72125 cents.

Air Line Officials to Meet with Board on Air Safety

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Chairman Edward J. Noble said today the civil aeronautics authority and its safety board would confer with airline officials in Chicago Tuesday and Wednesday. The prospects for increasing the safety of air travel this winter will be discussed. He said the board would go to the air races at Cleveland before proceeding to Chicago.

STEADY SELLING CAUSES DECLINE IN CORN PRICES

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Year ago.
Wheat .....$	.64	$ .64⅛	$1.07¼
Corn	.49	.50¼	.63
Oats	.24½	.24⅝	.29⅞
Rye	.41⅝	.41⅞	.79⅛
*Soy beans.....	.77¼	.77	.95¼

*October delivery.

Steady selling developed in the corn market yesterday. This was in the face of private reports indicating a reduction of over 100,000,000 bushels from the estimated yield of a month ago. Lack of export business led to fairly heavy liquidation. Closing trades were at the bottom with net losses of 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents a bushel.

Wheat futures fluctuated in an erratic manner within a range of about 1 cent a bushel. Weakness in foreign markets led to selling early. The loss was more than recovered on buying which brokers attributed to the removal of hedges against sales of cash grain to the government. Prices weakened again later in sympathy with corn.

Wheat Ends Lower.

Wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade closed ¼ to ⅜ cent lower. Winnipeg declined ⅜ to ⅝ cent and sold at a new low since 1932. Liverpool was also in new low ground and closed ¼ to 1 cent a bushel lower.

The AAA wheat export program was reported making little progress. Only 90,000 bushels were sold to exporters on Thursday. The persistent decline in foreign markets tends to check business. The Rotterdam September contract declined 1¼ cents a bushel and closed at 55¾ cents.

Wheat was relatively strong in Kansas City. Futures in the southwestern market closed ¼ to ⅜ cent a bushel higher.

EXPERTS CUT ESTIMATES

Drouth and extreme heat reduced the prospective corn crop during August, according to estimates issued yesterday by six Chicago statisticians. The average crop estimate was 2,458,000,000 bushels, a decrease of 108,000,000 bushels from their estimates a month ago. Last year's harvest was 2,645,000,000 bushels.

Corn was deteriorating at the time the data for the private reports was being assembled, and the statisticians expressed the belief that unless good rains were received a further reduction in the prospective yield would be reported next month.

CUT IN GRAIN FREIGHT ASKED TO AID EXPORTS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The agriculture department today sought a reduction in freight rates on wheat moving from central and western producing areas to seaboard shipping points.

It asked presidents of eastern and southern railroads to accept a reduction to help dispose of 100,000,000 bushels of surplus American wheat in foreign markets.

The proposed rates would have been about 50 per cent lower than those now prevailing, officials said, or about the same as those charged by boats plying the Great Lakes from Chicago to Buffalo.

Under Consideration Here.

The Central Freight association announced yesterday that the proposal last week by eastern railroads to reduce freight rates 10 cents per 100 pounds on grain reshipped east from Chicago and other midwestern points is "still under consideration." The plan to make the reduction was held up when the Association of American Railroads objected.

Government Buys More Dry Milk for Relief

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation announced today it would buy 5,960,140 pounds more of spray process powdered skim milk for distribution to relief families. The milk will be purchased through the dry skim milk committee corporation for $282,498. It will come from surplus stocks of nineteen processors in fifteen states ,including Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan, and Illinois.

Byllesby & Co. to Appeal Wisconsin License Ruling

Officials of H. M. Byllesby & Co. said yesterday that an immediate appeal will be taken from the ruling of the Wisconsin banking commission. The commission yesterday reaffirmed revocation of Byllesby's license to operate in Wisconsin. Appeals will be taken, Byllesby officials said, to the banking review board and the Circuit court of Dane county.

More Officials Sell Stock than Buy in July

Corporation officials and principal stockholders continued in July to make more sales than purchases in stocks of their own companies. This is shown in the first report for the month by the Securities and Exchange commission made yesterday. The summary covers transactions by officers, directors, and stockholders with more than a 10 per cent equity.

Darryl Zanuck sells film stock.

Relatively few purchases were reported. Although sales have held an edge over purchases since last October, the selling during July broadened to include many officials who had not reported transactions for many months. The stock market upswing, which carried the Dow-Jones average of thirty industrial stocks up 18 per cent in the last ten days of June, apparently caused many insiders to liquidate some of their holdings.

Schenck Sells Common Stock.

Prominent on the selling side were officials of Twentieth Century Fox Film corporation, General Motors corporation, Sears Roebuck & Co., Crane company, and the Greyhound corporation.

Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of Twentieth Century Fox, sold 19,600 common shares in July, reducing his holdings to 129,843 shares. He had disposed of 19,200 shares in June. Darryl F. Zanuck, president of the company, unloaded 10,000 shares, leaving 152,130 held.

Albert Bradley, vice president of General Motors corporation, disposed of 5,100 shares of common stock which had been held indirectly. This left him combined direct and indirect holdings of 28,665 shares. Junius S. Morgan, a director, indirectly sold 350 shares through J. P. Morgan & Co., leaving 592 shares held. George Whitney, director, sold 631 shares through the Morgan firm. This left him 500 shares directly owned and 1,065 held indirectly.

Wood Reduces Holdings.

The sale of 1,700 shares of common stock of Sears Roebuck was reported by Gen. Robert E. Wood, president. He had 23,601 shares after making the sale. Lessing J. Rosenwald, chairman, shaved his holdings to 103,110 shares by selling 1,830 shares.

Cornelius Crane, Chicago, director of Crane company, sold 9,200 common shares, leaving 32,211 held. Another director, Arthur O. Choate of New York, disposed of 3,000 shares, leaving 7,000 in his account. A total of 18,400 shares was disposed of by trusts under the will of R. T. Crane Jr.

C. E. Wickman, president of the Greyhound corporation, reported the sale of 4,000 common shares, leaving him 23,711 shares held. Two vice presidents, Robert Driscoll and Arthur M. Hill, also sold 4,000 shares ecah. Another vice president, O. S. Cassar, disposed of 1,200 shares directly and 4,000 shares indirectly.

Walgreen Gives Shares Away.

C. R. Walgreen, president of the Walgreen company, gave away 2,105 common shares, leaving 72,461 shares held. Alfred Smart, Chicago, secretary and treasurer of Esquire-Coronet, Inc., sold 18,345 common shares, reducing his holdings to 51,742 shares.

The purchase of 1,648 shares of Standard Oil Company of Indiana capital stock was made by Edward G. Seubert, president, under the employés' stock purchase plan. He then held 15,961 shares. Smaller purchases under the plan were made by seven other officials.

Another purchaser was Edward N. Hurley Jr., president of Electric Household Utilities corporation. He bought 1,250 common shares, making his direct holdings 35,836 shares.

Report Other Transactions.

ABBOTT LABORATORIES—S. DeWitt Clough, president, North Chicago, sold 500 common shares, leaving 9,000 shares held.

AMERICAN ROLLING MILL—Charles R. Hook, president, Middletown, O., sold 800 common shares, reducing holdings to 2,000 shares. George M. Verity, chairman, Middletown, sold 1,000 shares, leaving 13,601 held.

BRIDGEPORT BRASS—Ralph E. Day, president, Bridgeport, Conn., sold 3,500 shares of common, reducing holdings to 7,119 shares. H. W. Steinkraus, vice president, Bridgeport, disposed of 1,700 shares, leaving 5,152.

CAMPBELL WYANT & CANNON—D. J. Campbell, president, Muskegon, Mich., sold 1,500 common shares, leaving 17,841 held. G. W. Cannon, vice president, Muskegon, disposed of 800 shares, leaving 30,562 held.

CENTURY SHARES TRUST—Charles Francis Adams, trustee, indirectly acquired 6,530 ordinary shares, through Brown Bros. Harriman, making 512,903 shares indirectly held.

CHICAGO MAIL ORDER COMPANY—Trust under the will of Benjamin J. Rosenthal, Chicago, sold 7,400 common shares, leaving 27,629 shares held.

Bache Sells Chrysler Stock.

CHRYSLER CORPORATION — Jules S. Bache, vice president, New York City, disposed of 8,000 common shares held indirectly through the Wenonah Development company. This left him indirect holdings of 77,501 shares and direct equity of 13,200 shares.

CLUETT PEABODY—E. Harold Cluett, Troy, N. Y director, sold 2,000 common shares, leaving 22,450 held.

COLGATE PALMOLIVE PEET—S. Bayard Colgate, chairman, Jersey City, N. J., sold 4,000 common shares, leaving 116,215 held. Edward H. Little, president, Jersey City, increased holdings to 14,099 by buying 500 shares.

STOCKS MOUNT AS WAR CLOUDS LIFT IN EUROPE

Domestic Business News Favorable.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—Gains ranging from fractions to more than 3 points were chalked up in the stock market today. Traders grew bolder on the reassuring foreign developments and favorable domestic business news. Absence of selling accentuated the advance.

However, because of the approach of the Labor day holiday—with many operators starting to quit the city—there was relatively little volume, only 553,560 shares moving.

All groups shared in the upswing with the industrial stocks in the van.

In view of the quieting of the German-Czech situation, the financial district found more time today, it was reported, to take cognizance of the steadily improving industrial situation.

Motor Stocks Advance.

Motor stocks responded strongly to reports that important manufacturers were stepping up production of 1939 models. Chrysler was a feature with a jump of 3¼ points. General Motors gained 1⅝ points.

The announcement that the United States Rubber company management may consider resumption of dividends on the preferred stock next year reacted favorably on the issues of that concern.

Steel shares also gained. United States Steel closed 2 points higher, Bethlehem gained 2⅝ points, and Crucible was up 2 points.

Although it had been expected, the rise in car loadings to a new peak for the year bolstered the rail division. Gains of 1 point or so were made by Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern railway, Illinois Central, and Union Pacific.

Chemical Leaders Buoyant.

In the chemicals, Allied Chemical was buoyant, rising 3 points. Union Carbide and du Pont also made good gains.

Douglas was a feature in the aviation group, spurting 2 points. Boeing gained 1¼ points. Other aviation issues worked fractionally higher.

General Electric, Westinghouse, J. I. Case, and International Harvester led the machinery group into higher territory. Oils advanced fractions to nearly two points, with Texas corporation and Standard Oil of New Jersey prominent.

Montgomery Ward, which was in fairly good demand, and Sears-Roebuck led the mail order group upward. The former gained 2 points and the latter 2¾ points.

Values Sag in August.

Total market value of 1,247 stock issues listed on the New York stock exchange as of August 31 was $43,526,488,215 compared with 1,254 issues with a total market value of $44,784,224,215 a month earlier and 1,254 issues with market worth of $56,623,913,315 a year ago, it was announced today.

Average market value of all shares listed on August 31 was $30.55 a share, compared with $31.38 on July 30 and $40.51 a year ago.

The market value of bonds fell from $4,215,942,000, or $84.97, for each $100 of face value, to $4,095,969,122, or $83.38.

Gain in Bell Telephones Smaller than Last Year

New York, Sept. 1.—[Special.]—There was a net gain of 35,200 telephones in service in the Bell system during August, compared to a gain of 55,100 telephones in the same month last year. This brings the gain for eight months of 1938 to 163,550 stations, compared to an increase of 606,400 telephones in the 1937 period.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—A tapering of the selling movement which kept prices on the skids most of the week opened the way to an irregular rally in the bond market today. The turn came without benefit of special news.

Rails were in the forefront of the recovery, with many showing closing gains ranging from 1 to around 6 points. Nickel plate issues, hard hit recently by notice of deferment of Sept. 1 interest on the 4½s, came back buoyantly.

Most low yield loans were firm in quiet trading. U. S. governments continued their uneven way, finishing 4-32ds of a point higher to 4-32ds lower.

Czech 8s of '51 and '52 rallied 4 to 5 points and showed a considerable turnover. A few other European issues advanced fractionally.

It was a small market, transactions amounting to $3,817,300, face value, compared with $3,795,000 yesterday.

Chicago Stocks.

Led by such pivotal issues as Borg-Warner, Zenith Radio, Bendix Aviation, and Marshall Field, Chicago stocks turned higher yesterday and trading increased some.

Borg-Warner, the most active issue with 1,350 shares traded, gained 1¾ to 33¾. Zenith advanced 1¾ to close at 21½, and Bendix closed 1¼ higher at 23. Marshall Field finished ⅝ higher at 12¾. Another leading gainer was Houdaille Hershey B, up a full point to 16. Commonwealth Edison, moving against the trend of the volume leaders, slipped ⅛ to 26⅛.

Trading in Edison rights totaled 10,000, compared with 8,000 on Thursday. The rights closed at 24 cents, up 1 cent, after moving in a range of 23 to 25 cents. The turnover, aside from the rights, was 18,000 shares against 11,000 on the preceding day. The Tribune average of twenty stocks advanced 0.27 to 11.11.

International Harvester, recently admitted to trading, was traded in round lots for the first time. Volume was 100 shares at 61½.

Bank Stocks.

Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company stock was the only leading Chicago bank issue to gain yesterday. It closed $1 higher at $69 bid, $70 asked. Shares of the American National Bank and Trust company were $5 lower at $205 bid, $215 asked. Off $1 were shares of the Chicago Title and Trust company. First National bank stock closed $3 lower.

BALTIMORE & OHIO OFFERS PLAN TO MODIFY CHARGES

Bonds Extended; Interest Cut Unless Earned.

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad today made public details of a vast, comprehensive plan for voluntary modification of debt interest charges and maturities. Through the plan it hopes to avoid "expensive" reorganization of its capital structure under the national bankruptcy laws.

The plan provides for voluntary extension of large nearby maturities, and for a period of eight years it reduces the annual fixed interest charges of the carrier from $31,421,742 to $19,644,679. It puts $11,376,423 of present fixed charges on a contingent basis—payable only when earned.

Daniel Willard, president of the road, mailed to holders of the road's securities copies of the plan, which has already been filed with the interstate commerce commission.

Willard Explains Plan.

He pointed out that the road has $684,826,078 of funded debt, including $88,000,000 of loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. He said the road failed to earn its fixed interest charges in 1932, 1934, 1935, and 1937, and is not earning them now.

"It is essential that by some means fixed interest charges be reduced, at least for such time as will provide a reasonable opportunity for reëstablishment of earnings and credit, and that suitable provision be made for nearby maturities," Willard said.

"To accomplish these purposes, the company could initiate proceedings for reorganization of its capital structure under section 77 of the bankruptcy act. Experience, however, indicates that such proceedings would be long and expensive, with resulting confusion and losses to security holders, and might result in a total suspension of all interest payments for an indeterminate period.

Regards Groups Fairly Treated.

"It seems clear, moreover, that in a reorganization under section 17 no class of bondholders could expect to receive greater interest, or better treatment as to principal or lien positions, than that herein proposed.

"On the other hand, with the cooperation of the security holders the company may make necessary modification of interest charges and maturities by voluntary agreement with the security holders."

The plan calls for extension of maturities as follows: Pittsburgh, Lake Erie and West Virginia mortgage 4s from Nov. 1, 1941, to Nov. 1, 1951; 4½ per cent secured notes from Aug. 1, 1939, to Aug. 1, 1944; 4 per cent Reconstruction Finance corporation loans maturing from 1939 to 1942 for five years; 4 per cent Public Works administration loans, maturing serially, extended for five years; Lincoln Park and Charlotte railroad first 5s extended from Jan. 1, 1939, to Jan. 1, 1949.

The total capital amount involved in the extensions was $166,303,578.

Interest Reductions Proposed.

Interest reductions proposed were: First 5s, to 4 per cent, 1 per cent contingent on earnings; Southwestern 5s, to 3½ per cent, 1½ contingent; 5 year secured notes, from 4½ to 4 per cent after present maturity on Aug. 1, 1939; refunding series "A" from 5 to 1 per cent, 4 per cent contingent; refunding series "B" from 6 to 1 1-5 per cent, 4 4-5 per cent contingent; refunding series "D" from 5 to 1 per cent, 4 per cent contingent; refunding series "F" from 5 to 1 per cent, 4 per cent contingent.

Thirty year convertible bonds, entire 4½ per cent interest made contingent; Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh railway 4½s to 3 per cent, 1½ per cent contingent; Buffalo and Susquehanna railroad first 4s [only those in sinking fund now held alive and bearing interest] entire interest to be eliminated for 8 years and extended for a like period; Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Western railroad first 5s from 5 to 3 per cent, 2 per cent contingent.

Contingent interest will be payable if earned each May 1. [Fixed interest will be payable on present due dates.]

ILLINOISANS BUY LESS AT RETAIL THAN YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Residents of Illinois spent 20 per cent less in retail stores in July than they did in the same month a year ago. Statistics compiled by the department of commerce showed expenditures totalling $8,155,800 in 1,101 independent stores during July, compared with $10,161,100 in July, 1937, and $9,144,700 in June.

Champaign reported the smallest decrease with a drop of 2 per cent, from $77,100 in July, 1937, to $75,400 in July, 1938. In Chicago, retail sales of 326 independent stores fell off 24 per cent from $4,102,000 to $3,105,400 in July, 1938. The largest loss—35 per cent—was reported by Belleville, where sales reports showed totals of $99,000 in July, 1937, and $64,400 in July, 1938.

Air Conditioning Sales Decline More in July

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The department of commerce reported today that orders booked for air conditioning systems and equipment in July were valued at $3,236,770. This compares with $3,759,264 the preceding month, and $5,570,089 in July, 1937. Orders for the first seven months totaled $25,334,513, against $44,315,895 in the corresponding period last year.

Government Loans on Corn Now Amount to $22,307,191

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Commodity Credit corporation announced today that through yesterday it had loaned $22,307,191 on 45,978,028 bushels of corn.

FUTURE DELIVERY EGG PRICES RISE TO BEST MARK SINCE JULY, 1937

Egg futures yesterday climbed ⅝ cent a dozen on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, reaching their highest level since July, 1937. Meanwhile, butter contracts virtually marked time as traders awaited an announcement on the government's butter buying program.

October eggs at the day's peak were up ½ cent to 25 cents, a full cent higher than a week ago. At the close they were down ⅛ from the top price. November contracts finished ⅝ cent higher at 25¼ cents, the high for the day. The total turnover was 6,624,000 dozen, compared with 2,388,000 dozen on the preceding day.

November butter lost ⅛ cent to close at 24¼ cents. The Dairy Products Marketing association used federally borrowed funds to buy 2,320,000 pounds of butter, bringing its holdings to within a million pounds of the 75,000,000 pounds authorized under the loan agreement.

U.S. RUBBER MAY PAY PREFERRED DIVIDEND IN 1939

President Reports Improved Tire Business.

Directors of the United States Rubber company probably will meet early in 1939 to consider payment of a dividend on the preferred stock, Francis B. Davis Jr., president of the corporation, said yesterday. No dividends have been paid on the preferred shares since payment of $2 in May, 1928.

Francis B. Davis Jr.

Davis said that the tire replacement business jumped sharply in the last two months. Present indications are that it will continue to show improvement over the next several months, he added.

Directors of Republic Steel corporation failed again to take any action on dividends on the company's preferred stocks. The last payment on the 6 per cent convertible prior preference stock was $1.50 on April 1. The last payment on the 6 per cent preferred issue was $1.50 quarterly and $12 on arrears paid Dec. 21, 1937.

Delay National Candy Meeting.

A dividend meeting of National Candy company directors, scheduled to be held Sept. 6, will be adjourned to Sept. 12, company officials said yesterday. Lack of a quorum was given as the reason for the postponement.

Payments of $1.75 a share were made July 1 on the first and second preferred stock of the candy corporation. The dividend on the common again was omitted. The last common payment was 25 cents on April 1, 1937.

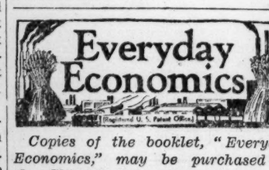
CONSIDER FEBS IN REORGANIZING HOTEL PROPERTY

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday directed Master in Chancery Irving Herriott to hold additional hearings on applications for fees and expenses in the reorganization of the Hayes hotel, 6345 University avenue, under section 77b of the amended bankruptcy act. Master Herriott had recommended $81,875 in fees and $4,412 in expenses to attorneys, bondholders' committee, and others.

Counsel for the Reconstruction Finance corporation, holder of $103,000 of the hotel's bonds, objected to the allowance of fees and expenses as highly excessive. They sought to reduce the allowances of Harris F. Williams, counsel for the hotel company; Buckingham, Jones & Hoffman, attorneys for the first mortgage bondholders' committee, and the Chicago Title and Trust company.

The RFC obtained the bonds as part of the collateral put up by the defunct Central Republic Bank and Trust company in connection with its $90,000,000 loan.



Copies of the booklet, "Everyday Economics," may be purchased at the Chicago Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago. The price is 25 cents per copy—30 cents if sent by mail. This eighty-four page booklet contains simple explanations of financial and business terms and is a convenient guide to a fuller understanding of current economic and business news.

Automobiles and Population.

The United States has by far the largest ratio of automobiles to population of any country in the world. The world average is one car for every 48 persons. In America there is one automobile operating for every 4½ persons. The ratio for all other countries combined, except the United States, is one automobile for every 137 persons.

A recent report of the United States department of commerce, giving figures for last Jan. 1, shows that there is a wide variation in the number of cars used in various countries. In Liberia, at the bottom of the department's list, there is one car for every 12,821 inhabitants.

The United Kingdom ranks next after the United States in the number of automobiles. The other leading countries, in the order of their rank as users of automobiles, are France, Germany, Canada, and Australia.

France and Great Britain have about 51 cars for each 1,000 persons. Germany has 35 cars per 1,000 persons, according to recent data.

Of all the 43,078,630 automobiles in use in the world Jan. 1, 81.7 per cent were American makes.

CONSIDER FEBS IN REORGANIZING HOTEL PROPERTY

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday directed Master in Chancery Irving Herriott to hold additional hearings on applications for fees and expenses in the reorganization of the Hayes hotel, 6345 University avenue, under section 77b of the amended bankruptcy act. Master Herriott had recommended $81,875 in fees and $4,412 in expenses to attorneys, bondholders' committee, and others.

Counsel for the Reconstruction Finance corporation, holder of $103,000 of the hotel's bonds, objected to the allowance of fees and expenses as highly excessive. They sought to reduce the allowances of Harris F. Williams, counsel for the hotel company; Buckingham, Jones & Hoffman, attorneys for the first mortgage bondholders' committee, and the Chicago Title and Trust company.

The RFC obtained the bonds as part of the collateral put up by the defunct Central Republic Bank and Trust company in connection with its $90,000,000 loan.

Copies of the booklet, "Everyday Economics," may be purchased at the Chicago Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago. The price is 25 cents per copy—30 cents if sent by mail. This eighty-four page booklet contains simple explanations of financial and business terms and is a convenient guide to a fuller understanding of current economic and business news.

Automobiles and Population.

The United States has by far the largest ratio of automobiles to population of any country in the world. The world average is one car for every 48 persons. In America there is one automobile operating for every 4½ persons. The ratio for all other countries combined, except the United States, is one automobile for every 137 persons.

A recent report of the United States department of commerce, giving figures for last Jan. 1, shows that there is a wide variation in the number of cars used in various countries. In Liberia, at the bottom of the department's list, there is one car for every 12,821 inhabitants.

The United Kingdom ranks next after the United States in the number of automobiles. The other leading countries, in the order of their rank as users of automobiles, are France, Germany, Canada, and Australia.

France and Great Britain have about 51 cars for each 1,000 persons. Germany has 35 cars per 1,000 persons, according to recent data.

Of all the 43,078,630 automobiles in use in the world Jan. 1, 81.7 per cent were American makes.
